Judge Dillon, for Gould Family, Outlines What Count May Expect.

Countess de Castellane Goes to the French Court for Decree of Divorce.

Name of Prominent Society Leader Connected With Her Husband's.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In this city, information tending to confirm the Paris dispatches in regard to the Castellane separation was that given by former Judge John F. Dillon, who has long been chief counsel for the Gould family. Asked if he had been notified of the beginning of proceedings by the Countess, Judge Dillon said: "I have information that a suit has been brought, but I know nothing further about the matter."

"In the event of separation or divorce," Judge Dillon was then asked, "how will Count Boni de Castellane fare in money matters?"

"He will have no chance to get the Gould fortune," was the reply. "The Goulds had promised certain things in the way of paying debts contracted by the Count since the marriage, and I take it that they are still willing to pay those debts."

"What is the amount of those debts? Would they reach a million?"

"You can increase that."

"Would they reach five millions?"

"I would not endeavor to make an estimate, because I am not sufficiently familiar with the matter. The whole affair is being managed on the other side. Any debts that the Count contracted up to the time the estate of his wife was put under a trusteeship will be paid by members of the family. What they may contract to do beyond that is a matter for them to decide later on. This, of course, is not a statement from the family. It is merely my own opinion of what might be done."

At the office of George Gould, the invariable answer to all inquiries concerning his sister's affairs was: "I have nothing to say."

COUNTESS APPLIES TO COURTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Countess Boni de Castellane (formerly Anna Gould) entered a plea for divorce today. Representatives of the Countess and the Count appeared before Judge Henry Ditte of the Court of First Instance, who, in conformity with the French law, endeavored to arrange a conciliation before allowing a definite suit to proceed. It is said on unquestionable authority that Judge Ditte's efforts were not successful, the Countess absolutely declining to resume her relations with her husband, and that, after repeated, but vain attempts by the Count's advisers to arrange a settlement, the representatives of the Count and Countess left the court. Tomorrow the suit will proceed.

Another judicial effort at reconciliation will almost certainly be made before the suit comes to trial in the ordinary course.

No decision has been reached relative to the eventual custody of the children of the Count and Countess, but they, being under age, will naturally, for the present, remain in the care of their mother.

Friends of the Count and Countess de Castellane express little hope that any adjustment of their differences will be brought about, but as divorce proceedings under the French law are very lengthy, new developments may occur before the case comes up for trial. A decree cannot be pronounced under from three to six months.

Rumors have been current for a long time that the Countess had decided that any continuation of her relations with her husband was impossible, and her removal from the Castellane residence to a hotel in the center of Paris gave support to the belief that she had finally decided to apply for a divorce. Sensational reports have been circulated with reference to the Count's conduct and the name of a prominent society leader of Paris, a woman of very high standing, has been mentioned in connection with the affair.

EXPEDITION TO THE POLE.

NEW BEDFORD (Mass.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. George F. Tillon, a Martha's Vineyard whaling master, is planning an expedition in search of the North Pole via the North Pacific, through Bering Straits and north from Cape Bathurst to Barnes Island or Patrick's Island, thence north by dog sleds. He is raising funds now for a $90,000 250-ton steam whaling brig on the model of the Belvedir. He will have 500 dogs, and eat them if necessary

ITS STRAINS NOT DULCET.

Organ Presented to Church by Carnegie Thorn in Flesh of Certain of Congregation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The pipe organ at the Homewood Methodist Episcopal Church has become a thorn in the flesh to certain members of the congregation and the official board, who complain that not only is it a poor instrument but that it is also a source of burdensome expense which they would like to be rid of.

To others, the chief sentiment attaching to the instrument is the fact that it is a gift of Andrew Carnegie. In this connection, the fact became known today for the first time that in giving the organ to the Homewood Church Mr. Carnegie, by a cunning subterfuge, broke the rule he had established of never giving to a church in debt.

When the Homewood Church wrote to Carnegie asking for his assistance in getting an organ he promptly made inquiry into the church's financial condition. Learning that a debt rested on it, he explained his principle of giving and courteously denied the request. In this emergency, G. M. Alexander, an influential member of the congregation, who knew Mr. Carnegie personally went to plead the case.

"Well, I'll tell what I'll do," said the iron-master, "I'll make you a present of a pipe organ and you can do with it as you please." So it comes that the organ in the Homewood Church bears one plate with the inscription of its presentation by Mr. Carnegie to Mr. Alexander and another setting forth its presentation to the church by Mr. Alexander.

HE BEATS OUT THEATER TRUST.

DRAMATIC CRITIC OF "LIFE" WINS IMPORTANT POINT.

Supreme Court Dismisses, Writ of Habeas Corpus Sued Out by Manager of Wallack's—Twenty-three Other "Magnates" are Also in Distress.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James S. Metcalf, dramatic critic of Life today won an important point in his bitter fight against the theatrical trust when the Supreme Court dismissed the writ of habeas corpus sued out by Charles Burnham, manager of Wallack's Theater. Burnham was ordered remanded. He and twenty-four other managers had been held for trial on charges of criminal conspiracy in excluding Metcalf from their theaters, immediately following the loss of a civil suit for libel brought by Klaw & Erlanger, the foremost members of the syndicate, against Life.

Burnham's arrest was made a test case, and its decision means that he and all other managers must stand trial.

Another serious move against the theatrical trust was the recent institution of proceedings by the District Attorney to disclose the secrets of the trust. Klaw & Erlanger attempted to secure a Supreme Court injunction against these proceedings, on the ground that they were of the "Star Chamber" order, but the injunction was denied.

The maximum sentence which may be imposed upon Burnham and his associates in case of conviction, is one year in prison and a fine of $500 each.

VOTE FOR STATEHOOD.

Senator Beveridge Thinks it Can be Had Not Later Than March 1.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Beveridge today said that the Senate will vote on the Statehood Bill not later than March 1. He is extremely optimistic about the passage of the Hamilton bill, with maybe minor amendments. He insists that the Foraker amendment will not receive sufficient Republican votes. Senators Elkins of West Virginia and Platt of New York are two of the Senators claimed by both sides. Mr. Burkett of Nebraska, it is said, will not support the Foraker amendment in case he believes the adoption of the amendment would result in the defeat of the bill in the House. Who the other two Senators are whose names are supposed to be on both lists cannot be learned tonight.

The agreement of the Senate today to vote on the Ship Subsidy Bill February 14 paves the way for an early vote on the Statehood Bill, as the Senate will not want more than six or seven days for debate.

Senator Foraker is just as confident today as he was last week that his amendment will be adopted.

KNOCKER WALLACE.

Makes Attack Upon Canal Interests.

Former Chief Engineer Declares William N. Cromwell "Dangerous."

Now Declares He Had Other Reasons than His Pay for Resigning.

He Realized Friction Was Bound to Occur With the President's Adviser.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because of the multiplicity of William Nelson Cromwell's interests, which, he declares, run counter to the interests of the government, John F. Wallace, former chief engineer of the Panama Canal, gave it as his opinion today that Cromwell is a "dangerous" man.

This declaration to the Senate Canal Investigating Committee, coming as a climax to Wallace's description of the highly-important part which he says Cromwell plays as "Pooh-Bah" of the canal enterprise, caused a real sensation. It led to Wallace being closely questioned concerning the apparent influence Cromwell has from the first exercised in affairs of the canal, although, according to the testimony of Secretary Taft and Chairman Shonts, he has no official connection with the commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—John Findley Wallace, former chief engineer of the Ishmian Canal Commission, today testified before the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals, and related the details of his selection as chief engineer. He said he made protest particularly against what he called the "red tape" methods and a "multiplicity of masters," and then read a long statement. He first spoke of the "violent attacks upon me which Secretary Taft and Mr. Cromwell gave to the newspapers last June," and asked that judgment upon the justice of that attack be supended until he "had an opportunity to explain to you why I think it was absolutely uncalled for and unjustifiable."

He declared that the only basis for this attack was a difference of opinion between them "as to my right to decide for myself when I thought the welfare of the enterprise and my own welfare justified me in resigning my position. My appointment," he added, "named no length of time I was to hold it, and I was liable to be dismissed at any moment by telegraph. Such being the case, I believed then and believe now it was my undoubted personal right to resign whenever I thought necessary to do so, provided that I took good care that the work in my charge would suffer no harm by my resignation."

Wallace said that he came north to have a private talk with Secretary Taft to explain the real reasons for his resignation; "to put myself at his disposal, to assist him if he desired in securing my successor, etc."

GAVE ANOTHER REASON.

"When I found myself confronted with both Secretary Taft and Mr. Cromwell," he said, "I contented myself with giving as a reason for resigning the larger compensation I hoped to secure in another employment. I did so because I thought that reason would be accepted for the time being, and avoid the discussion of other reasons in the presence of Mr. Cromwell. But I soon found that they had both come to the interview determined to discredit me, and, if possible, to destroy my reputation, simply because I insisted upon resigning when I had become convinced some other man in my place could render better service to the enterprise under the conditions which, with my concurrence, had been created."

Wallace expressed his desire to give to the committee all the information in his possession resulting from a year's experience on the isthmus, and in this connection said he would be "grateful for the opportunity to reply to such criticisms as may have been publicly made in any way affecting my honor as a gentleman, my loyalty as a citizen or my reputation as an engineer."

LETS THE TYPE ALONE.

In regard to the type of canal, he asked to be excused from answering until he had an opportunity to examine the majority and minority reports of the Board of Consulting Engineers.

Concerning his understanding of his tenure of office, he read from a letter written by the President at the time the new Canal Commission was appointed, reading that he would substitute any other person whom he believed better equipped to perform the duties of commissioner. Mr. Wallace said he thought that he had been placed in a secondary position so far as exercising executive judgment was concerned, after Shonts had been appointed as head of the commission. He realized, he said, that his position was such that friction was bound to occur between himself and Shonts, and himself and Cromwell.

WHERE CROMWELL IS "AT."

The inquiry was pursued by Senator Morgan to determine "what Mr. Cromwell had to do with it." Mr. Wallace then read from a public letter issued by Secretary Taft saying that Cromwell, through designation of the President, had been acting in advisory capacity on all matters relating to canal affairs.

Referring to a visit made by Secretary Taft to the isthmus, Wallace said that Cromwell was a member of the party, and appeared to be acting as a "go between" in the matters pending between the Panama government and Secretary Taft. Letters were read showing that Cromwell had brought about the appointment of Wallace as president of the Panama Railroad. The first official notice of his appointment to the Canal Commission came from Cromwell and in the latter's office he was sworn in, said Wallace.

Mr. Morgan examined the witness regarding his interview with Secretary Taft, in New York at which Cromwell was present, and said Cromwell sent a man to meet him at the wharf and that Cromwell called at his hotel "delegated by Secretary Taft to arrange an interview."

Wallace said he told Secretary Taft there were two reasons for his trip, one personal and the other general. When asked by Senator Morgan if he had protested when Cromwell had been asked to remain at the interview by Secretary Taft, Wallace said:

"No, I thought I had made my wishes plain, and I was impressed with the fact that the Secretary seemed to be very angry, and was trying to suppress his feelings. I felt, until my resignation was accepted, I was the Secretary's subordinate. I did not want to precipitate any ill feeling, but the situation has changed my entire attitude."

"How did you regard Mr. Cromwell, as an adviser or spy?" asked Senator Morgan, and Wallace replied that he simply felt that Cromwell had a great deal of influence with the Secretary. Senator Morgan asked what reply he had made to the question as to why he had come to New York.

"I said I desired to resign as chief engineer," said Wallace. "The Secretary made no reply, and I outlined the method in which I thought my severance could be made without injury to the work. The Secretary said he disagreed with me, and that he and Mr. Cromwell seemed to be making an attempt to irritate me. I was examined as a witness in court, and affirmative and negative answers were demanded to questions without giving a chance for qualifying phrases. When this examination was over, the Secretary got off a denunciation of me which was, almost word for word, as it appeared later in the Secretary's published statement concerning my action."

CROMWELL'S MIX-UP.

Wallace went on to explain that he thought Cromwell to be mixed up in so many local enterprises on the isthmus that his views might be perverted, and if adopted by the commission scandal might be the result. One of the acts of which Wallace complained was that in which he asserted that the Panama Railroad, a year before it was taken over by this government declared dividends of $100,000 more than it had earned, and had then issued bonds for rebuilding and improving the property. This, declared Wallace, meant that the amount of money had been taken out of the pocket of Uncle Sam. He explained that Cromwell had been counsel for the road, and said the action bordered on "high finance."

Adjournment was then taken until tomorrow.

"RUNAWAY" FREIGHT HITS ANOTHER TRAIN.

Every Coach and Car in Both are Burned — Conductor and Four Others Killed—Brakeman and Passengers Injured.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) Feb. 5.—A "runaway" freight train on the Northern Pacific crashed into a passenger train, tonight, at 11:20 o'clock, about two and a half miles from here, resulting in the death of three persons whose names are known and of two others who were burned in the wreck, and whose names have not yet been learned. The known dead are:

J. S. ROBINSON of Missoula.
CHARLES BRICKLE, conductor of passenger train.
S. J. JEZICK, express messenger.

Injured:

EDWARD BROWN of this city, brakeman, so seriously injured it is thought he will die.

Other passengers were slightly injured.

Every coach in the passenger train was burned, and the freight train, which was made up of cars loaded with lumber, was also burned.

The passenger train preceded the freight out of Austin, about eight miles west of Helena. At Austin the engine was detached from the freight. There is a heavy grade from Austin to Helena, and the freight got loose. The passenger train was waiting at a crossing when the freight came thundering down. Before it could get out of the way, the freight crashed into it, throwing all the passenger cars into the ditch.

The passenger engine became uncoupled, and kept on the track ahead of the freight. After the freight had got a quarter of a mile beyond the passenger wreck, it went into the ditch and caught fire. A carload of shingles was dumped on the passenger train wreck, and made a terrific fire.

Messenger Jezick was burned alive, while four people were trying to pull him out of the wreck. He was caught under the wreckage, and could not be moved.

FATAL WRECK ON SALT LAKE ROAD.

FREIGHTS IN REAR-END COLLISION NEAR BERYL.

Conductor Meyers and Brakemen Engles and Stephens Dead and Two Others Injured—Accident Takes Place in Dense Fog Enveloping the State.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Beryl Station, 257 miles south of Salt Lake City, was the scene, at 5:30 o'clock this morning, of a rear-end collision between two freight trains of the Salt Lake Railroad, that resulted in the death of taree men and the serious injury of two more, all five being employes of the company. The dead are:

G. W. MEYERS, conductor, former resident of Omaha and latterly residing at Black Rock, this State.

W. T. ENGLES, brakeman, formerly of Pocatello, Ida., and recently of Black Rock, Utah.

W. T. STEPHENS, brakeman, residence not known.

All three men were frightfully crushed.

The injured are:

DAVID BULLER, live stock agent, who received a painful, if not dangerous scalp wound and body cuts and bruises.

E. G. HUGENIN, official watch inspector of the company.

The latter tonight telegraphed to relatives in Salt Lake that he was not badly hurt.

The accident occurred between Milford and Calientes, and happened in the dense fog that has enveloped much of Utah the past two weeks. It is ten days since the face of the sun has been seen in this city. Only once in the past thirty years has there been so long a period of fog. That was four years ago, when it lasted thirteen days. The present fog extends 400 miles, nearly the full distance of the State from north to south.

The accident was caused by the breaking in two of train No. 81 westbound, which dashed into the train ahead. The men who met death so suddenly were asleep in the caboose when the crash came. Trainmaster Smith left for the scene of the accident with a rescuing crew during the day, and is expected to return to Salt Lake tomorrow.

Boston's Assistant City Engineer Wants the Heart of Gotham's Financial District.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Harry Gordon Botsford, assistant city engineer of Boston, and a cousin of the President, is a claimant of a fortune of $5,000,000 left by his great-grandfather, Cornelius Jansen Clopper, one of the first settlers of New Amsterdam, and its wealthiest citizen.

Clopper owned thirty-three acres of land in the heart of New York's financial district, bounded by Franklin Square, Wall street and Pearl street, and a large personal fortune also. The President is also a descendant of Clopper.

Botsford has been searching the records for traces of this immense fortune, which disappeared when Clopper sold his property in 1768, after his wife died.

Arrests Follow an Unraveling.

Imperial Trustee Company of Jersey City Mixed up in a Conspiracy.

Federal Officials, After Two Years' Work, Cause Arrest of Its Officers.

Various Industrial Organizations Lay Claim to Being Defrauded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As a result of nearly two years of investigation of the affairs of the Imperial Trustee Company of Jersey City by the Federal authorities, John L. White, president of the company; Robert G. Ruxton, a banker and broker of No. 32 Broadway, and Clyde Colt, whose office is in the Vanderbilt building, were arrested today by Postoffice Inspectors Jacobs and Gibbons of this city and Inspector Cortelyou of Jersey City.

Within a few hours, Foster Hooper, vice-president of the Hanover Bank of Boston was arrested in that city.

Soon after the news of Hooper's arrest reached the inspectors in this city, Cortelyou, Jacobs and Gibbons went to the Occidental Hotel and arrested Ferderick Wagh, Philadelphia representative of the Imperial Trustee Company.

All five of the prisoners were taken on bench warrants issued by Judge Lanning of Trenton, following their indictment by the January Federal grand jury, charging them with conspiracy in using the United States mails to defraud. The specific charges against White and Colt are that they conspired to defraud the Commonwealth Heat and Light Company of Pittsburgh.

White and Ruxton are accused of defrauding the Chanute Clay Manufacturing Company of Chanute, Kan., while White and Hanover are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Scranton, Factoryville and Tunkhannock Railroad Company out of $4000.

It was the transactions of the Imperial Trustee Company with various young corporations needing money that led the postoffice inspectors and the New Jersey banking department, which has aided in bringing about the indictments of the five men, into what at first appeared to the officials to be an inextricable tangle of modern financiering. About two years ago the attention of the Federal authorities and the Jersey City police was called to the company by complaints from many corporations and individuals, principally in the West, declaring they had not been well treated by the Imperial Trustee Company. According to the postoffice inspectors, they were called into the case by the New Jersey Banking Department, and Cortelyou made the first investigation for his department. He says he discovered, in looking up the officers of the Imperial Trustee Company, that besides White, Francis McFarlan was named as secretary and treasurer and the board of directors was said to include A. M. Beers of Newcomerstown, O.; A. B. Linderman of Philadelphia; F. W. Jacobs of Massachusetts, and Walter B. Selover of Jersey City.

Further search showed that a combination headed by the Imperial Trustee Company had organized the Capital Securities and Purchasing Company, dealers in stocks and bonds, with offices in the Metropolitan Life building in this city.

ARNHEIM LED THE BAND.

Man Who Played While Dewey Sank Spanish Ships is Now Sought by His Wife.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. M. P. Arnheim of Collinwood, O., wife of the man who led the band on board the battleship Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship, while the American gunners were blowing the Spanish fleet to pieces in Manila Bay, has appealed to Chief of Police O'Connor to ask his assistance in finding her husband, Max Paul Arnheim, if possible.

Arnheim met his wife in New York six years ago. After the husband had served out his time in the navy, he and his bride went to live in Toledo, where he got a position as a musician. He was induced to desert her, Mrs. Arnheim says, by a man who said that he could earn more money in other cities.

AERO CLUB EXPERIMENTS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It was announced today that the midwinter experiments of the Aero Club will begin next Monday at Tuxedo, N. Y. Several French aeronauts will take part in the experiments. In a few days the Comte de la Vaulx of the French club will arrive in New York to make ascensions with members of the local organization.

MAILS TO THE PACIFIC COAST.

Transcontinental Lines Eliminate Speed Competition.

Two Hours More Time to this City from Chicago.

Government Agents Investigating the "Pennsy."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The transcontinental railroads reached an agreement today that will practically eliminate all competition for the coming mail contracts west of Chicago to the Pacific Coast. In pursuance of an agreement, notices were sent out by three roads operating fast transcontinental mail trains that after next Sunday, the running time of California Limited of the Santa Fé, the Los Angeles Limited train of the Northwestern, the Union Pacific and San Pedro and Los Angeles, and Golden State Limited of the Rock Island and Southern Pacific would be increased from 67 1-4 hours between Chicago and Los Angeles to 69 1-4 hours.

By this arrangement the Santa Fé relinquishes some of the mail it now secures at Kansas City and Rock Island will get some of this, while the Northwestern and Union Pacific will secure some new mail at Chicago from the East. The present schedules have resulted in blocking the sidetracks of the Western roads with freight traffic for long periods. The roads concerned have agreed not to engage in any speed war to secure undue preference in mail contracts to be awarded in the spring.

TOO FAST RUNNING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is reported in Topeka railway circles that next Wednesday the Santa Fé and Rock Island and Union Pacific Railway companies will issue circulars announcing the lengthening of time on limited trains between Chicago and the Pacific Coast. It is not known how much more time will be given to make this run, but officials of all three roads held a meeting in which it was decided that the present schedule called for too fast running, and it was ordered that the time must be lengthened.

The principal reason for this change in schedule is that none of the roads is able to make regularity in time under the present arrangement.

WILL USE MOTOR CARS.

ON THE NEW YORK CENTRAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] On authority of a high official of the New York Central Railroad, the announcement was made today that the company is preparing to meet suburban trolley competition with gasoline motor cars on its short branches.

The driving power is to be a gasoline-burning mechanism like that which sends automobiles at whirlwind speed. At a shop in the East, the company is having constructed a gasoline-motor car that resembles a large street car, which will be officially tested within a month by a run from Weehawken to Chicago. The car will have a speed of sixty miles an hour. Two men operate the car, a chauffeur and conductor. It will seat fifty persons.

For some time gasoline motor cars have been operated with success on the Dunkirk, Allegheny and Western. The success of the experiment on that line has moved the New York Central to try it.

FAST MAIL RUN.

GOULD LINES DISAPPOINTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) Feb. 5.—The first run of the fast mail train over the Gould lines ended with some disappointment, as the schedule was not made exactly on the minute. The Iron Mountain turned the cars over thirty-five minutes late at Texarkana. The Cotton Belt had bad luck on its run, and lost thirty minutes additional, landing its section at Fort Worth one hour and five minutes late.

The Texas and Pacific made up ten minutes of the lost time between Texarkana and Longview, and the International and Great Northern took the cars twenty-five minutes behind the schedule. The whole of that time was made up between Longview and Palestine, where there was another division, one car going to Houston, arriving here five minutes late on the schedule, and the other to San Antonio, where the finish was twenty-five minutes behind the announced time.

GRAND TRUNK TRIBUTARIES.

GREAT SYSTEM OF BRANCHES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A special to the Tribune from Toronto, Ont., says: A great system of branch lines tributary to the Grand Trunk Pacific will come before Parliament at the coming session. The construction of no fewer than twenty-three branch lines is planned. Many of them will serve as feeders to the Grand Trunk system through the Northwest, drawing business from points north and south of the main line.

This programme is hardly likely to escape without opposition from the Canadian Pacific when such a sweeping inroad into territory where the latter company has long enjoyed a monopoly is planned. The cry is bound to be heard that the Grand Trunk is seeking a blanket charter, but if the company can show that it intends to give competition and improved railway service to districts in which they are now lacking, Parliament may lend a sympathetic ear to the proposal.

HE "BEATS THE BAND."

HARRIMAN PLAYS TRIANGLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edward H. Harriman, with many millions of dollars at his command, having taken in the Illinois Central Railroad, with its subsidiary lines, the Harriman, Union Pacific and other interests are now in control of approximately 22,276 miles of territory lines, with terminal stations on both coasts of the United States, and in many cities between the Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico.

The story of the merger was confirmed today by a Chicago banker, who is close to the Harriman railway lines. It has been an open secret that the Harriman interests have been picking up Illinois Central stock in the market for months. At the present time, it is said to own at least 240,000 shares, the par value of which is $24,000,000. Harriman now steps to the front as the greatest railway magnate in the world. The freight situation in the Middle and Far West is in his control.

Formerly Harriman's roads skirted the Pacific Coast from Puget Sound to Southern California, east to New Orleans and west from Omaha to the Pacific again. Now his lines form a triangle, the three points of which are Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco. Between is his gridiron. This enormous transportation system embraces the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chicago and Alton, Kansas City Southern and Illinois Central roads, with a total mileage of 22,276 and connections by the hundreds on land and sea.

John T. Harahan, second vice-president of the Illinois Central, in charge of the operating department, said today he had not been advised of the merger.

"If the deal has been put through," he said, "then the place to get facts is in the office of Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central. There is no reason why we out here should know any of the details at present."

Harahan went to St. Louos tonight, but denied that his trip had anything to do with the merger, or that he was to hold a conference there with any one.

UNION PACIFIC FIGURES.

Union Pacific reports for December: Gross earnings, $5,575,197; operating expenses, $2,952,040, net $5,623,146. From July 1, gross, $35,817,084; operating expenses, $18,621,240; net, $17,195,844.

VANDERBILTS OUTWITTED.

ERIE MAKES NEW MOVE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Vanderbilts have at last been outwitted by the Erie, and the latter road will soon have a direct connection with Pittsburgh, getting in via Sharon, over the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh. This connection will be independent of the Lake Erie road.

For several years there has existed what has been known as the "triparlite arrangement" between the Erie and Lake Erie and the Lake Shore. For years there has been more or less dissatisfaction with the arrangements.

The Erie and the Lake Shore are competitors for eastern and western business, and for that reason the Vanderbilts tried desperately to keep the Erie out of Pittsburgh.

ROCK ISLAND IN MEXICO.

APPLICATION TO BE MADE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Robert Mather, vice-president of the Rock Island Company and head of the legal department, will arrive here on February 13 for the purpose of arranging the legal details for an application to the Mexican government for permission to extend the Rock Island system into this country. The proposed new line, it is reported, will enter Mexico from El Paso, and will run to a port on the Pacific Coast.

INVESTIGATING "PENNSY."

GOVERNMENT AGENTS OUT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The presence in Pittsburgh of agents from the Department of Commerce and Labor who are investigating the accounts and records of the Pennsylvania Railroad, under direction of the President, assumed a new aspect today. It can now be stated with certainty that their mission is to kill two birds with one stone.

Not only are they investigating the Pennsylvania's oil rates in its relation to the Standard Oil Company, but they are also looking for evidence to support the charges made to the Interstate Commerce Commission that the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio have entered into an unlawful merger on the plan of the Northern Pacific merger.

In no place are the interests of the two lines so identical as in Pittsburgh. Abundant evidence of their intimate relationship in freight and passenger traffic may be found in a hundred places here. In Pittsburgh, the fact is so continually impressed on one that the interests of the two lines are identical that no one ever thinks of questioning the assertion that an actual merger has been accomplished.

H. D. Brown, commissioner from Garfield's department, when asked, today, if the scope of his investigations did not include looking for evidence of a merger, as well as evidence in regard to oil rates, was visibly embarrassed. He was silent for a moment, and then replied: "I would like very much to make a public statement concerning my mission. I believe the public should know what it is, and I am also convinced that my department would, under ordinary circumstances, have no objection to making it public. But, out of courtesy to the railroads whose books and accounts I am investigating, I am bound to say nothing. That is as far as I can go."

NOT INSURER OF SAFETY.

WALK ON TRACK; NO DAMAGES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—In the Circuit Court of Appeals today a decision was rendered in the case of Harry S. Jones vs. the Northern Pacific Railroad Company.

This company has a seven-mile road running from Wallace to Burk, in Shoshone county, Idaho. Part of this road runs through a cañon, and it was the habit of the general public to use the tracks as a highway. Jones, while walking on the track, was struck by a train. He brought suit and was awarded $7500 damages. The Circuit Court has reversed the decision, instructing the lower court to give a decision for the railway company.

The opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals was written by Judge Gilbert, who said, in part: "A general license to the public to walk upon a railroad track does not mean that the railroad company is to be the insurer of the safety of all persons who avail themselves of that permission."

Putting Salinas in Touch.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Feb. 5.—Rumor has it that the Pajaro Valley Consolidated Railway Company is making preparations to apply for a franchise and right of way from their depot to Salinas. With such a franchise, the Pajaro Valley road would place Salinas in direct connection with Spreckels, Moss Landing and Watsonville. It would undoubtedly make a difference in the freight rates.

Merchandise being shipped by water via Moss Landing would have rapid and direct transportation to Salinas and thereby give the advantage of cheap and rapid transit by way of two lines.

Violently Oppose Electric Franchise.

REDWOOD CITY, Feb. 5.—The application of the Peninsular Railroad Company for a franchise along the county road and Middlefield roads came up before the Board of Supervisors today and met with violent opposition on the part of the large property owners of the county. A petition in opposition to granting the franchise was presented and supported in speeches. Senator O'Neill of San José, represented the railroad people. The matter was laid over until the second meeting in July. The opposition is solely against the use of public roads by electric cars.

CHIEF KIELY OUSTED.

For Thirty Years Head of St. Louis Police Department—False Reports are Alleged.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chief of Police Kiely, who has been connected with the department thirty years, was suspended by the Board of Police Commissioners, today, after he had refused to resign when requested, and had sent a letter to the board demanding a trial on charges to be preferred by the board.

When first asked to resign, Kiely asked that he be made a captain, but was told that this could not be considered. After his suspension, he turned his shield and office over to Assistant Chief Gillaspy and left police headquarters.

Two charges will be preferred against Kiely. One will be based on the testimony of Sergeant Dorsey, who was dismissed after he had sworn that he made false reports at Kiely's suggestion, and the other will deal with transfers made by Kiely.

President Stewart said the police board did not believe Kiely had done his duty as chief, but that no charges of "graft" had been made against him. Kiely's trial will take place as soon as the charges are preferred. He will not be allowed counsel at the trial, which will be according to police manual.

NEBRASKA LAND FRAUDS.

Arrest of Irving D. Hull With Other Ranchers—Studebaker Interests Mixed up in it.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the land-fraud cases Irving D. Hull of Mirage, Neb., was arrested today, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with procuring alleged fraudulent filings upon public lands said to be for Bartlett Richards and William Comstock. Other prominent ranchmen are said to have also been mixed up with Hull.

Ranches owned by the Studebaker Brothers of South Bend, Ind., are said to be mixed up with Richards and Comstock. The entries made for the alleged benefit of Richards and Comstock will be investigated by a special grand jury.

In addition to Hull, three other arrests have been made on charges of subornation and fraudulent filings.

Monnett of Ohio, leaves to confer with Gov. Cummins of Iowa. The result is expected to be an open letter to the President on the insurance question.

WEST TEXAS COTTON CROP.

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The cotton output of Grand Falls Valley of West Texas shows an increase of from six hundred to two thousand bales the past season. Cotton-raising is a new industry in this district, and a great advance is being made. A still greater increase of acreage will be made next year. The increase this year is so great that ginning facilities are inadequate, and 1400 bales are still in the field, while the gins work day and night.

WEST INDIES TEMBLOR.

Cable Communication, Though Almost Restored, Brings No Word of Buena Ventura.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Telegraphic and cable communications, the interruption of which within the West Indian earthquake zone, last Saturday, led to fears of disaster, is now completely restored. Buena Ventura, Colombia, accessible only in normal times by the Western Union's short cable from Colon, Panama, remains isolated. Messages for that and other points in the United States of Colombia are being accepted, however, at the Western Union's cable office. These are transmitted to Colon, and from there are carried overland at the sender's risk.

All messages for South America are being transmitted by the Commercial Cable Company, via the Azores.

COLD WAVE MOVING TOWARD THE GULF.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Darkness enveloped Chicago for two hours, today, as heavy banks of storm clouds formed over the city, turning day almost to blackness of night. As the clouds lowered, a snowstorm began with a flurry and eventually worked into a heavy fall of snow. In the downtown district, the snowfall was less than an inch, while at Hammond, Ind., a southern suburb, six inches were reported before 1 p.m.

At Oak Park and Evanston, northern suburbs, at that hour about an inch of snow had fallen, but the storm was on in earnest. By that time the sun had penetrated the cloud bank over the downtown district, and at Hammond the sun was shining brightly, with promise of a clear, crisp winter day. The freak of weather was purely local, and at the Weather Bureau it was said the snowstorm could not extend fifty miles away from the lake.

A menace to the weather conditions in Florida has appeared in the temperature reported from Nashville, 26 degs., and from Atlanta, which was but 40 degs. above zero. The highest temperature recorded in the United States was 62 degs., from Los Angeles.

Moderating weather is predicted for the next twelve hours.

TACOMA, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President H. P. Scott of the Pacific Telephone Company has stirred up telephone matters by an interview in which he declares he will so fill the air with telephone cables along the principal streets of Tacoma that rain cannot get through. Speaking further, he says:

"I will show those City Council people what they have to buck up against. As I have been president of the company for three Councilmen turned down my application for a franchise for an underground system, I would have given a thing or two. Mayor Bellingham of the Council replied: "I think this man must be crazy to make such statements. ADMIRAL DISMISSES ALLEN.

STANFORD EDITOR QUITS CAMPUS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PALO ALTO, LELAND STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 5. [Exclusive Dispatch.] The Students Executive Committee of Stanford University, controlled by President Jordan, this morning caused more disturbance and excitement among students than has been known for many years on Stanford's usually quiet campus. The reason for the commotion was the dismissal by Dr. S. Allen, editor of the Quad, the Daily Palo Alto, from his position for an editorial written and published a few days ago.

For the past three weeks the faculty has been trying to install a new system of government in Encina Hall, a men's dormitory. This system has met with the disapproval of all students and has been only by the greatest persuasion that the faculty was able to secure enough men to hold the positions of proctors. These get free room rent. Their duty is to keep the hall quiet and protect property. In order to do this, they must, of course, spy more or less on their fellow-students. Representatives of the hall have in a body refused to accept such duties.

The college papers have in editorials voiced the feeling of the college regarding this subject and condemned one of these that Allen had written his head the decree of dismissal from college. He said in effect that men of Encina justly resented the imputation that they are dangerous men who must be repressed with a strong hand. And it might be well to inform committees that the representative occupants of the rooms pay cash rental for their quarters.

This has been an unusually popular step, as it has three and a half years been in force. In the eyes of the students it has been most unjustly discriminately voicing college opinion against. The affair certainly has added to the popularity of Green, chairman of the "Flunking Committee," and Dr. Jordan, who has been especially in putting Allen out of college.

ADMIRAL ALLISON SUES.

CLAIMS CREW INCOMPETENT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Feb. 5.—United States Atty. J. A. Frye this afternoon began a personal investigation of the steamboat disaster in accordance with instructions received from the attorney-general. Cornelius Allison was one of the survivors of the wreck and the only witness called this afternoon. The witness was examined principally the same lines as those followed before the marine inspectors last week. Marine Inspector Edward Turner also interrogated the witness.

Allison has brought action for $5000 damages against the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, and in his complaint charges that the officers and crew were incompetent and unskilled and that the equipment of the vessel was faulty.

Mr. Frye will resume the investigation Thursday or Friday, as he will be occupied before the grand jury at Tacoma for several days.

Tonight, A. H. Hawkins, G. D. Harraden and J. F. McCaffery, three passengers who were aboard the Valencia, were notified by the management of the local hotel in which they were stopping that the Pacific Coast Steamship Company declined to be responsible for further accounts. Attorney Frye, when notified of this, wired the Attorney General for authority to provide for the maintenance of the three men until the investigation is concluded.

NEWSPAPER MAN'S FATE.

TAKES POISON WHEN HOPELESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKER CITY (Or.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Discouraged by an unsuccessful search for work, Herman C. West, a La Grande newspaper man about 28 years old, who came here last Thursday, committed suicide by taking morphine in a room at the Crabbill Hotel, some time Saturday night. The body was not discovered until 6 o'clock Sunday night.

West was without means, and hoped that his wife would profit from his life insurance. He left the following letter in a coat pocket:

"Greta, My Own Darling Heart: Girlie, Herman is of so little assistance to you and helps so little that he can do more for you by seeking 'that undiscovered country.' I want you to have all the insurance policy, although it is not made out in your name. Oh, Greta, how Herman hates to leave you. He loves you so much, and you have been so good to him. Remember alway that Herman loved you and the children, that he was willing to give up his own life that you might all be benefited. My heart is bursting. Farewell.

[Signed] "HERMAN."

GONE BEFORE HIS WEDDING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—The Call has the following dispatch from Oakland:

"Threatened with death at the hands of a mysterious woman if he ever dared to marry another, Charles S. Thompson, vice-principal of the Livermore High School, has disappeared on the eve of his wedding to Miss Alma Hand, the daughter of Mrs. V. Hand of No. 1528 Sherman street, Alameda.

"Only a few days after his engagement to Miss Hand had been announced Thompson left the High School at Livermore, telling some of his friends among the students that he was suffering from the effects of ptomaine poisoning, and was going to San Francisco for treatment. Since that time there has been no word or sight of him, so far as Livermore knows."

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Captains Kidnap Alaskan Women.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—Captains of whaling vessels have been accused of kidnaping native Alaskan women, and the United States government has ordered a rigorous investigation. Collector Stratton today received instructions from the Department of Commerce and Labor ordering him to investigate the matter and arrest the offenders. The charge is made in a report to the department by Capt. Hamlet of the revenue cutter Bear, who cruised in northern waters during the winter.

Cattlemen of State Organize.

SALINAS, Feb. 5.—Cattlemen from forty different localities, representing seventeen counties, met in convention this afternoon to perfect a State cattlemen's organization which intends to further the interests of the producer and to devise remedies for present conditions. The roll call showed that ninety persons had signed the agreement. Announcement was made that several organizations in Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys would affiliate with the State body when fully organized. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution. The next meeting is set for Saturday, March 3, at Salinas.

Badly Hurt By Racing Mobe.

RED BLUFF, Feb. 5.—Robert J. Freeman, a liveryman, was run down and seriously injured today by an automobile driven by G. K. King, manager of the Cone and Kilball Company. Freeman was struck while crossing Main street, when King and another automobilist were racing their machines. He was knocked down and dragged about fifty yards. King pleaded guilty to fast driving before Judge Bransford, who took the matter of a fine under advisement until the seriousness of Freeman's injuries are ascertained.

ACCUSES WITNESS OF PERJURY.

Packers' Man, MacFarlane, Subjected to Sharp Cross-examination by Government's Counsel.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—But one witness was on the stand today in the packers' case. This was C. W. MacFarlane, office manager for Morris & Co. His evidence related to the manner in which the agents of the government were given information in the office of Morris & Co. The cross-examination by United States Dist.-Atty. Morrison was exceedingly sharp. Just before the adjournment of court, the District Attorney put some leading questions regarding the working of the Oppenheimer Company, which, it is claimed by the government, was one of the affiliated concerns through which the packers controlled the prices of by-products. He made the direct assertion that the witness was not telling the truth in his answers, and brought on a warm legal argument, in which all the attorneys in the case took part. The question was finally ruled out by the court.

During the noon recess of court Atty.-Gen. Moody said in reply to questions: "I notice that the attorneys for the packers have produced evidence to the effect that Commissioner Garfield said he would not give to the Department of Justice the information he secured from the packers. If he ever said that he certainly kept his word, for the Department of Justice never received any information from him. Neither did we receive information from the President, nor from any of the subordinate officers of the Department of Justice."

Dist.-Atty. Morrison, at the opening of the afternoon session of the court, refused to admit the authenticity of a letter written by President Roosevelt and incorporated in a report from the Attorney General to the Senate. The matter is now a public document. The portion of the letter has to do with the allegation of the packers that part of the report of Commissioner Garfield was used by the Department of Justice. It is as follows: "With my approval the Department of Justice, with the assistance of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has for some months been endeavoring to find out whether or not they can obtain legal advice of such willful and deliberate violation of the injunction by any individual. If the grand jury now sitting in Chicago find indictments against individuals connected with the packing corporations, it will be because, in their judgment, such legal evidence of the violation of the injunction has been laid before them."

Atty.-Gen. Moody was an interested listener during that cross-examination of Mr. Farlane and made many suggestions to the District Attorney.

DUMMIES OF DURHAM HALED INTO "COURT."

Israel G. Stone, Brother of an Ex-Governor, Admits He Did Nothing for the Pay He Drew—Another Was to "Keep Philadelphia Clean."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I did nothing in return for the pay I drew."

This honest confession came today from the lips of Israel G. Stone, one of ex-Boss Durham's pay roll in the State Insurance Department. Stone, who is a brother of ex-Gov. Stone, and who started out "walking," a few days ago, had been overhauled, by an officer and brought before the committee investigating the State insurance graft. Stone's honest testimony was so different from that of the other "dummies" whom Durham had appointed that it was roundly applauded.

"I got tired of doing nothing," added Stone, "so I wrote to Durham asking h...a to give me something to do to earn my salary. He did not answer my letter."

E. J. Davis, another of Durham's "Phantom Pay Roll," also admitted that he did not kill himself with work. His nominal job, however, was to "keep Philadelphia clean." By that, he explained, Durham meant that he was to see that no brokers' offices in the Quaker City were violating the law. Davis said this was an easy job, for the Philadelphia brokers were all "nice law-abiding fellows."

Deputy Commissioner McCulloch testified today that former Commissioner James H. Lambert had received in addition to his salary, large amounts of money from the State treasury for which he performed no services. McCulloch also testified that the checks and vouchers in blank were sent from the department here to Erb and Durham in Philadelphia, and that they there filled out checks and vouchers for the persons who had no connection with the Insurance Department, but were retainers at Durham's political headquarters, or just mere machine pensioners "off in the backwoods somewhere."

McCulloch swore that this was done at the direction of Commissioner Durham and Capt. Erb, and that in many instances the people who received money illegally from the State were allowed to fill out their own vouchers.

The taking of testimony was concluded today, unless the Assembly shall continue the commission of inquiry indefinitely.

FOR CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS.

LATER: The report of the investigating committee to the Legislature will recommend criminal and civil proceedings against George B. Lupert, James H. Lambert and Israel W. Durham, former insurance commissioners.

THAT ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Report Reaches Ottawa that Uncle Sam Still Has His Eye Upon It.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Canadian government has no knowledge of the negotiations which, according to a special from Washington, are progressing between the United States State Department and the British Foreign Office, looking to joint action for the marking of the Alaska boundary along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. There has been correspondence in years past on the subject. Had it lately been renewed, it would scarcely have been without the knowledge of the Canadian authorities.

Eight years ago Canada gave her consent to a treaty providing for the marking of this line by a joint commission of British and American experts, but for some reason the arrangement did not commend itself to Uncle Sam's Senate, and, accordingly, failed to receive their ratification. It is almost two decades since William Ogilvie took observations to establish the precise point at which the one hundred and forty-first meridian intersected the Yukon River.

American astronomers took observations, also, for their government, and when the results were compared it was found that their line was about one thousand feet distant from that laid down by Ogilvie. Canada was willing in the treaty that its negotiators framed eight years ago to leave the matter absolutely in the hands of the scientific experts of the two countries, and if they were unable to agree, to split the difference between the two lines.

American dispatches hint at another attempt to settle the boundary question.

On information furnished by Sheriff Ross, the San Francisco police yesterday arrested Emile Leon, a San José brewer, who is charged with embezzlement by Paul Cavala of Gilroy.

NERVOUS BABIES

The Exact Cause.

Many a child, while nursing, has acquired an appetite for strong drink because the mother used beverages containing alcohol. A letter from an Elgin, Ill., mother illustrates the necessity of great care as to the mother's food and drink while she is nursing her child:

"What I have to say should be of interest to mothers who are so fortunate as to be able to nurse their babies," she writes. "Until my first baby came I did not realize that coffee was the cause of the severe attacks of nervousness to which I was subject at times. I found that when one of these attacks came upon me, baby was affected in the same way, at about the same time, and reflection led me to conclude that it was the coffee I drank that was making us both ill.

"Having read an article about Postum Food Coffee, I decided to give it a trial, and when I had learned to prepare it properly by boiling it at least 20 minutes, I found that with cream, it was a delicious drink. And it proved most beneficial to the health of both of us.

"However, when I gave up the old coffee, I thought there would be no harm in having one cup of the old kind on Sunday mornings for old time's sake. Two Sundays showed me the folly of this. I was amazed at the influence the coffee had on my own and baby's nerves. It made me restless and unstrung till its effects had time to wear off, and about the time I began to feel easier it began to affect baby through the milk, so that it spoiled our entire day. When I found this to be the case I gave up the Sunday morning coffee indulgence.

"And that ended the nervous attacks for both of us. This was five years ago, and I have used Postum regularly ever since, and enjoy it as much as I ever did the other kind of coffee.

"I believe that the fretful condition of many babies is caused by the coffee-drinking habit of the mother.

"It is hard to deny children the drink they see their parents enjoying at table, and it is a great comfort to be able to let them have all the Postum they want. Served with cream it has proved an ideal beverage for my 3 little ones.

"I found also that Postum is a great producer of healthy milk, and am sure that many a worried mother would be benefited by its use. I cannot commend it too highly." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

POOR FARM HORRORS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In a communication to the County Commissioners today, President Edward Brundage of the Cook county board exposed some of the horrors obtaining at Dunning Poor Farm of this city. He declared the number of tuberculosis cases had increased so rapidly that the corridors at Dunning were packed with patients, and that hopeful cases and dying patients were all huddled together, which means all patients will die. He also called attention to several instances where persons dying of consumption were hurried over twelve miles of rough pavement and literally thrown into an asylum. President Brundage said there were plenty of records showing consumptives had expired a few hours later.

"SQUARE DEAL" FOR CHINESE.

Secretary Metcalf Approves a Revision of Laws.

Special Committee Reports Important Suggestions.

Senate Listens to Patterson and Ben Tillman.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor today took action which is expected to ameliorate considerably the friction between this country and China, and perhaps cause the abandonment of the anti-American boycott, when he approved the report of the special committee composed of Assistant Secretary Murray, Solicitor Sims and Richard Campbell of the Bureau of Immigration, providing for a radical revision of the existing regulations under which Chinese may enter and reside in this country. The commission's report touches by way of either excision or amendment twenty-four of the existing regulations.

Secretary Metcalf.

Besides certain alterations that promise to avoid delay in landing Chinese who apply for admission, other alterations have been made when possible, with a view to avoiding action that would seem offensive, provided that the object intended by such regulations could be accomplished otherwise. As an illustration of this, the commission recommended the discontinuance of the Bertillon system of identification.

Another amendment of the regulations recommended by the commission is a requirement that the administrative officers should advise Chinese persons, either laborers or of the exempted classes, before their departure from the United States of the conditions under which they will be admitted upon their return. Upon this point the officers are directed to use special care, so that no Chinese person who has a right to reside in this country shall be allowed to depart therefrom under a mistaken impression that he will be readmitted.

Provisions are also made for the notification of Chinese who have been denied admission at the ports of entry of their right to appeal from such denial to the Secretary, such notice being required, under the new regulations, to be in the Chinese tongue, and the further precaution to be taken to notify the Chinese Consul if there be such an officer at the port of entry, of the adverse action of the officers at such port in the case of any Chinese person, so that said consular officer may have the opportunity, should he deem such a course necessary, to employ counsel or otherwise interest himself in behalf of his countryman.

BOMB IN CAMP OF DEMOCRATS.

SENATOR PATTERSON STARTLES HIS PARTY IN THE SENATE.

Introduces Resolutions Denunciatory of the Caucus Action in Respect to the Santo Domingo Treaty. Mr. Tillman Rises to Object and Asks for Time for Speech.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Patterson of Colorado, who bolted the Democratic caucus, Saturday, rather than be bound by it to vote against the ratification of the treaty with Santo Domingo, tossed a bomb into the Democratic camp, today, when he introduced the most remarkable series of resolutions ever read in the Senate.

Mr. Patterson is warmly encouraged in his stand by Republicans who are close to the President. Senator Lodge had prepared resolutions on similar lines, but gave way to Mr. Patterson. The whole matter will be the subject of debate tomorrow, when Mr. Patterson will call up his resolution and speak on it, and Messrs. Bailey, Tillman and others are expected to reply.

The feeling among Democratic Senators is running very high, and they are exceedingly bitter in denouncing Mr. Patterson. Senator Tillman rose to object to immediate consideration of the resolutions, and urged that the resolutions go over for one day, so that he could make some remarks upon the subject.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Mr. Patterson caused a sensation in the Senate today by introducing a resolution relative to the rights of Senators in voting upon treaties.

Mr. Patterson's resolution recited that the action of the Democratic caucus, indicating to Senators how they should vote, was a plain violation of the spirit and intent of the Constitution of the United States; that each Senator was entitled to one vote, and any attempt to coerce him was an invasion of the rights of a State; that any Senator who permits himself to be so coerced weakens and degrades his State; that for any Senator to vote otherwise than as his sense of duty dictates degrades his high office and assails the dignity and standing of the Senate.

THAT DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

Mr. Patterson introduced and had read the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Constitution provides that the Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State chosen by the Legislatures thereof and that each Senator shall have one vote, and whereas, each Senator, before assuming the duties of his office, is required solemnly to swear or affirm that he will support and defend the Constitution of the United States and that he will faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which he is about to enter, and whereas, it was currently reported that one or more Democratic Senators might vote on a certain matter pending before the Senate contrary to the views of a majority of the body of the Democratic Senators, the Democratic Senators were called to caucus on such matters, and whereas, it was found at such caucus that such reports were correct, and that certain Democratic Senators might vote or would vote contrary to the views of said majority, and whereas, thereupon the following resolutions were presented and adopted by more than two-thirds of the Senators present at said caucus. (Here were inserted the resolutions adopted by the Democratic caucus.) And whereas, the apparent purpose of said resolutions and actions was improperly to induce or coerce Democratic Senators who might believe that the best interests of the country required the ratification of said treaty and because thereof held it to be their duty to vote for its ratification, and into disregarding that part of their oaths in which they declared that they would faithfully discharge the duties of the office of Senators, therefore be it,

"Resolved, First, That such action by the said or any other caucus is in plain violation in spirit and intent of the Constitution of the United States.

"Second, That for two-thirds or any other number of the Senators of any party to meet and declare that 'it shall be the duty of any Senator to vote upon any question other than as his own convictions impel him is a plain violation of the manifest intent and spirit of the legislation all have sworn to uphold and defend.

"Third, That the 'one vote' the Constitution declares each Senator shall have is his own vote, and not the vote of any other or of any number of other Senators and for a Senator to cast that 'one vote' against his convictions of right and duty in the premises is to disfranchise his State in the Senate and to deprive it of the representation in that body the Constitution provides it shall have.

"Fourth, That when any number of Senators, by combination or otherwise, undertake through any species of coercion to induce other Senators to vote except as their judgments and consciences tell them, it is an invasion of the rights of a State to equal representation of other States in the Senate, and is subversive of their rights to equal representation and the votes of its Senators in the Senate that the Constitution has provided for.

"Fifth, That the Senator who permits any body of other Senators to define to him what is his duty in the matter of his vote in the Senate and who casts his vote in response to such interference, votes not as a Senator from his own State, but as a Senator from the other States, and he augments the power of the other States beyond that permitted by the Constitution and weakens the power of his own State in the Senate in violation of the spirit of the Constitution.

"Sixth, That for any Senator to vote except as his judgment and sense of duty under his oath of office require is to degrade the high office of Senator and to assail the dignity and standing of the Senate of the United States—qualities possessed in such degree by no other legislative body in the world."

MR. TILLMAN ARISES.

The resolution came as a surprise. Mr. Patterson and Mr. Tillman rose simultaneously, but Mr. Patterson received recognition from the chair.

"Does the Senator from Colorado yield to the Senator from South Carolina?" asked the Vice-President, but before Mr. Patterson could reply Mr. Tillman stated that he merely rose to make inquiry as to the parliamentary status.

"Is it a question of personal privilege?" he asked and Mr. Patterson replied in the negative.

"I object to consideration, then," said Mr. Tillman.

"There is no intention of asking consideration at this time," responded Mr. Patterson.

"The resolution is of such a character that no harm can come from its lying over. I ask that the consideration of the resolution be postponed until tomorrow and to give notice that I shall then ask to be heard on it."

The further consideration of the resolution was accordingly postponed for twenty-four hours.

MR. LODGE HAS ONE.

Mr. Lodge had prepared a resolution similar to that of Senator Patterson declaring that a treaty like the Dominican should not be made the subject of party action, but withheld it when he heard that Mr. Patterson had prepared a resolution. This he heard from the lips of the Colorado Senator, who claimed the privilege of presenting the matter. Mr. Lodge conceded the superiority of Mr. Patterson's claim.

TILLMAN AND POSTAL CLERKS.

Mr. Tillman presented and the Senate adopted a resolution calling upon the Postmaster-General for information as to the number of postal clerks killed in railroad accidents during the past five years; also asking how many steel cars are now used in the postal service and whether the fatalities have been so great in those as in other cars.

STATEHOOD BILL.

After the passage of a few bills of minor importance, the Statehood Bill was reached on the calendar and Mr. Lodge objected to present consideration.

Mr. Beveridge said he hoped the bill could be read and a time fixed to dispose of it.

Mr. Foraker said he opposed the bill in its present form, and hoped to see it modified, but he was ready to vote at any time.

THE SHIPPING BILL.

The Shipping Bill was then taken up, and Mr. Teller addressed the Senate on that subject. He made reply to the intimations that the funds used in connection with the irrigation reclamation service had been given as a bounty to the West, claiming that it rather was in the nature of a loan than a gift, and saying that it is a benefaction only in that no interest is required to be paid on it.

He contended that the irrigation law is of as much importance to the East as to the West, and said the fact that eastern Senators had voted for that measure supplies no reason why western Senators should vote for the Shipping Bill. He referred to the fact that the treasury reports show an increasing deficit, and asked where the money with which to pay the proposed subsidies is to be secured.

When Mr. Teller concluded, the Senate agreed to a request made by Mr. Gallinger to vote on the Shipping Bill, Wednesday, February 14, at 3 p.m.

The Senate at 3:10 p.m. went into executive session, and at 3:27 o'clock adjourned.

Report by Interstate Commerce Commission.

Less Competition in Rates Since the Combining.

Littlefield Thinks Pictures of "Distress" too Lurid.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The President today transmitted to the House the following report submitted to him by the Interstate Commerce Commission in response to a resolution regarding the alleged combination of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and in violation of the anti-trust law.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION,
Feb. 2, 1906.

To the President: The Interstate Commerce Commission has the honor to submit the following in response to your request of January 29, enclosing a resolution addressed that day by the House of Representatives, which reads as follows:

"Resolved, That the President of the United States be and he is hereby requested, if not incompatible with the public interests, to report to the House of Representatives for its information all the facts within the knowledge of the Interstate Commerce Commission which show or tend to show that there exists at this time, or heretofore within the last twelve months has existed, a combination or arrangement between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Company, the Norfolk and Western, the Baltimore and Ohio Company, the Philadelphia, Boston and Western Railroad Company, the Northern Central Railway Company and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company or any two or more of said railroad companies, in violation of this act passed July 2, 1890, and entitled "an act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, or acts amendatory therefore."

The only definite facts known to the commission believed to have bearing on the subject matter of this resolution are those appearing in the annual reports filed by the company named in compliance with Section 20 of the Act to Regulate Commerce, except as the same facts or some of them have been disclosed from time to time in proceedings before the commission. From the latest of these reports, covering the year ending June 30, 1905, the following figures and other data have been compiled:

THE PENNSYLVANIA SYSTEM.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has an authorized capital stock of $400,000,000 of which $302,513,300 has been issued and is now outstanding. This company appears to control and is understood, to control all the lines embraced in the "Pennsylvania System," so-called, having an aggregate mileage of 10,989.86 and gross earnings for the year named of $238,173,528. The term "Pennsylvania System," as here used, includes the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Company, the Philadelphia, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston and the Northern Central Railway Company, but not including the Baltimore and Ohio Company, the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company or the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company.

The Pennsylvania Company, which controls all the lines of the Pennsylvania system west of Pittsburgh and Erie, has an authorized capital stock of $80,000,000, of which $40,000,000 has been issued. All this issued stock is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Company has an authorized capital of $25,650,450, of which $25,498,550 has been issued and is now outstanding. Of this issued stock, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company owns $25,496,775.

The Northern Central Railroad Company has an authorized capital stock of $20,000,000, of which $16,193,400 has been issued and is now outstanding. Of this issued stock, the Pennsylvania Railroad owns $9,401,950.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has an authorized capital stock of $60,000,000 of preferred and $125,000,000 of common stock, of which $59,986,464 of preferred and $124,272,060 of common have been issued and are now outstanding. Of this issued stock, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company owns $21,450,000 of preferred and $30,292,300 of common; the Pennsylvania Company owns $5,000,000 of preferred stock and $11,044,600 of common; the Northern Central Railway Company owns $1,000,000 of preferred and $787,500 of common; the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company owns $1,000,000 of preferred and $781,500 of common.

It thus appears that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and three other companies which it controls own an aggregate of $28,450,050 of Baltimore and Ohio preferred and $42,900,000 of Baltimore and Ohio common stock.

The Norfolk and Western Railroad Company has an authorized capital of $23,000,000 of preferred stock and $66,000,000 of common stock, all of which have been issued and is now outstanding. Of this issued stock the Pennsylvania Railroad Company owns $5,590,000 of preferred and $20,320,000 of common; the Pennsylvania Company owns $5,000,000 of preferred and $1,500,000 of common; the Northern Central Railway Company owns $500,000 of preferred and $1,000,000 of common. It thus appears that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the two other companies which it controls own in the aggregate of $11,000,000 of Norfolk and Western preferred and $22,830,000 of Norfolk and Western common stock.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, with an unlimited authorized capital stock, has issued $8200 first preferred; $800 second preferred and $62,790,400 common stock, which is now outstanding. Of this issued common stock, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company owns $10,130,000; the Pennsylvania Company, $4,000,000, and the Northern Central Railway Company, $1,500,000. It thus appears that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and two other companies which it controls own in the aggregate $15,630,000 of the common stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company.

The foregoing statement shows the extent to which the stock of the several railroad companies named in the resolution is owned by any other railroad company named therein.

In addition to these facts of stock ownership, the annual reports above referred to show the names of the officers and directors of the several railroad companies named in the resolution on the 30th day of June, 1905.

LESS COMPETITION.

From the general knowledge and information of the committee, the further statement is warranted that since the acquisition by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the companies controlled by it of the stock of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, as above set forth, the published rates of the several railroads named have been better maintained, and in some instances advanced, and that there appears to be less competition in rates between those lines than was formerly the case; but this is also true of competitive rates generally in other parts of the country.

As to whether the facts hereinbefore given show or tend to show a violation of the act of Congress referred to in the resolution, the commission expresses no opinion, as it is charged with no duty in connection with that enactment, and has no authority to determine a question arising thereunder.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

[Signed]

MARTIN A. KNAPP, chairman.

PICTURES TOO LURID.

In the House today:

Mr. Littlefield believed the pictures of distress on the rate question were entirely too lurid. The proposed legislation went too far, and he should vote against it. He had been willing to go as far as the President had recommended in 1904 and 1905. Not a member of the House, he maintained, could say what is a reasonable rate. This was one of the great and tremendous difficulties the bill presented, and indicated the vast and arbitrary power that was to be vested in a political tribunal. In the zeal with which both political parties were running a legislative race, they had gone far beyond the President's desires.

A remedy for nine-tenths of the rate evils, he said, now exists in all courts, both under present law and the common law. Under the proposed bill, a curious and incongruous condition was porposed. When the committee determined whether a rate was reasonable it was acting in a judicial capacity; when it prescribed a rate for the future, it would be legislating and when it administered this finding, it acted in an executive capacity. This was a combination of three functions of government—executive, legislative and judicial—in one body.

Mr. Littlefield said the committee had been overruled two-thirds of the time.

A number of Senators listened to Mr. Littlefield's argument including Senators Foraker, Perkins, Millard, Kean Bulkeley, Rayner, Piles, Scott, Gallinger and Alee.

Developing his contention that, under the bill, the commission could regulate the differential between the long and short haul, Mr. Littlefield said that he was unwilling that a political commission should say whether or not the New England cotton manufacturies should or should not be wiped out. He would, he said, demonstrate from their own record the utter incapacity of the Interstate Commerce Commission to adjust rates.

Mr. Stevens of Minnesota said: "The huge and awful things" which had been depicted would not result from the enforcement of the legislation. The committee which considered the bill was unanimous that it would not work hardship. On the other hand, there was every indication by the popular demand for relief that conditions now are not satisfactory. The bill, he said, was a compromise and was not perfect.

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio criticised the claim that there was any popular demand for the legislation. What there was had been manufactured out of whole cloth in Congress. There never had been such a fake issue launched. The question of rebates constituted the only legitimate complaint being made and yet, he continued, "the gentlemen who requested this bill have absolutely dodged every question of the slightest importance to the shipper of this country."

What they had reported he said, not one of them could tell exactly. Everyone thought it meant a different thing, and the whole thing was to be left to the construction of the courts, "and yet it was born at the dawning of a political millennium in this House. All the angels sang together on the day this bill was reported, and sang the same tune."

GROSVENOR'S AMENDMENT.

Mr. Grosvenor said he would propose an amendment to correct what he regarded as the real evil. His amendment would prevent a railroad company or officers from owning productive interests along their lines.

The bill in operation would kill all competition, and the result would be exactly the same as the effects of the old pooling bill with uniform rates. He said the center of the country will not suffer, but that it would be the extremities of border States. Having expressed himself on the bill, Mr. Grosvenor concluded: "And I shall aid in getting it out of this House as speedily as possible."

Mr. Davidson of Wisconsin advocated the bill. He said the proposed rate regulation is satisfactory to the popular mind in Wisconsin. As the result of prolonged consideration, he said, the most drastic of all State laws has just been placed on the statute books there.

As to the terms of the bill, Mr. Davidson asserted that in no sense could the legislation be considered a step toward government ownership, neither would it place the business of railroading in the hands of the government in any sense. Its purpose was simply to correct abuses and provide against injustices. The authority to regulate private car lines and terminal charges appealed to Mr. Davidson as of greater importance than the authority to name a reasonable rate in lieu of one declared to be unreasonable.

The present system, he asserted, had brought bankruptcy to individuals and stagnation to communities, while the favored few had prospered excessively. Roads were operated now for the sole purpose of making dividends, rather than to serve the people. The need for a law under which no favors could be granted, and where all shippers are placed on an equal footing, he declared, is imperative.

Mr. Gaines of Tennessee has an antipass amendment, which he will bring forward at the proper time.

At the conclusion of the day Mr. Hepburn, in charge of the measure, said it looked now as though the debate would conclude at 3 o'clock Wednesday. The reading of the bill will begin at once, and he thinks it can be concluded, all proposed amendments disposed of and the bill passed the day before adjournment. Those favoring the bill during the day were Messrs. Stevens of Minnesota, Lamar of Florida, Underwood of Alabama, Gaines of Tennessee, Hardwick of Georgia, Davidson of Wisconsin, Rhodes of Missouri, Pou of North Carolina, Webber of Ohio and Rives of Illinois.

At the close of the day's debate the Fortification Bill was reported, and at 5:25 o'clock the House adjourned until tomorrow.

BRISTOL'S HEAD TO FALL.

ON BOTH SIDES OF LAND CASE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Charges have been preferred against W. O. Bristol, United States District Attorney of Oregon, and the indications are that he will not be able to retain the office. The charges in effect are that he has been on both sides of one of the cases he has been called on to prosecute. Senator Fulton of Oregon had a conference with the President today after, which he said that Bristol probably would not be retained in office. The trouble has grown out of the prosecution of the land fraud cases in Oregon, which have been handled by Francis J. Heney, special counsel for the government.

CRISIS IN HIS CAREER COMES.

Pennsylvania Miners Howl Down Pat Dolan.

Call Him Traitor and Want Him to Resign.

Defends Vote Against Strike, at Indianapolis.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Roosevelt will doubtless be called upon in a few days to use his influence in averting a general strike of anthracite and bituminous coal miners. Opinions of leaders at the mines and operators in this city indicate that, without the interposition of some potent influence outside the conflicting interests, a strike of greater proportions than has ever before been known in this country is inevitable.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hissed as a traitor and hooted down when he attempted to justify his vote at the Indianapolis convention against the resolution that called for higher wages or a strike, Patrick Dolan, president of the miners' union in the Pittsburgh bituminous district, is making the fight of his life. If he loses his fight and is ousted from the presidency of the Pittsburgh district tomorrow it means that the threatened coal strike will begin here in the storm center of the mining world. The strong probabilities tonight are that Dolan will be the victor.

A flood of denunciation burst on the head of the once almost idolized leader of the Pittsburgh miners when he opened their convention this morning. "You cannot run this convention any longer!" shouted a score of voices. "Traitor!" came the cry from a hundred more throats.

In the midst of all this tumult, Dolan remained calm and alert. Calling Vice-President Bellingham to the chair, he took the floor to justify his vote. It was the crisis in his career as a labor leader. Time and again, as the miners' leader proceeded with his defense, he was howled down by the convention, and only to arise again and continue his defense at the interrogation of some surly delegates.

WITH CLENCHED FISTS.

One, a delegate whom Dolan accused with falsifying what had taken place at the Indianapolis convention started forward with clenched fists in the direction of the miners' president, and was restrained by his fellows.

"I voted as I did," said Dolan, "because I conscientiously believed I was doing the right thing for not only the Pittsburgh district and the country at large, but also for the thousands of women and children who would be made to suffer if a needless strike were brought on."

Dolan added that, in his opinion, there were other ways to gain advancement for the miners than by striking for an increase of 5 cents a ton. Quiet concessions in the way of cheaper rents and cheaper fuel, he declared, could be obtained that would more than offset the wage advance for which the miners were ready to enter into a long and costly struggle.

"Did you or did you not violate the positive instructions of this body in voting as you did at Indianapolis?" asked a delegate threateningly. Dolan paused for a moment before slowly replying: "I voted as seemed best in my judgment."

A wave of scornful laughter swept over the convention. "Your judgment doesn't govern the heads of the miners in this district," shouted a delegate. Dolan's effort to reply was lost in a storm of applause that greeted the last declaration.

TROUBLE IN NEW YORK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Negotiations for settlement of the differences between the union coal drivers of this city and their employers came to an abrupt and unsatisfactory close late today, and unless some unexpected move to peace is opened within the next twenty-four hours 2000 union drivers will go on strike and the local dealers will have great difficulty in taking care of their customers. The condition, existing in the face of a predicted winter storm, and the prospect also of a sympathetic strike of the coal miners April 1 caused the New York dealers in a very serious frame of mind.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hissed as a traitor and hooted down when he attempted to explain his vote at the Indianapolis convention against the resolution that miners be higher wages or a strike, Pat Dolan, president of the miners' district in the Pittsburgh bituminous region, is making the fight of his life. TO FOLLOW LOS ANGELES.

PORTLAND, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edmond C. Giltner, secretary of the Portland's Chamber of Commerce, returned home Saturday night from the Southern California metropolis, where he went commissioned by the chamber to investigate fully the methods which have made Los Angeles one of the most thoroughly advertised cities in the world and added thousands to her population and millions to her wealth within the past ten years.

The secretary's report will be that good advertising alone is the secret of Los Angeles' remarkable prosperity and that Portland can and should follow in her footsteps. To her Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Giltner will report, Los Angeles must give credit for most of the advertising the city has received. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, with a membership of 2000, is now the largest commercial organization in the United States and receives and disburses more than $25,000 a year in promoting publicity. The Portland chamber has a membership of but 560 and has hitherto expended but a trifling sum, comparatively speaking, in advertising the city and State.

GERMANY ANXIOUS OVER TARIFF.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Inquiries made today at the Foreign Office in regard to the German-American question elicited the information that this government is very pessimistic, even doubting that it will be possible to get a provisional arrangement from the United States which Germany would accept. Germany is anxious to avoid a tariff war and would go to great lengths in making concessions which would render a temporary arrangement possible until a treaty could be negotiated, but it is evident that the Foreign Office regards the suggestion hitherto made by the United States as unsatisfactory. It was learned at the Foreign Office today that the Bundesrath has not yet considered Germany's course after March 1, when the new German tariff goes into effect, in event no arrangement has been made between the two countries. But something is expected to occur within a few days in the negotiations which will tend toward clearing up the situation.

FAVOR ROOT'S IDEAS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to a prominent South American diplomat, satisfaction has been expressed by most of the Latin-American diplomats about the prospects of the next Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Several governments which have sent their instructions in regard to the programme agree with Secretary Root's ideas to adopt everything to bind closer the relations of all the American countries and to promote their progress and welfare, and "to eliminate everything that may not encourage this proposition."

MICHIGANDER'S DECISION.

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This is the decision of the Michigan University Senate:

1. Yost is retained as coach by a practically unanimous vote.
2. Football is retained by a big majority.
3. The three-year eligibility rule does not apply to any student who entered college under former conditions.
4. The training table is abolished.
5. Other recommendations of the faculty conference adopted.

The above is the result of a heated debate at tonight's session of the Senate. It was long after midnight when the body adjourned.

M'CALL SELLING OUT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, has followed the example of James H. Hyde of the Equitable in parting with his carriages and stable equipment. At Van Tassell and Kearney's mart about twenty pieces will be sold at auction tomorrow, making it the most important sale of carriages of recent years, with the possible exception of the sale of Hyde's collection. The sale will not be publicly known as that of McCall's collection.

SISTER GUARDING INTERESTS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Emma Tierney, sister of Frank Eberhardt, who disappeared seventeen years ago and for whom the City Chamberlain is holding $8000, testified today before Senator Thomas F. Donnelly in proceedings to establish the rights, if alive, of Eberhardt to his portion of the proceeds of the sale of property under his father's will or proof of his death. Norman Wilmor Chandler, who advertised for information concerning the missing man, has received many letters alleging the man's whereabouts have been discovered.

BACKING WOOD ALCOHOL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attempts on the part of the wood alcohol trust, backed, it is declared, by the Standard Oil Company, to make use of temperance organizations throughout the country to defeat pending legislation for taking the tax off grain alcohol have been discovered here. The wood alcohol trust hired detectives, it is said, to pose as reformers, and stir up an active temperance crusade against the bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Señor Alfredo Alvarez Calderon, secretary of the Peruvian legation, today made a statement in regard to the publication of an article signed by a former general in Valparaiso, warning Chile against Peru, and which charged that Peru is silently and steadily preparing to drag Chile into another war.

WELL-KNOWN ART COLLECTOR HERE.

Los Angeles Visited by one of the Foremost Oriental Rug Expert.

The famous Oriental rug expert, George H. Weigert has arrived in the city.

Mr. Weigert has a national reputation as a connoisseur and collector of works of art, especially Oriental rugs. Some months ago he met with a severe railroad accident, which, together with other circumstances over which he had no control, forced him into bankruptcy, and he was compelled to part with his magnificent collection carried in his Pittsburgh (Pa.,) Detroit (Mich.,) and Atlantic City galleries.

R. F. Mumford was appointed trustee in bankruptcy. The J. R. Lane Dry Goods Co., of this city secured the collection of about 500 rugs, through Mr. H. A. Yuzuk, that are conceded to be the rarest specimens of the Oriental weaver's art. They will be offered at absolute auction in the rug rooms of The J. R. Lane Dry Goods Co., commencing tomorrow morning at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

This well-liknown firm has known Mr. Weigert for many years and, having the kindest feeling for him in his misfortune, extended him an invitation to be their guest during the sale. Mr. Weigert accepted, saying he would be pleased to be present and give purchasers information they might desire regarding any rug in the collection.

$1 DAILY PRIZE

One dollar merchandise order to the best letter written to the Office Boy each day.

Last Tuesday I came rolling into Los Angeles on the Southern Pacific. I was all eyes for those mountains, and all at once something agitated my curiosity. I asked the "man who knows it all," "What's that?" and I pointed to a bunch of sassy looking letters on a mountain top. "The man" answered: "Why that says "SILVERWOOD'S $3.00 HATS."

I spotted one of your stores next day, blew in and my eyes lighted on the prettiest bonnet I ever saw. In four minutes I was OWNER. And say, I think more of that hat every time I look at it.

It's me for Silverwood's from now on.

Yours always, BILL.

Shot Through the Hips—His Body Becomes a Wreck.

Wm. H. McCormick, a Battle-Scarred Veteran, Who Contracted Spine, Kidney and Lung Disease During the Civil War, Is Given Renewed Health and Strength by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

WM. H. McCORMICK.

Although 73 Years Old, He Expects to Regain Vigor of Body, Mind and Spirits by the Continued Use of This Wonderful Invigorator and Tonic Stimulant.

"I am an old veteran of the Civil War. The elements and the strenuous life of a soldier in the field and in battle played havoc with my body and constitution. I was shot through the hips in the battle of Storn River, had my spine injured, causing kidney disease and contracted lung trouble, which later developed into bronchitis and asthma.

"My disabilities have troubled me a great deal since I passed my fiftieth mile-mark in years. I am now seventy-five years old and quite feeble, but expect to renew my health and strength by using Duffy's Malt Whiskey, which is so highly recommended as a stimulant, invigorator and tonic for aged people. I have been greatly benefited by your Malt Whiskey, which has proven itself to be a wonderful cure for coughs, asthma, throat and all lung troubles."—WILLIAM H. McCORMICK, 905 South West street, Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 11, 1905.

SAME OLD LOTTERY CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

THE police again raided the joint run by the Greenewalds on Spring street near First yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock and discovered that lottery tickets were still sold in the notorious place, despite the promise of the proprietors to behave themselves, which was made some time ago, after A. B. Greenewald was convicted and fined in Texas, and the owner of the building got after them.

Half an hour before the raid Officer Gilpin in citizens' clothes called at the Greenewald cigar stand and purchased four lottery tickets of the clerk then in charge of the place and who gave the name of C. Bently.

Officers Redmond, Gilpin, Boteroff and Riley conducted the raid and placed A. B. and Jacob Greenewald under arrest, as well as Bently, the clerk. They had a search warrant and after a careful investigation discovered about 2000 lottery tickets. These were on three lotteries, the Loteria Nacional, the Louisiana Lottery and one known as the Beneficiencia. The tickets and circulars were confiscated and held by the police as evidence.

The men arrested were immediately taken to the police station and arraigned in court before Justice Austin. Bently was asked to plead first on a charge of selling lottery tickets, and he immediately pleaded guilty. Justice Austin set today for sentence, and held Bently in $100 bonds, which were furnished.

A. B. Greenewald was then arraigned on a charge of having lottery tickets in his possession and pleaded "not guilty." Jacob Greenewald was arraigned on a similar charge and asked time in which to secure an attorney. He will plead this morning.

The Greenewalds have long run a lottery business in connection with their cigar stand under the Nadeau and the police have raided it several times before.

They have been persistent lottery ticket operators, even going to the extent of sending them through the mails. Only a month ago A. B. Greenewald pleaded guilty to shipping lottery tickets by mail in the United States Court in Texas and was fined $500.

The postal authorities had secured evidence enough to convict, and it is said had bought tickets which were delivered to the officers themselves by mail. Greenewald made a fight at first, but finally went to Texas without waiting for an officer to escort him.

At that time they promised to stop the unlawful traffic in tickets, but the police were not convinced and continued to watch their place, as they do other questionable joints, with the result that the officers became convinced the Greenewalds were doing business at the old stand in the same old way. When the officer succeeded in buying tickets the raid was made immediately, and the police believe they can convict both father and son without the slightest trouble, as their evidence is positive.

TOOK HER LIFE WITH REVOLVER.

MRS. MINERVA P. M'NAIR, THE GOLF CHAMPION, DEAD.

One of St. Louis's Beautiful Society Matrons and Mother of Two Young Children Kills Herself in Mental Aberration Following a Period of Illness.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Standing in front of the mirror in her boudoir in her home, Mrs. Minerva Primm McNair, aged 34, wife of Lilburne G. McNair, the millionaire president of the McNair-Harris Realty Company and the champion woman golf player of the West, today shot herself in the left breast, near the heart, with a revolver. She was found unconscious on the floor by her maid, who had heard the revolver report. Mrs. McNair died two hours later without regaining consciousness. Mental aberration, resultant from six months' illness is said to have prompted her act. She left no note or verbal message.

Mrs. McNair was one of St. Louis's most beautiful society matrons, the mother of two very pretty young children. A few minutes before going to her boudoir with the evident intention of ending her life, Mrs. McNair kissed her children good-by and sent them to school. She also bade her husband an affectionate farewell when he left for his office. She seemed in good spirits, and talked at the breakfast table with her husband of their contemplated trip to New York State, planned to benefit her health.

The Lilburne Realty Company, capitalized at $200,000, with her husband as one of the principal stockholders, was being incorporated just about the time she fired the fatal shot. Mr. and Mrs. Lilburne G. McNair were regarded as natural leaders in society, and Mrs. McNair was conceded to be one of the best-gowned women in St. Louis's fashionable coterie.

WHERE'S THE "NIPPER?"

Johnson, Alleged Diamond Thief, Fails to Appear in Court and Bail is Declared Forfeit.

Joe Johnson, charged with grand larceny, failed to appear when his case was called in Department Three of the Police Court yesterday and his bail, $750, was declared forfeited. Johnson is the diamond thief caught red handed in the main postoffice two weeks ago Sunday by Patrolman Shannon, while the fellow was attempting to relieve one Coleman of a handsome diamond shirt stud.

With Johnson at the time was a woman, Stella Murry, who also is now charged with grand larceny. The two evidently were working together, for the woman did what she could to aid Johnson. When arrested she had a "nipped" diamond in her hand, while Johnson had four of the stones in his possession. Attorney Luther Brown was engaged by Johnson and the Murry woman to take care of their case.

The woman was first admitted to bail and then the man, the sum in each case being $750. The bail money was passed over the counter to the court clerk by Attorney Brown's clerk, but that is as far as it has been traced.

In court yesterday Stella Murry appeared, but her case was continued until Saturday. Attorney Brown was also present and stated that he did not know the whereabouts of Johnson.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Burglary at La Mesa Said to Have Been Done by Man With Woman Companion.

Burglars entered the postoffice at La Mesa, a small town in San Diego county, Sunday night. Postmaster Frederick Rapson learned of the robbery yesterday morning and word was sent at once to the postoffice in Los Angeles. The meager details stated that Leigh Allen and a companion, whom he has introduced as his wife, did the job.

Allen is described as a dark, heavy-set man, about 25 years of age. The woman he calls his wife is a Jewess, aged about 35 years. Both are supposed to be in this city. There is a government rewar dof $100 for information leading to the arrest of Allen.

YOUTH ENDS HIS LIFE.

Young Man, Supposedly "Settler," Draws Razor Across Throat and Dies on Compton Road.

Driven to desperation evidently by hard luck, a young man, whose name is supposed to be Settler, committed suicide out on the Compton road yesterday afternoon by cutting his throat with a razor.

It was about 2 o'clock when the body was discovered lying beside the road, near H. D. Merrill's place, between Latin and Graham stations on the Long Beach electric line. The Coroner was notified and Pierce Brothers' undertaking wagon went for the body, which lay beside the road nearly all afternoon because of the time consumed in the long drive.

Settler, if that was his name, evidently had destroyed everything which would lead to identification. On the body were found two handkerchiefs, one with the name "Settler" written on the hem, the other with an "S" embroidered in the corner. The suicide was perhaps 22 years old, of rather slight build, and about 5 feet 11 inches tall.

The man wore a good suit of clothes, mixed gray and brown, a colored shirt and soft hat. His hands showed that he had been doing manual labor. No money or valuables were found on the body, and the officers surmise that the youth had failed to find work and had become despondent. Besides the handkerchiefs only a pocket knife and the razor with which he had killed himself were found.

An inquest will be held this morning at Pierce Brothers' morgue.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Clubman is Wanted for Abduction.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A complaint of abduction arising out of litigation over an estate abroad has been made to the New York police against a member of the Westchester Country Club. An investigation is in progress. Little that is definite about the case is allowed to come out here. As nearly as can be learned, the daughter of an English family, said to be noble, disappeared from Honolulu several years ago and has finally succeeded in communicating with her relatives in this country. She was born, it is said, in Paris, and is 27 years of age. Upon learning her whereabouts, her relatives communicated with the police here. A French Countess is said to figure in the case in some way. The man wanted, it was said, has been at the Waldorf Astoria within the past two weeks.

TURN DOWN JOHN L.

CLEVELAND (O.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The police today forbade John L. Sullivan to give a three-round sparring bout with his partner at the Empire Theater, where the former champion is appearing this week as an extra attraction with a burlesque company.

Chief of Police Kohler sent a captain of police and sergeant to the stage to serve notice on Sullivan that he would have to cut out his sparring exhibition. Sullivan gave a twenty-minute monologue, then stripped for the boxing contest and explained the attitude of the police. Instead of sparring, he gave demonstrations of how different blows were struck.

DEADLOCK OVER FOOTBALL.

URBANA (Ill.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Senate of the University of Illinois is deadlocked over the proposition to reform football. After a protracted debate on the Chicago conference recommendations, the Senate was unable to agree upon any course of action and adjourned until tomorrow.

BLOW AT FIGHTING CLUBS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] By a decision of the judge of the Special Sessions Court, today, a blow was struck at the many fighting clubs which have sprung up all over the city, and which, unlike the regularly organized athletic clubs, make their membership only from those men who desire to attend the weekly bouts, and who are made members for the occasion only by paying what is really considered the price of admission to the bouts.

It was in the case of the Colma Athletic Club, whose president, John J Donnelly, and four others, including two fighters, were arrested Januar 23 by detectives, who became member for one night only to see fights.

All of the defendants were found guilty by the court, but, while Donnelly was fined $25, which he paid, sentence was suspended on the others.

CRAWFISH HOWTON FULL OF TAMMANY.

SEATED at the head of a long table in one of the winerooms at the Bristol, W. H. Conkling in the place of honor at his right hand, and Capt. Hance at his left, Gas Howton last night made his peace with "Tammany," lately renamed the "Los Angeles Democratic Club."

It was unconditional crawfish on the part of Howton. The price of his admission was a half-dozen bottles of champagne and a tubful of Dago red.

A year ago Howton went to Capt. Cake and asked to make his peace with the Democratic push. "Aw, go an' get a reputation," rejoined the Tammany Chief Cake. "D'ye see that sign over th' door? That says no dubs need apply."

Howton labored in vain for eleven months; then a happy thought struck him. He slipped up behind the public utility ordinance and floored it.

With this reeking trophy he went to Tammany and demanded admittance. Even the Tammanyites could ask no more. True, the other Councilmen resuscitated the utility ordinance, but Howton got the credit for the knock-out.

Last night he reaped his reward. Incidentally he did the best he could to launch his candidacy for Mayor. Howton labored intermittently to impress on the convivial Tammanyites that "I am a Democrat."

They told him that the champagne was first-class and that they didn't care a joint of gas pipe what his politics were, so long as the wine held out.

Capt. Hance and Capt. Cake warmed up as the pile of empties mounted higher and took turns at growing confidential.

"We know all about that $78 you gave Conkling to lick you th' last campaign, Doc," gurgled Hance, "but we ain't goin' t' say nothin' 'bout it to nobody. I'm fr'm Tennessee. You 'n Conkling made y'r little play an' it was a winner. But we ain't sore."

Howton colored and tried to engage Nance in a private confab.

"Aw, that won't buy you nothin', Doc," chuckled Conkling, "the boys are dead on to that game."

"Sure!" chimed in a little Tammanyite down the table, "an' I guess you didn't have no kick on not gettin' your money's worth."

Capt. Cake here emptied his glass and strode to the head of the table. "Here's where you an' Conkling catch holt and quit your scrappin'," he announced.

Howton hopped up and grasped Conkling by the hand. "An' here's where we take you into the club," went on Cake. "You've proved to the boys that you ain't no long hair, and that ye know a good thing when it comes along.

"You know what we said to Billy th' night of the Hearst banquet; an' ye know what he said to us. Well, that's right——

"Here, young fellow, you get off that corn of mine or out you go, see." This to an Examiner reporter, who was wildly signaling Cake under the table not to give Willie away.

"Doc's made good with the club, and its all among friends, see."

All night Howton was profusely, demonstratively polite to Conkling. He eyed the attorney furtively when he thought no one was looking and shivered. He wanted to be a good fellow, but he hadn't forgotten that lasting which Conkling gave him during the last campaign.

Ed Kern was one of the invited guests at Howton's feed, but the Seventh Warder failed to materialize. Evidently he didn't relish the prospect.

Down at the foot of the table sat a quiet-mannered, smooth-faced individual, whose chief part seemed to be to see that the supply of booze held out. He drank little. He is in the employ of the Southern Pacific. At this union between Howton and Conkling, and Cake he officiated as best man.

"It's all right, Doc," murmured Hance, feebly, as an empty glass crashed to the floor, "y've made good all right, and you k'n carry any precinct that I live in."

"Go and tell the orchestra to play 'Aloha,'" whispered Howton to Conkling. "Let's have something sentimental."

"Aw, go t'ell. The boys are so drunk they won't know anything but Tammany.'"

And "Tammany" the orchestra played, while the quiet man in the corner sent for another supply of booze.

REMARKABLE TEST.

Hyomei Has Been Known for Years and is Guaranteed to Cure Catarrh.

We have given Hyomei a most thorough and remarkable test.

The remedy has made so many cures that we have urged its use in the most chronic cases of catarrh.

Breathed for a few minutes four times a day, through the inhaler that comes with every outfit, it soothes the irritated mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs, kills the catarrhal germs, and restores complete health. Its healing, antiseptic fragrance penetrates to the most remote air passages, as no medicine taken into the stomach can possibly do. Immediate relief almost always follows the use of Hyomei, and great benefit is seen after a few days' treatment.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs only $1, and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the pocket or purse, and will last a lifetime, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. If this is not sufficient for a complete cure, additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents.

Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for a free sample bottle and consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

A THOUSAND THANKS TO CUTICURA REMEDIES

"For over thirty-five years I was a severe sufferer from eczema. The eruption was not confined to any one part. It was all over my body, limbs and even on my head. I am an old soldier, and have been examined by the Government Board over fifteen times, and they say there was no cure for me. I have taken all kinds of medicine and have spent large sums of money for doctors without avail. A short time ago I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, two treatments in all, I am now entirely and completely cured. PARENTS CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF CHILDREN BY CROUP.

Son and Daughter Suddenly Stricken.

"I suppose you will be astonished to tell you that six years ago I was in a dangerous condition with Bronchial Trouble, because you can see how strong I am now. The attack at that time caused terrible pain in my chest and I could hardly move, and to cough was intense suffering. Some one advised me to try English Remedy, and I thought I would try it, although I confess that down to that time I had little faith in it. The first bottle gave great relief, and the second helped me to the healthy woman I am today. My throat and lungs were weak also, and I cured them with the same GRAND OLD REMEDY. My boy and girl have both been saved by it from death by Croup. I know this is so because they were attacked in the night I had a bottle in the closet, and by acting quickly this fatal malady was easily overcome. I always give it to the children when they have a cough or a cold, and we would not be without it for anything. I tell all our friends about Dr. Acker's English Remedy when I get a chance, and there are plenty of them around Mechanicsville, N. Y., who will tell you who would no more think of going to bed at night without a bottle of it in the house than they would of leaving the door wide open. As I look at it, parents are criminally responsible when they allow their children to suffer under their very eyes with Croup, when there is a certain remedy that will overcome this terrible monster every time. (Signed) Floyd Fowler."

Pretty strong words to come from a man, don't you think? It is true that thousands of loving parents are today mourning the loss of their darlings who were suddenly taken away by Croup. In many, many cases, if not all, these children would be living today if the home had their parents taken the proper precautions to be prepared when the attack came. The development of Croup is very rapid and so often fatal, that it is best for all parents to be too careful in preventing their children from taking cold or too much care in curing the cough or cold when it appears. Acker's English Remedy will stop a cough at once and cure a cold in twelve hours. Used directly on the lungs, positively cures the most stubborn cases of Bronchitis, Pneumonia and Consumption. You will notice that Mr. Fowler was cured of Bronchitis and Hemorrhage of the Lungs were made strong—and this medicine that will accomplish such results is certainly entitled to the same great praise as Mrs. Fowler of "Grand Old Remedy." Dr. Acker's English Remedy carries with it not only furnish all this proof, but we give a positive guarantee with all druggists to refund your money at once if Dr. Acker's English Remedy fails to make good.

BARBOUR GONE WITH BLONDE?

Associates Think Promoter Took Woman Along.

Said to Have Called Often on the Milliner.

Back Bay Manager Declares Shortage is Great.

Has Henry P. Barbour left town with Miss Mae Nye, a pretty milliner with whom he is said to have been infatuated? Some of his associates believe he is in San Francisco with the woman. But who knows where he is or what he is doing?

Sensational facts were brought out yesterday in connection with the disappearance of the promoter. From a reliable source it was ascertained that Barbour has been a frequent visitor at the apartments of the handsome blonde milliner on West First street. Miss Nye left Los Angeles Sunday morning for San Francisco.

The proprietor of the apartment-house declared that Barbour has visited the young woman many times, and of late has called often.

The furnishings of the apartments have not been disturbed, and the proprietor stated that Miss Nye said she intended to be absent a week. The rent is paid in advance.

The real estate man is said to have given the woman a piano, as well as many other valuable gifts. The musical instrument is still at the rooming-house.

DASHING BLONDE DECEIVED?

Miss Nye is described as a dashing blonde between 25 and 30 years of age, stylish and attractive. Her manner is said to be quiet and unassuming. Her acquaintances declare she regarded the missing ex-director of the Long Beach Dock and Terminal Company as unmarried. They claim she has been wronged by the misrepresentations of Barbour.

There was a steady stream of creditors pouring in and out of the offices of the Back Bay Trust Company in the O. T. Johnson building yesterday. Some were most insistent and vowed vengeance on the absent man. Most of the visitors were women.

Murray Mitchell, manager of the company, was kept busy answering telephone calls, and the queries of anxious folk who had been persuaded to drop their cash into Barbour's hands. The women wanted deeds to their lots. They may receive nothing.

Scores are found to have been bilked by Barbour for large and small amounts. His liabilities will reach at least $160,000, and probably the $200,000 mark will be crowded when the exact shortage is known.

LOOKS BAD, SAYS MITCHELL.

Speaking of the sensational flight of his employer, Manager Mitchell said:

"Perhaps I could hazard a guess as to the whereabouts of Mr. Barbour, but it would only be a guess. Of course, there is a woman in the case, and this time she is a bad one. I don't believe she is with him, though, because I do not think the man would disgrace himself, and basely desert his faithful wife.

"I have had little sleep for the past week, as this nerve-racking experience has been awful. These people expect to get redress through me, because they have not received their deeds. They have sunk their money, but I can't help them, because I am involved to perhaps a greater extent than any one.

"When they have figured up the damage of Barbour they will find it nearly $160,000. I am almost afraid to estimate what I have lost personally, but this I know, I am out $40,000 in unsecured transactions.

"Dozens of the prominent business men in town have been bitten, and many of them will have nothing to say. I am going to make a statement to the papers of my losses, and of the amount Mr. Barbour's liabilities. Everybody will be surprised."

CONFIDENCE OF WIFE.

Mrs. Barbour left the Hotel Portsmouth at an early hour yesterday morning, presumably for Long Beach, during her stay in Los Angeles only the most intimate friends were allowed to see her. She is said to be almost heartbroken at the turn affairs have taken, though she still expresses every confidence in her husband, who, she believes, will yet be able to unravel the tangle in his affairs.

It is said that Mrs. Barbour did not go directly to her beautiful home in Long Beach as ascertained, as she had not arrived there at 6 o'clock last evening. The house was closed and no information could be had as to the whereabouts of the family.

No attempt will be made to save the Long Beach home for Mrs. Barbour. It is said that Barbour has even raised a mortgage on the house, but it is hoped that if there be a mortgage, it can be lifted and the wife allowed to retain the property.

In a statement yesterday, Manager Mitchell declares he will be able to secure the home for Mrs. Barbour, and that she will be taken today to clear the property from entanglement.

DENVER, Feb. 5.—Supreme Court Justice Rado, upon which decision to file $1000 for contempt was handed down today. The matter rendered by Judge Robert W. Steele, which six justices of the court erred in their opinion, in Senator Patterson's opportunity to testify he made. The decision now completes the case and application for writs of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to compel the judges of the Supreme Court of the same jurisdiction to hear the case of the Colorado Springs Publishing Company.

WHY ARE PLANTS DEAF?

Prof. Conrad Says They Have All the Senses of Animals Save That of Hearing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A special to the Herald from Baltimore, Md., says Henry T. Conrad of the Botanical Department of John Hopkins University, after continued experiments, is convinced that in some form plants have all the senses of animals except hearing.

"We have never been able to discover any way in which they are susceptible to sound," said Dr. Conrad yesterday, "but in seeing, feeling and tasting they are developed.

"The Sundew, a plant which grows in the swamps about Baltimore, probably knows the sense of the taste to a greater extent than any other.

"With a single exception," says Dr. Conrad, "they recognize light, and the direction from which it comes; they feel the slightest wound. They discriminate in taste; they have a sense of direction, whether they are turned in the right direction or not, and are influenced by electric currents passing near them."

TWELVE MORE BODIES FOUND.

VICTIMS OF THE VALENCIA RISE TO THE SURFACE.

Canadian Investigation Into Wreck Begins and Efforts to Dispatch Rescue Steamers to Doomed Vessel are Told of—Machinery May be Saved, Think Divers at Scene.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) Feb. 5.—The tug Lorne arrived this morning with twelve more bodies of victims of the Valencia and reported that two were buried by Capt. Smith's party near the wreck, being too badly decomposed to be moved. Of the twelve bodies brought by the Lorne, two were identified—one as that of O. Inglehorn and another as that of Gus Erickson, second-class passengers. One is believed that of H. M. Peters of Los Angeles. There were three women and nine men. The total number of bodies recovered is thirty-five.

A dispatch to the Associated Press this morning from Ucluelet says a body was found Sunday about three miles from the wreck of the Pass of Melfort. This body is believed that of J. B. Kem of Shasta, Cal., and to be from the sailing ship. The body was badly decomposed. There is a tattoed figure of a woman, a five-pointed star, a rose branch, a heart and an anchor on the right forearm.

The inquest before Dr. Hart was continued today and other bodies brought here were viewed by the jury. The evidence of William Allan, agent of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, and H. M. Bullen, one of the owners of the steamer Salvor, was taken and the inquest was adjourned.

CANADIAN INVESTIGATION.

The Canadian investigation into the Valencia disaster began this morning, William Allen, agent of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, and Pierre Paterson, second officer of the Valencia, being examined. Capt. Gaudin, Agent of Marine, sitting with Capt. G. F. Coe, Lloyd's agent, and Capt. Newcomb, master of the government steamer Kestrel, as commissioners, announced that the investigation was in no sense a prosecution—simply the usual examination by the Marine Department into the circumstances of the wreck. C. H. Lugrain appeared as counsel for the government and Mr. Lawson for the Pacific Coast Steamship Company. Mr. Lawson was restricted to the examination of witnesses when statements appearing derogatory to the steamship company were made.

Mr. Allen, local agent, told of the steps taken to dispatch rescue steamers on receipt of the news of the wreck, and Second Officer Paterson went fully into the story of the wreck, stating with thorough detail what took place.

MAY SAVE MACHINERY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE, Feb. 5.—Capt. Charles Nelson and a crew of five men will be dispatched by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, with the underwriters, to the scene of the Valencia wreck for the purpose of finding out what can be done to save the machinery of the vessel. It was reported by those on board the rescue fleet that the boilers and engines of the Valencia could be seen at low tide, and the divers think the machinery can be raised at reasonable expense.

REPAIRING TYPHOON'S DAMAGE.

Natives of Guam Rebuilding Roads, Bridges, Wharves and Buildings. Sanitary Conditions Improved.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

AGANA (Guam) Dec. 17.—[Via San Francisco, Feb. 5.] The work of rebuilding roads, bridges, wharves and buildings damaged by the recent hurrican has progressed rapidly during the past month. The road from Piti to Agana is now in fair condition, a substantial allotment having been authorized by the Navy Department for this work. The bad effects of the typhoon will, in other respects, however, be felt for many months to come.

Efforts are being made by the insular government to improve the sanitary conditions of Agana, recent orders issued embodying a new set of sanitary regulations, which, if successfully carried out, should make Agana a thoroughly healthful place.

A recent law promulgated in the island reduces court costs and fees in criminal cases to 15 per cent. of those under the Spanish schedule, this difference being due to the abolition of the Spanish method of paying the court employés and functionaries.

Keen disappointment is felt throughout the colony that the transport which touched at Guam November 28 sailed without the mail, which was delayed in transit from Agana to Piti. General complaint is made that the mail service on the island is entirely inadequate.

PASSES ON PATTERSON CASE.

DENVER, Feb. 5.—The opinion of the Supreme Court of the State of Colorado, upon which was based the decision to fine Senator T. M. Patterson $1000 for contempt of court, was handed down today. Justice Julius C. Gunter rendered the majority opinion, which six justices approved. Justice Robert W. Steele presented a dissenting opinion, in which he held that the court erred in imposing a fine upon Senator Patterson without giving an opportunity to improve the charges he made. The filing of the opinions now completes the record in the case, and application will be made to the United States Supreme Court by attorneys for Senator Patterson to assume jurisdiction and review the action of the Colorado court.

NATURALIZING OF ALIENS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington, D. C., says every effort is to be made during the present session of Congress to secure legislation designed to prevent abuses in the naturalization of foreigners. The feeling in both Senate and House has been aroused by reports made by the commission appointed by the President to report upon immigration and naturalization conditions and by the petition presented in both houses from the Civic Federation of Chicago.

The House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization has completed hearings extending over the last month, and this week will prepare a bill placing more effective safeguards than now exist around American citizenship. Republicans and Democrats alike are taking an earnest interest in the perfection of a bill which will accord naturalization only to persons actually worthy of it.

The Hotel Astoria was burned and several well-known buildings near the beach at Asbury Park were entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is about $50,000. Many of the guests of the Astoria escaped from the burning building only in the nick of time.

LENTEN DIET

A Food More Powerful Than Meat

A devout Catholic lady, of Washington, anxious to comply with the requirements of the Church as to diet during Lent and not suffer from insufficient food, says:

"As Lent approached last year, I found myself in such a run-down condition that I seriously hesitated upon the advisability of abstaining from flesh food, attending early services, etc., during the penitential season.

"I was very nervous and suffering from a severe mental shock, and felt that I needed all the strengthening properties that my usual large meat breakfasts and hot lunches could give me. And yet I was anxious to keep an exemplary Lent, not only in a spiritual sense, but by also practicing self-denial.

"After thinking it over I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food in place of meat, determined, however, that at the first symptom of increased weakness or distress I would drop it and go back to my old diet. I began on Ash Wednesday to use Grape-Nuts instead of my pre-Lenten meat breakfasts. I ate the food dry, followed by a cup of cocoa or glass of milk. For luncheon I again took Grape-Nuts but this time in the form of a pudding boiled or baked. My dinner was of the usual character.

"To my great joy, I found I had solved the problem. In three weeks I realized that I was not only holding my own, but gaining in the power of enduring fatigue and worry, and at the close of Lent I had gained 10 pounds in weight, had a clearer eye and color, a better appetite, and digestion that for many months before.

"My vigor, both physical and mental, has been pronounced ever since I feel the nervous strain much less. my duties no longer worry me, because I am able to systematize them as only one with a thoroughly rested and vigorous brain can, so that they are more quickly performed, giving me more time for rest, reading and recreation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Classified Liners.

Times' "Liner" Advertisers—Important. Note change in rate for Sunday classified advertisements. Commencing Sunday, October 1, 1905, the rate for Sunday "Liners" was raised to 1¼ cents per word for each insertion; minimum charge, 25 cent-, as at present. This slight advance is amply justified by the present Sunday circulation of The Times, which averages over 60,000 copies. (When the 1-cent-per-word rate was established in 1893, The Times Sunday circulation was only 14,000 copies.) The "Liner" rate for the daily—1 cent per word—will stand as at present.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night, and secure prompt and careful attention. Rates one cent a word each insertion in the Daily; 1¼ cents per word in the Sunday edition; minimum charge 25c.

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading "Too Late to Classify."

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10 o'clock Saturday nights. Rate 1¼ cents per word.

AIDS SON IN ESCAPING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICO, Feb. 5.—An attempt was made today to arrest Fred Collins, said to be an escaped convict from the Oregon penitentiary and wanted here on a charge of highway robbery. Collins and another man, it is alleged, recently robbed a Chinese and the officers today came on him while he was plowing a field with his father.

Collins was on horseback when the demand for surrender was made, and he lashed the horses into gallop. The officers followed in a buggy, shooting at the fugitive. One bullet went through Collins's hand. Both father and son reached their home before the officers, and the son was provided with a fresh horse and a revolver. Collins escaped to the foothills and the father with a gun prevented the attempt of one of the party to follow the son. The elder Collins was arrested and searching parties are now scouring the hills for his son.

It is said young Collins escaped last August from the Oregon jail, where he was serving a term for horse stealing.

DEAD RAISERS IN COURT AGAIN.

The company is charged with conspiracy to defraud Lucille Hoffman of Waterville, Me., and others, through the use of the United States mails.

MRS. SCHMIDLAP NOT GUILTY.

COURT ACQUITS HER OF MURDERING HER HUSBAND.

Woman Went to Denver from Los Angeles Shortly Before the Tragedy and Claimed She Shot Him Because He Made to Her a Shameful Proposition.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today Mrs. Helen Schmidlap was declared not guilty of the murder of William Schmidlap, in the West Side Court. After the verdict was announced, Judge Carpenter scored the jurors, denouncing the verdict as a travesty on justice.

Mrs. Schmidlap killed her husband July 15 last. She came here from Los Angeles shortly before the tragedy and later claimed she killed him because he would send her no money and advised her to become a prostitute. This was her reason for killing him. She shot him while in his room in a lodging-house.

Mrs. Schmidlap's father was Briggs Goodrich, once a prominent attorney in Arizona. He killed a man, but was acquitted. Mrs. Schmidlap married Albert Ezekiel, then a Federal officer in Arizona, and had two boys by him. They came to Denver, and Schmidlap, taken in by Ezekiel as a friend, won the woman's affections. She divorced Ezekiel and married Schmidlap. Ezekiel was loyal to her during her first trial. Now he is in the insane ward of the County Hospital.

Tonight Mrs. Schmidlap said: "My revolver spoke for me and mine, and for all that a wife holds dear and sacred, and I have no anxiety but that the verdict of the jury will be concurred in by all true husbands and all good wives and mothers."

KILLING OF M'MURRAY.

GARRETT EXPECTS REDRESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the assurance of the President and Secretary of State that the conditions under which O. E. Finstad and L. G. Coughener of Los Angeles are being held at Santa Rosalia, Chihuahua, would be subject of prompt investigation, Pat Garrett, former collector of customs here, returned to El Paso today from Washington. Garrett was accompanied on his trip to Washington by Dr. Calnan of Santa Rosalia. Dr. Calnan performed the autopsies on the bodies of R. W. Rutherford, Jr., of Philadelphia, and C. W. McMurray of Los Angeles, two victims of the Diaz tragedy.

"I am confident that both the President and the Secretary of State were impressed with the innocence of the two Americans," said Garrett today. "I have very reason to believe that they will examine carefully into and take every step to assure the two men of prompt and fair trial, urging the authorities to immediate action in as far as consistent with international courtesy."

FOUND BY FINGER PRINT.

DETECTIVES GET MURDERER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Detective Sergeant Joseph Faurot, who was sent abroad December 16 to study identification systems used by London and Paris police, returned yesterday. He will submit a report to Commissioner Bingham.

The thumb-print method of identification of criminals struck Faurot as being the surest and most useful feature of the Bertillon system. While he was in London, Scotland Yard was called on to act in the Depford murder case. The only clew of importance was a finger print in blood on a cash drawer. The finger print was photographed on copper and sent to Scotland Yard and in twenty-four hours the detectives had the murderer. Faurot said yesterday that the adoption of the finger-print system would be a decided improvement on the Bertillon system as used here.

MRS. MIZNER'S HOSPITAL PLANS.

SPIRITED LETTERS PASS BETWEEN HER AND EXECUTORS.

Former Mrs. Yerkes Wishes to Use Part of Estate in Order to Have the Enterprise Carried Out Under Her Supervision—Probating of Will Affected.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Shortly after her husband's death, Mrs. Yerkes, through Dr. Joseph E. Janvrin of Madison avenue, who had been the family physician for years, announced that she did not propose to wait until her own death to have the hospital provided for in her husband's will begun, but that she would use part of the estate funds and build it under her own supervision.

In correspondence with the executors, most of whom live in Chicago, Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner's intentions were expressed, and at once there was a hitch. Word was sent out that before anything definite was done it would be best to consult fully with the executors. Following some spirited letters, Louis Owsley, chief executor of the Yerkes estate, appeared on the scene and had an interview with Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner.

Owsley declared that the will was very plain regarding the hospital project, and that the executors did not feel authorized to allow any of the estate funds to be used for the purpose while Mrs. Mizner lives.

Mrs. Mizner was vexed, and, it is said, told Owsley that if an attempt was made to overthrow her pet scheme she might not consent to the probating of the will. In other words, she would either appeal to the Illinois courts for her widow's dower of one-third of the entire estate, or she would go into court here and ask for authority to use $800,000 of the estate funds for beginning the hospital.

Mr. Owsley said that Mrs. Mizner would not gain anything by accepting the one-third dower.

CHICAGO POSTOFFICE CRIPPLED.

Nine Hundred Clerks Unable to Handle Mail, and No Relief from Washington.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Chicago, with one of the finest postoffice buildings in the entire country, is utterly unable to handle its mail business. For the first time in four years, the full force of 900 clerks in the mailing division was required to work yesterday to relieve the congestion that has clogged the machinery since February 1. Although the clerks have been working from ten to twelve hours a day, hundreds of bags of mail are left undistributed each night. Important mail for business houses is hours late in being received and sent out, and complaints about the inadequate service have been piling up in Postmaster Busse's room for several days.

Pneumatic tubes in the new postoffice which cost $120,000 to install are practically useless because there are not enough clerks to take the mail promptly to them. They are idle much of the time. Machinery in the new building which cost $200,000 is also proving more of a hindrance than benefit because it requires quite a number of clerks to operate it, and that number has been taken from the regular force, which was inadequate before.

While the government officials at Washington are aware of the conditions, they have said that Chicago cannot expect relief before July 1, when next year's appropriation becomes available. Tomorrow, Postmaster Busse will leave for Washington to make one more appeal for more help. Ten days ago, he was told by First Assistant Postmaster Hitchcock that Chicago would have to get along as best it could because the last Congress had enacted a law making the heads of departments criminally liable if they exceed their appropriations, and there was no money to give to this city.

MUST HAVE CLEAN SHEETS.

COLUMBUS (Ga.) Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The traveling men of Georgia propose to see that the hotel keepers of the State give them clean sheets. At a meeting of Post C. of the Travelers' Protective Association, a resolution was adopted requesting E. H. McMichael of Marion county, a member of the post, to introduce in the Legislature a bill providing that no hotel keeper or keeper of a lodging-house entertaining transient guests shall assign a guest to a room in which the bed linen has not been changed since the previous occupancy of the room. Traveling men complain that at country hotels the sheets are changed but once a week, no matter what their condition.

ALMOST QUARTER INCH.

Rain in Los Angeles from Storm of Last Night Was Twenty-two Hundredths.

According to The Times rain gauge there was a precipitation of .22 inch in the storm of last evening.

Rain fell heavily in Pasadena last night between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock and there seemed to be more precipitation in sight. Up in the mountains there was a hard storm at dusk. The sky that at first had been black, turned green, and then the storm broke. There were one or two rolls of thunder even down in the valley. It is probable the storm did much damage up in the mountains. A telephone message from Alpine Tavern said that the wind and rain there were terrific. Up in the Rubio Cañon heavy boulders were washed down the sides of the cañon and it was reported that the water mains of the Rubio company had been broken. But as the company is now drawing practically all its water below Rubio station the damage of last night will probably not affect the water supply.

The rain began falling in San Bernardino at 1:30 p.m. yesterday and at 3 o'clock was general in all parts of the valley. Reports at midnight gave precipitations as follows: San Bernardino, .25 inch; Redlands, .35 inch; Highland, .40 inch; Colton, .20 inch; Rialto, .22 inch. One report from Redlands gives a precipitation of .50 inch, which covers a wide belt in the orange section close to the mountains.

Reports from various points indicate that the rain was general over Southern California. At San Diego it was still raining at midnight and the fall at that hour had amounted to .51 inch. Bakersfield was also getting a wetting.

Washouts on the Mexican Central Railroad near Bermijillo have caused one of the largest bridges to go out and traffic is tied up.

Loses Her Way.

Mrs. Charlotte Dinsmore, aged 87, was picked up on Spring street yesterday afternoon, taken to the Central Police Station, and turned over to the matron. She says she has been boarding with the family of James Gillespe of No. 676 East Forty-ninth street, but wanted to move from there and was hunting for a home for old ladies which she thought was maintained by the Salvation Army. The little old lady, for she would scarcely tip the scales at eighty pounds, was cared for until able to go home.

San Diego Postal Run.

The new night service on the postal run from San Diego was established yesterday, and now there are two men on duty instead of the one man that formerly managed the run. The distribution is made on the train, and the mail for the down-town business firms now goes directly to Station C on arrival, going out from there by carrier. It used to go to the main office, being distributed there and then sent to the substation. The new service makes an average saving of two hours to the business district on the southern mail. The gain in time at San Diego is not quite so great, but the service there has been expedited by the change.

ASYLUM FOR FOLSOM PRISON.

PLACE TO BE PREPARED FOR CRIMINAL INSANE.

Building is to be Erected at Folsom and Have Accommodations for About One Hundred and Thirty Persons—Is Not to be Under Control of the Prison Board.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 4.—Dr. Hatch of the State Lunacy Commission was yesterday asked by a Times representative for information with regard to the new Criminal Lunatic Asylum that is to be erected at Folsom. Dr. Hatch said that the asylum would not be under the control of the Prison Board but of the Lunacy Commission and the plans that were now in the hands of the architects provided for the accommodation of about 130 persons.

This would be more than enough for all prospective needs as at the present time the hospitals contain about sixty criminal lunatics while a few are confined in the prisons. An effort had been made to separate these prisoners from the others, but at best the arrangement was an unsatisfactory one.

Asked as to the delays in the building of the asylum Dr. Hatch said "An appropriation for this purpose was made nearly twenty years ago, but for various reasons it fell through and the money reverted to the State. The prison directors did not want it in proximity to the prison nor did they wish to have it under their control. When the last appropriation was made a compromise was arrived at by which the prison directors agreed to give us a site on the prison grounds and also their assistance in the building but with the understanding that there was to be a separate board of managers and that it was to be entirely outside of the prison jurisdiction or control.

"They will therefore have nothing whatever to do with the management. The legislative act creating this asylum provides that the five members of the Board of Trustees shall be members of the State Commission in Lunacy.

"There has been considerable difference of opinion as to the proper site. The Lunacy Commissioners first selected a site and submitted it to the prison authorities, but they felt that it was undesirably close to the guard lines and they suggested various other sites that would not be subject to this disadvantage. The commission examined these sites and decided that for various reasons they were not satisfactory and finally chose another site on the cliff above the dam. This site was found to be acceptable to the prison directors and they have confirmed our selection. It will of course be some time before the asylum is ready for occupation, but work will be expedited as fast as possible."

VIOLET QUEEN SPURNS "DOT."

Widow Wants at Least Half of Big King Estate.

Will Doesn't Suit the Young Beauty Who Wed Age.

Seeks Million Instead of Hundred Thousand.

A paltry $100,000 to struggle along on, and a trifle like $10,000 to use in musical research! Absurd, says Mrs. Maude Robinson King, young, beautiful and the widow of the late James C. King, railway and street-car manufacturing magnate of Chicago, and some time ye Violet King of the Hotel Green, Pasadena.

Nothing less than half of the King millions, variously estimated at from $2,000,000 to $20,000,000, will do.

So says Mrs. King, and she ought to know.

The story behind the admittance to probate yesterday of the will of the late Mr. King, and the appointment of Randolph H. Miner of this city as executor of the property in Los Angeles, is as old as the hills.

Age and success in business. The amassing of millions and the onward rush of age, on the one hand. Beauty, with accomplishments and some foresight on the other hand. A tender interest in the welfare of Beauty by Age.

Interest deepens and December, aged 70, weds June, aged 25.

Above not consummated, however, until Beauty has been shown a codicil in the will of Age in which $100,000 would be hers at Age's death.

Speed is put on and marriage follows the next day.

A few years of married life and death claims his own.

Beauty awakens to the sudden knowledge that she absolutely needs one-half of the enormous estate of Age to keep the wolf from the door, and a study in human nature follows.

James C. King, aged 70, who died November 1 last, was one of the well-known business men of Chicago, and likewise, well known in Los Angeles and Pasadena, where, during the last ten years, he had been a regular winter visitor.

HER TRIP TO EUROPE.

In 1901 he was married to Miss Maude A. Robinson of Morrison, Ill., a student of music. He had known Miss Robinson for years, and took a deep interest in her musical researches. His interest grew and he financed a trip to Europe, whereby Miss Robinson vastly improved her musical experience.

Prior to the marriage some interesting developments occurred in the life of Mr. King. He made a will dated July 6, 1901, and provided that $10,000 be given Miss Robinson at his death, with which she was to continue her musical studies.

Four days passed, and the effect of the bequst was noted.

Another incident happened. Mr. King summoned a lawyer, and added a codicil to his will. He termed it an antenuptial agreement, and said that Miss Robinson, who would then be Mrs. King, was to get $100,000 at his death, and that she would thereby relinquish all other claims to his estate.

This agreement evidently was satisfactory and the next day, July 11, 1901, James C. King and Miss Robinson were made one.

Then Mr. King died.

He had never changed his will, and when it was admitted to probate in Chicago, it was found that he had neglected to name an executor, and the courts appointed the Union Trust Company of Chicago as such.

In his will Mr. King bequeathed $10,000 to the Pasadena Hospital, in which he had been interested prior to his death, together with P. D. Armour.

HOME FOR AGED MEN.

Other bequests outside of the $100,000 to Mrs. King, totaled about $70,000, and were principally of a charitable nature. The residue of the vast estate, estimated at several millions, was to be used to found a home for old men in the vicinity of Chicago, and to be known as the "James C. King Home for Aged Men."

The Northern Trust Company of Chicago was named as trustee of the residue of the estate, and it is stated by those interested in the matter that it was the intention of Mr. King to name Byron Smith, president of the Northern Trust Company, executor, and the company administrator of the estate.

The lack of an executor caused the courts of Chicago to appoint one and Mrs. King secured the appointment of the Union Trust Company as executor and then nominated Randolph H. Miner of Los Angeles executor of the property in this State.

Mrs. King, under the will, giving her $100,000, immediately at Mr. King's death, was not legally a party to any proceedings for the appointment of an executor, but this was overcome when the purpose of her action became known.

In the papers filed yesterday with the probating proceedings, Mrs. King stated that she repudiated the will and ante-nuptial agreement. She said it was invalid and void in law and voidable because obtained by fraud and without the exercise of good faith toward her, and she elects to take one half of the estate under the general law in such matters.

An interesting point in the case is the fact that Randolph H. Miner purchased one-fourth of the legacy of Mary Stretch of Chicago, which amounted to $2000. Mr. Miner's interest thus becomes almost identical with those of the originally named heirs. He was then appointed executor.

BIG ESTATE HERE.

The estate left by Mr. King in Los Angeles will amount to about $700,000. About $20,000 of this is in cash deposited in the banks and between $600,000 and $700,000 in securities deposited in safety deposit boxes.

To act as executor of this big sum of money it was necessary for Mr. Miner to give bond to the amount of $1,270,000 the largest surety ever placed in this county.

Mrs. James C. King, from a photograph taken in Paris and presented to a friend at Hotel Green, Pasadena.

While it is anticipated that the matter will come to trial in the Los Angeles county courts, nothing definite is known of the action to be taken by the Northern Trust Company of Chicago, which under the will should handle the money to establish the home for aged men.

Mrs. King is now in Havana, Cuba, where she has been during the entire winter.

Pasadenans and many of the regular winter guests of the Hotel Green have a vivid memory of James C. King the "Violet King" as he was familiarly known through his propensity to give violets to the majority of the ladies of his acquaintance.

Many a fond heart with a keen financial turn and a knowledge of the King, millions was torn with bitter envy, when at the beginning of the winter of 1901-02 a beautiful young maiden with blooming cheeks and a winsome way dawned upon recipients of "Violet" King's favors, and was announced as Mrs. "Violet" King.

And then the dance began.

NO WILL CONTEST?

SO 'TIS SAID IN CHICAGO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Americus B. Melville, attorney for Mrs. James C. King, says: "There will be no contest of the will of James C. King. In the will there was no provision made for an administrator and under the law the widow in such case has the right to appoint one." Mrs. King named the Union Trust Company of Chicago. In the papers, however, she affirmed that she did not waive any of her rights. This was necessary in order to protect her in case at any time she did wish to take action regarding the disposition of the estate. In California an administrator, subject to the administrator in Chicago, was appointed to look after that part of the estate in Los Angeles and other California cities. The same legal papers were filed there that were filed in Chicago several months ago when the Union Trust Company was appointed."

Mrs. King, according to her attorney, is now in New York.

Byron L. Smith, president of the Northern Trust Company, trustees under the will of the King estate, and Fred Wilkes, vice-president of the Union Trust Company, also denied tonight that there will be any contest against the will.

MYTHICAL VICTORIA.

Eastern People Continue to be Deceived by Unscrupulous Advertisers of Mexican Lands.

The Richardson Construction Company, of which W. T. Selleck of this city is assistant general manager, with offices in the Lankershim building, is being confused by some people with the "Toledo Development and Exploration Company," which is deceiving eastern innocents with glowing accounts of the City of Victoria, in Sonora, Mex. There is no such place as Victoria, and those posted on the nature of the country in Sonora say it is impossible at the location designated, as it is a mountainous country, worth not over 25 cents an acre.

A number of people have arrived at Nogales, showing certificates for land purchased and seeking in vain for Victoria. The Oasis, published at Nogales, denounces the whole scheme. The Richardson company has 250,000 acres along the valley of the Yaqui River, where it has operated for eighteen years, and is building a railroad from near Guaymas to run through these lands, and it is supposed that it is upon the strength of these operations that fraudulent Victoria is being advertised.

DESERVES A REWARD.

Anna Golburg, a young school girl residing at No. 643 North Hill street, appeared at the Police Station last evening with a gold watch which she had picked up on Second street, between Main and Spring streets. The watch was attached to a fob on which was fastened a Knights of Columbus pin. The watch is in the hands of the property clerk today.

NEW DISTRICT FOR INDUSTRY.

Throbbing Commercial Plan Salt Lake's Move.

Miles of Freight Trackage, Many Factories.

Going Before City Council for Franchise.

The creation of an entirely new industrial district for Los Angeles, ample in itself for the accommodation of the commercial activities of a city of a much larger population than this at present boasts, and making that district the throbbing center of a humming activity of busy factories and large jobbing houses; all that is contained in the strategic move of the Salt Lake to secure the establishment of extensive new freight trackage running north and south through the alley just east of Santa Fé avenue.

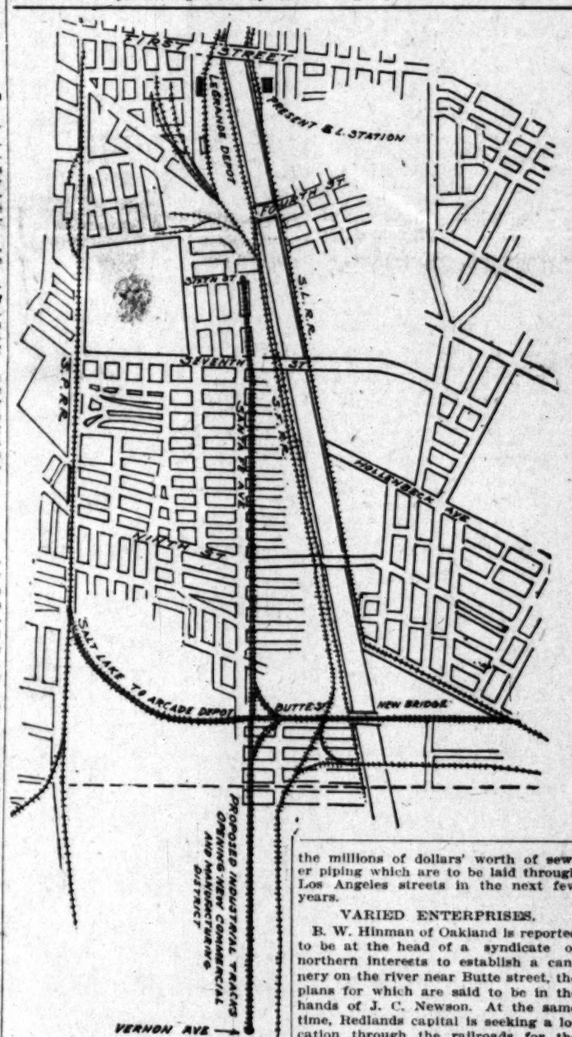
Next Monday the Salt Lake will file with the City Council a petition asking a franchise for the construction of a switch or track connecting with its new line spanning the Los Angeles River by the recently-constructed bridge at Butte street.

Crossing the river at this point from a connection with the main line of the Salt Lake just east of the stream, a direct connection will be made with the Southern Pacific on Butte street, by which route its passenger trains both through and local will enter and leave the new Arcade union station.

From this line on Butte street, at a point just east of Santa Fé avenue, it is proposed to extend industrial tracks north and south through the alley running parallel with the avenue.

Turning north from Butte street, these tracks will extend to Seventh street, thence east to Mesquite, and north on Mesquite to Sixth, where the north extension will terminate not far from the present freight and passenger yards of the Santa Fé.

Southward from Butte, the other extension of the proposed tapping line into the new industrial district will follow the course of the alley east of Santa Fé avenue to Beulah street, thence across private right of way to Vernon avenue at a point close to the oil refinery of the British-Californian Company.



Showing where the Salt Lake railroad would develop a new industrial district.

MEANS WORK AND INDUSTRY.

With a total length of about two miles from this north and south line of the Salt Lake will radiate a network of side tracks for the accommodation of industries already founded and in contemplation. The comparative few on the inside of this coup of wide-reaching importance see in the opening of this section of land, which has hitherto been much sought for industrial purposes, the establishment of new enterprises which will not only give employment to more thousands of workmen, but will largely increase the productive capital of the city.

Already and in anticipation of the granting of the franchise by the City Council, new plants, improvements of old plants and the inauguration of entirely new enterprises aggregating in the contemplated outlay of capital several millions of dollars, are planned to be erected in the new district.

GREAT IRON PLANT.

Among the most important of these is the enterprise of which Henry G. Conway of Chicago is the representative, for the establishment of a big plant on the tract of land bounded by Lenard and Cheney streets, the river and the alley east of Santa Fé avenue, for the manufacture of wrought-iron pipe, for which a ready market is for the millions of dollars' worth of sewer piping which are to be laid through Los Angeles streets in the next few years.

VARIED ENTERPRISES.

B. W. Hinman of Oakland is reported to be at the head of a syndicate of northern interests to establish a cannery on the river near Butte street, the plans for which are said to be in the hands of J. C. Newson. At the same time, Redlands capital is seeking a location through the railroads for the erection of a $100,000 cannery, and several Uplands men have just secured two lots on Beulah street, upon which they propose to erect a factory for the production of marmalade.

Riverside capital, at the same time, has made application to the industrial department of the Santa Fé for a site upon which to erect a factory for the manufacture of fancy oranges and lemon wood boxes, and novelties from the same material and the yucca plant.

It is reported on good authority that contracts have been let for the construction of an eight-story brick block on Mesquite near Seventh street, which is said to be intended for the use of a new cracker and biscuit factory, at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars, and of a capacity calling for the employment steadily of from 300 to 400 men.

As a result of the recent visit of the Oregon delegation, Portland capitalists are negotiating with the Salt Lake for a suitable site on Porter street near Santa Fé avenue for the erection of a structural steel works. Only yesterday the Consolidated Iron works began operation of its new works in this district for the construction of iron pipe.

Work is just being commenced on a new four story-brick building on Santa Fé avenue near Porter street, which is destined for industrial uses, and a large planing mill company now operating on South Main street, has just secured five acres of land on the river between Edwin and Cheney streets, upon which it proposes to erect at the earliest possible moment a complete new pl

Revival of Moss-grown Report that Harriman Bought Santa Monica Line.

If you happen to hear the street rumor that E. H. Harriman and his associates have purchased the Los Angeles-Pacific Railroad and all the property here and elsewhere controlled by that railroad company don't believe it. It is not true.

Four or five times a year this rumor springs up from some source which those most interested have not been able to discover, and time and again it has been denied until the owners of the electric line have grown tired of being called upon to make denials.

One of the officials of the Los Angeles-Pacific Company who is in a position to know all about the company's affairs stated last night that there is no more truth in the present rumor than there was in any of the others. It simply is not true.

NATION'S GOLD IN HIS KEEP.

United States Treasurer Treat Tarries Here.

Sees no Early Prospect of Flexible Currency.

Predicts Even Greater Prosperity of Country.

The man who holds in the hollow of his hand, so to speak, all the millions of our great Uncle Samuel is in Los Angeles. And the riches of our uncle in these days is very great. This man

CHARLES TREAT,
United States Treasurer.

is Charles Henry Treat, a New Yorker who, about a year ago, became Treasurer of the United States.

This guardian of so much wealth was at the Van Nuys yesterday afternoon. He was seated in the big hallway talking to Mr. Murphy of the Johnson-Carvell Company and Mr. Hamilton, secretary of the Gail Borden Milk Company of New York. Mr. Treat and Mr. Hamilton had come out to look into some business enterprise at Bakersfield, the exact nature of which they were not in a mood to make public. The Treasurer said:

"When we were so near I said to Mr. Hamilton, let us go down and see this wonderful place Los Angeles, about which all the world is talking. So here we are.

"You have indeed a very wonderful city here by the Pacific. We hear of it everywhere. You have certainly an unmatchable climate, and, as it seems to us, fuel oil. But your real resources are beyond the mountains. When men make a fortune and the time to rest comes, they will come here to find it."

FINANCIAL LEGISLATION.

As to legislation of banking and finances, Mr. Treat said:

"I had a conference on the subject with the chairman of the Committee on Banking just before I left Washington. We do not hope to get a law passed embracing the scope of Secretary Shaw's views. We have settled down to get a bill through on the line of least resistance. There is too much prejudice against national banks in certain quarters to get a law passed giving the country the relief needed in the way of a flexible currency.

"You use coin out here and you do not know the inconvenience we suffer at the East for small bills. The national banks cannot issue bills of under $5, and only one-third their issue of that denomination.

"Silver certificates are not adequate to the needs of the country. So we are asking for a bill allowing us to issue $5 gold certificates, and that will permit us to issue all the silver certificates in $1 and $2 bills. That is probably the legislation we will have."

FUTURE OUTPUT OF GOLD.

The Director of the Mint, Mr. Roberts, in a recent utterance said that in twenty years the output of gold from all the mines in the world will be as much as $8,000,000,000. That will give the world an increase in gold equal to more than all the gold in the world at the present time. Being asked about this, Mr. Treat said:

"It seems more than probable. It is almost certain. The world output of gold is now $400,000,000 a year. In five years it will be $600,000,000. That would give in twenty years a larger increase in gold even than Director Roberts speaks of.

"The effect of this output of gold at the present time is seen everywhere. That is what gives so great impetus to the industries of the world. That accounts for the great rise in the value of real property all over the country. That indicates why so much money is going into new buildings in the cities. The continuance of this addition to the money stock of the world points to continued activity in all our industries and to higher prices for real estate. If it goes on for many years, and if it increases you will see values for property fairly jump. That is what I expect to see. It will come all at once. In a while only a few will see what is coming. Then all will see it, and prices will go higher than they are today."

AS TO CANDIDATES.

"Here is an easy one, Mr. Treat," said a reporter. "Will Mr. Roosevelt run again?"

The guardian of the treasury stood in silence a moment, then he said:

"The President has said formally that he will not and those who know think he always means just what he says. There is no telling so far away from the event who will be the nominee of either party. If the Republicans pick a man who can command public confidence, he will be certainly elected. The country is Republican at heart. If the other side pick a man the people have little confidence in, the victory will be easy. But if these conditions are reversed——?"

Charles Henry Treat is a man of medium height and build. He is a clean-shaved, wholesome looking man, very affable and kindly in manner. His dress is that of the Washington type—what Uncle Joseph Cannon calls his "statesman's clothes," plain black, the cost the double-breasted frock.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

After rejecting Board No. 6, the Council yesterday proposed to the Mayor that the civic bodies be requested to submit nine names, from which shall be selected the three commissioners of the department of public works.

City Attorney Mathews said last night that he will cause warrants to be issued for the arrest of officers of the Home Telephone Company for failure to submit a financial statement, as required by the public utility ordinance.

There is a possibility of a large portion of the Sawtelle school district being annexed to Santa Monica, and Sawtelle is up in arms. hTe Supervisors are considering.

The fight over the pioneers' cemetery at Puente is on again. L. F. Lewis is sued civilly for $6000 damages, and for an order to enjoin him from pursuing the work of vandalism.

Ralph Richmond and Tony Hetz, boy burglars, who broke into a caboose and made away with brass, were bound over yesterday for trial in the Superior Court.

The case against Gertrude Hamilton, the woman horse trader, charged with embezzlement, was dismissed yesterday.

AT THE CITY HALL.

"CABINET" MAY TAKE A HAND.

COUNCIL AGAIN EXTENDS THE OLIVE BRANCH.

Proposes that Civic Bodies be Asked to Submit Nine Names for Places on Board of Public Works. McAleer's Ministers May be Called from Retirement to Help Deliberate.

Before the Mayor's "cabinet" may go the Council's proposal that the civic bodies be invited to name nine representative men from which the Mayor and the Council shall select three commissioners for the department of Public Works.

The "cabinet" has been somewhat in disgrace since it advised the Mayor to call the investigation which precipitated the present library wrangle; but members of the Mayor's official household said last night that the chief executive will advise with his ministers before he either accepts or rejects the olive branch extended to him yesterday by the Council.

During the last Mayoralty campaign Mr. McAleer, then a Councilman, repeatedly asserted from the platform that he would ask the commercial bodies to submit names for places on the Board of Public Works. Six months after his election he requested the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Municipal League and the Voters' League to submit him ten names each.

Members of the "inner circle" at the City Hall were offering odds last night that the Mayor will decline to hold any intercourse with the civic organizations. Some friends of the Mayor say that, with him, the time for compromise has passed.

Board No. 6 received but a short shrift yesterday morning from the Council. Howton made the motion that the appointment of Messrs. Del Valle, Perkins and Robinson be not confirmed. Healy gave the required second and the vote was unanimous.

PROPOSE NINE NAMES.

Followed an executive session in the Council committee room. This lasted half an hour. At its conclusion the Council reconvened and Councilman Smith presented the following resolution:

The undersigned members of the City Council earnestly desiring to terminate the unfortunate deadlock that now exists with regard to the appointment of a Board of Public Works, whereby all street and other improvements have come to a standstill, seriously threatening the welfare of the city, now beg to submit to the Mayor and to the citizens of Los Angeles the following proposition:

The charter by its provision requiring the confirmation of the Council plainly intends to vest a reasonable part of the responsibility for the quality of these appointments upon this body. The serious attempt to shirk responsibility is made more clearly evident at the present time by the fact that under the State law this Board of Public Works must control the Owens River water enterprise.

Now, we propose to the Mayor that he comply with his original plan and allow the commercial and civic bodies to assist him in making a selection of names for that very important position. We withdraw our original proposition along these lines, calling for the selection of only three names by the civic bodies, which we are given to understand is distasteful to the Mayor (apparently to us on purely personal ground,) and make the following proposition:

We agree on our part that if the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association and the Municipal League will, through committees appointed for that purpose, select nine names in all, other than those already rejected, and if the Mayor will make his appointments from the names so selected, we will, without delay meet and remain in session, if necessary, until the Mayor and Council can agree on a selection of three from those nine names. We hereby pledging ourselves in advance that we will cheerfully confirm a selection of three names out of the nine names so presented.

As we have said before, we have no candidates of our own, and do not wish to be accused of doing politics by even suggesting parties for the position, neither do we wish to oppose the Mayor unnecessarily, but as we deem the office of public works at the present time as equally important as that of the Mayor or the Council, we are determined that this board shall be composed of such men as will command the confidence and respect of the people.

HOWTON'S TOTEM YAWP.

"Gas" Howton was not invited to attend the executive conference at which the resolution was drafted. When it was read he hopped out of his chair like a jack-in-a-box, and commenced a harangue because the Central Council of Labor was not included as one of the four representative civic bodies.

It was one of the loud-mouthed nothings for which the Sixth Warder is notorious.

Gum-shoe Hay, Lembiddle, Dutch Drake and a half-dozen other union-labor sycophants, from their chairs in the lobby, lent to their champion their moral support.

All went smoothly as a boxing matinée until Howton slipped up on a union-labor petition and sprawled all over the records. By the time he recovered his equilibrium the Council had adopted the resolution and gone out to lunch.

The clerk of the Council forwarded the resolution to the Mayor before noon.

At the afternoon session no new list of names was received from the Mayor. Presumably he was pondering over the Council's proposal.

Last night he said that he will not be ready to act before the middle of this week.

Slate No. 7 was all prepared for presentation at the morning session; but under instructions from the Mayor, Clerk McKeag did not place it on file.

This slate, according to popular rumor, contains the names of C. O. Winters, E. T. Perkins and W. M. Humphreys.

John R. Mathews is said to be no longer a candidate. He is now president of the State Bank and Trust Company.

WANT FULL INDORSEMENT.

In discussing their resolution in the committee room after adjournment, several Councilmen said that their intent is that each of the nine names submitted by the civic bodies shall be indorsed by the three organizations. They said that their proposal does not contemplate that each body shall submit three names, but that all three organizations shall pass judgment on each name before it goes to the Mayor.

They think the conservatives in the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and the Chamber of Commerce will act as a safety valve on the radicals and Democrats in the Municipal League.

While the majority of the membership of the Municipal League is made up of Republicans, it is well known in political circles that the majority of the active members are Democrats. And it is furthermore well known that the League in the past has not been above doing Democratic politics.

An instance of this is the last municipal campaign. The day before the election an order was issued that all the carriages of the League should be turned over to the Democratic City Central Committee.

TO MAKE TEST CASE.

WARRANTS FOR OFFENDERS.

No financial statement was filed yesterday by the Home Telephone Company. It was the last day of grace. Today or tomorrow the City Attorney will cause warrants to be issued for the arrest of officers of the corporation.

The officers are expecting the city's legal department to take this course. They have carefully made the way clear for a test case on the public utility ordinance. This ordinance requires that each telephone and lighting company in the city shall submit to the Council during the month of January each year a financial statement of the company's business.

Five companies have filed these statements with the City Clerk. The Home Telephone Company and the squabs of Lowe gas are the delinquents. The legal department of the Home Telephone Company holds that, as rates are named in the company's franchise, the city cannot compel it to submit statements to be made the basis for a possible change of those rates. It is on these grounds that the company will make its fight in the courts.

Warned by the City Attorney's office that failure to file a statement would subject the officers to arrest and probable imprisonment, the Lowe Gas Company under one of its nom-de-guerres yesterday filed a supplemental statement purporting to show the amount of gas delivered last year and the cost of its manufacture.

The statement is not sworn to and is legally valueless. According to the Acting Secretary, it is only an estimate. The amount of gas sold last year is computed at 11,366,600 cubic feet. The manufacture and delivery, according to the estimate, cost the Company $13,460. The property estimate is $300,000.

DEADLOCK HOLDS.

BIDS NOT OPENED.

Acting on the advice of the City Attorney the Council yesterday did not open bids for public improvements. Only a few proposals were received. These the Council sent back to the vault in the City Clerk's office unopened.

There they may slumber until the Mayor and Council agree on a board of public works. Alongside them are a number of contracts which the Council would like to approve but over which according to the City Attorney, they have no jurisdiction.

The recommendation of the Health Board anent the alteration of the contract for the detention hospital buildings was not read in Council. The present contract provides that the detention buildings and the pest house shall be located in the same plot of ground. The Health Board is protesting; commissioners say that it is not reasonable to expect persons suspected of some mild disease to go to the small pox pest house. But the contract so nominates and it is not now in the power of the Council to make the alteration.

Little official business was transacted at yesterday's session; less perhaps than at any other regular session during the last three years. The deadlock has almost put the Council out of Commission.

The City Engineer's report consisted only of a few recommendations for the acceptance of maps and for establishing street grade.

Still awaiting official acceptance is the big 200-ton garbage incinerator out on Santa Fé avenue. This incinerator was contracted for by the Council, but under the provisions of the amended city charter it can be accepted only by the Board of Public Works.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

SCHOOL FIGHT ROUSES ANGER.

SAWTELLE PROTESTS AGAINST CHANGE IN DISTRICT.

People Object to Plan for Annexation of Certain Territory to Santa Monica for Educational Purposes. County Superintendent Keppel Says There's Politics in It.

The little town of Sawtelle is in the depths of woe. Recently it sought municipal honors and the future looked bright; now the very existence of the town is threatened. It has all arisen through the march of progress, and the laying out of a large tract known as Westgate, Westgate Acres and Westgate Heights.

A short time ago a petition was filed with County Superintendent of Schools Keppel, asking that all that portion of the Sawtelle School District above Nevada avenue, outside the Soldiers' Home, be annexed to the Santa Monica City School District. This petition purported to represent the wishes of all the residents and property owners in the territory affected. Mr. Keppel reduced the boundaries somewhat and then favored the suggestion.

At once a united cry went up from the people of Sawtelle. Petitions protesting against the change were filed and yesterday the matter was taken up before the Board of Supervisors. About 1500 protestants had signed the petitions against the change.

W. B. Taylor and J. Jewett, president of the Board of School Trustees at Sawtelle, both maintained that the scheme was merely a piece of selfishness; that the only persons affected were seven families now living in the Westgate region, and the children of these families would have to pass the Sawtelle school in order to reach the Santa Monica school. True, at present, High School advantages might be offered by Santa Monica, but Mr. Jewett maintained that Sawtelle has about the lowest tax rate in the county and will start on a High School as soon as the census marshal reports the necessary number of children. He said that Sawtelle was prepared to rent a house and start a High School.

From a financial standpoint, the taking away from Sawtelle of such a big slice of taxable property would leave it with the government reservation—not subject to taxation— and little else. Representatives of the protestants thought the scheme was a hit at the old soldiers, who have ever taken a pride in the school.

H. M. Gorham, representing the company that laid out the Westgate tracts, said the question of money didn't enter into the question; it was merely a question of development. He said it was untrue that children from Westgate would have to pass the Sawtelle schoolhouse on the car in order to reach Santa Monica, for within thirty days the cars would be running over the new double track along San Vicente avenue through the three Westgate divisions. Mr. Gorham said Sawtelle cannot maintain high-class schools, much less think of building a high school.

Keppel gave Sawtelle an ugly knock when he said a great deal of feeling had been introduced into the matter, and, so far as he could see, only for the purpose of implicating him with the old soldiers. He said that when the petition first was filed with him the Sawtelle people got out petitions and dismissed school so that the children might scurry around and get signatures to the protest. A prize of $10 was offered to the child that obtained the largest number of names. Then a petition was sent into the Soldiers' Home, saying that the district was threatened with the loss of six square miles, and in fact showed, said Mr. Keppel, that they didn't know what they were talking about.

"But I want to make a small prophecy," said Keppel, "and it is merely this: Inside of five years Santa Monica will overlap Sawtelle and take it in and they won't be able to help themselves.

"You can't keep it back with a Gatling gun," he said addressing himself particularly to the Sawtelle trustees, "the people are coming and they are going to take possession; you can't keep them back."

On Wednesday the Supervisors will go to Sawtelle and look over the ground, and then will determine the matter.

ECHO OF A TRAGEDY.

MILKMAN SEEKING DAMAGES.

John Saul, a milkman, is seeking damages on account of injuries received in the automobile accident which caused the death of Millionaire M. T. Hancock on South Main street. The amount he demands is $15,000, to which is added $700 contained in a bill of particulars. The suit is against the Hancock family. Milton, Nina, Newton and Eugenia Hancock are all made parties to the action. By a rule of law an injury of this kind is wiped out with a person's death and so the Hancock estate couldn't be sued. Another kink has developed in which it appears that the insurance company has refused to pay over about $25,000 insurance money, because the accident did not happen through the carelessness of the father Hancock, but of his son who was steering the machine under the supervision of his father.

The damage suit is now on trial in Judge Wilbur's court with T. Thornton representing the Hancocks and Clifton Axtell and Ed. G. Kuster appearing for Mrs. Saul.

The accident happened about 10 o'clock at night on July 20 last, when the auto went tearing down South Main street and collided with Saul in his wagon between Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets. Saul claims that he was hurled into the air and then was dragged along the ground for some distance. His wagon and harness were ruined and his horse killed. The wagon was valued at $75, harness at $10, horse at $125, his loss of time while laid up $200, and for physician's fee $200. This all, in addition to the specific claim of $15,000 as general damages.

It was with difficulty that a jury could be obtained. A number of jurors had prejudices against automobiles. One juror sought to be fair and said he had nothing against them but their smell.

MADE HER FAREWELLS.

SURPRISES FOR MISS DAVIS.

Miss M. Davis, who for several years has been assistant clerk to the Board of Supervisors, yesterday ended her official career upon her approaching marriage to J. Homer McCormick, a mining engineer of Montana.

During the afternoon a delegation from the twelve road foremen in the First Supervisoral District inveigled Miss Davis into the board room, and in behalf of the foremen in the late Mr. Longden's district presented her with a handsome solid silver set of knives and forks. Miss Davis had been brought in close touch with the foremen in the First District, and the spokesman voiced the general regret at Miss Davis's leaving, but bowed to the exigencies of the occasion.

Before adjourning the board also dispatched to Miss Davis's residence a token of their regard in the shape of a solid silver set of tea and table spoons. By an act of thoughtfulness the latter gift matches the dinner set, and each article bears the monogram in which the new initial which Miss Davis will soon use is most prominent. Each set of silver was enclosed in a handsome green velvet case, and both are choice specimens of the silversmith's art.

FORGED A DEED.

BAD WAY TO GET MONEY.

W. H. Stirlen is on trial in Judge Smith's court on the charge of having forged a deed so as to raise money on a mortgage. Stirlen had on several occasions borrowed small sums from W. E. Hayes, who is an employé of the city water department in Elysian Park, and had repaid these loans so that he had established a certain amount of trust with Hayes. Last July he asked Hayes to loan him $150 on some property he owned at San Diego, and as he offered to give his note and a mortgage upon which interest would be paid in the usual way, Hayes consented.

The mortgage given to secure payment of the note purported to be upon four lots in Horton's addition to San Diego, when as a matter of fact Stirlen did not own the property at all. When that fact was discovered the defendant was arrested.

BUCK PLAYS CRAZY.

EARLY TRIAL EXPECTED.

Morris Buck had a large audience upon his first appearance in the Superior Court, and from later events it is probable that he will have a spectacular trial. When his name was called he tottered into court as if he was oblivious of his surroundings.

"Have you an attorney?" inquired the District Attorney.

Buck gazed vacantly down at the floor and the question had to be repeated before he answered in the negative. When asked if he desired the court to appoint an attorney to defend him he again maintained silence. Judge Smith didn't wait to bandy words with the defendant, but appointed Adam Dixon Warner as counsel to guard such interests as are assured to every man under the law.

"Morris Buck—is that your true name?"

The man pretended that he didn't hear, but finally conceded that it was. Then he was duly arraigned, the details of the crime alleged against him being read off while he maintained the same pose of pretended craziness. Wednesday was set as the time for him to plead, and at that time an early date will be set for the trial.

HORSE THIEVES GUILTY

SNYDER AND CROUT WEAKEN.

When John Snyder and C. C. Crout were arrested for being implicated in a number of horse-stealing cases Snyder broke down and blamed his luck. He is a big fellow and didn't cut a very creditable figure. Crout turned on him and told him that had he accepted his advice he would never have got into the trouble he was then in.

The snapping between these two has led to the unraveling of a good many of the horse-stealing cases in which the man Ashton has cut a big figure. Both Snyder and Crout were only too ready to save their skins by telling all they knew, and yesterday they pleaded guilty before Judge Smith. The District Attorney asked that sentence be deferred a week, as by that time he might have some recommendation to make, inasmuch as the two men had been of service in the ferreting out of crime. Sentence accordingly went over.

FIGHT FOR DEAD.

PUENTE CEMETERY IN DISPUTE.

Not long ago L. F. Lewis was arrested on a criminal prosecution for desecrating a small cemetery at Puente, wherein a number of pioneers of Los Angeles were buried. Now Walter P. Temple has begun a civil suit against Lewis, to enjoin him from breaking down the brick wall, or from levelling the graves and otherwise desecrating the burial ground. A right of way over Lewis's land so as to afford ingress and egress to and from the ground is asked, and to cap the climax $6000 is asked by way of damages.

Some years ago Lewis bought the tract of land upon which the cemetery is located, and as no proviso was inserted into the deed that the burial ground was to be preserved, he viewed the place with no sentimental emotions. He began to tear down the brick wall that surrounded the ground, and sold the bricks. He had begun plowing inside when trouble burst upon him, and now it has to be determined to whom that cemetery belongs anyway.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES—MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTS DAMAGES. In behalf of his five-year-old child, Herbert F. Clark has brought suit against the Los Angeles Pacific Railroad Company to recover $5000 as damages. It is alleged that Clark and his little girl, Elin, took a car at Hollywood to go to Venice, and when they seated themselves in the car the window was open. While running through the principal street of Venice the child had her hand on the window ledge, when suddenly the window dropped and crushed one of her fingers.

TRIO OF DIVORCES. Anna Wittie was granted a divorce from Fred Wittie by Judge Trask yesterday on the ground of cruelty. The parties were married at Santa Barbara in 1902. Judge James also granted a divorce to William E. Smith, divorcing him from Ella E. Smith, on the ground of desertion. Hortense R. Bohrman and Henry R. Bohrman were married in this city in 1902, the husband being an inspector with the city water department. He was brutal in his behavior toward his wife and yesterday Judge Trask granted the wife her decree.

ADMITTED TO PRACTICE. Upon motion, Walter J. Desmond yesterday was admitted to practice by the Appellate Court.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

ONE BRUSH TO CONVICT TWO?

BOY BURGLARS BOUND OVER TO HIGHER COURT.

Ralph Richmond and Tony Hetz, Charged With Stealing from Caboose in Santa Fe Yards, Have a Term in Reform School Staring Them in the Face.

It is seldom that the possession of a two-bit shoe brush is considered sufficient cause to send two people to prison for long terms, but this seems likely to prove the case with Ralph Richmond and Tony Hetz.

They are charged with burglarising a caboose in the Santa Fé yards and stealing a large lot of stuff, which they sold to a negro who is maintaining a "fence" on Mateo street.

When arrested the boy burglars had an ordinary shoe brush in their possession. It had been taken from the car and this brush was introduced in evidence, and is likely to send both of them to Whittier Reform School for several years.

The boys are bright youths and apparently have decided to tell the truth about the burglary. When confronted with the brush yesterday in the Police Court they admitted taking it from the caboose, and told some other details of the robbery. They were bound over for trial in the Superior Court with bail fixed at $1500.

The officers believe that the two-bit shoe brush will be the indirect means or cause which will force the two lads to serve in one of the State reformatories for several years to come.

SHE DAVID HARUM FREE.

Gertrude Hamilton, the champion horse trader of Los Angeles, was tried yesterday before Justice Chambers in the Police Court on a charge of embezzlement preferred by E. A. D. Christopher. It was brought out in the hearing that Christopher had paid $95 for a 15-cent horse which could hardly walk a block. He evidently thought he gave the woman the money in trust until after he tried the horse, but he accepted a bill of sale of the horse as a receipt and the bill does not provide for the return of the money in case the horse was not satisfactory. Justice Chambers ruled that the woman was not guilty of embezzlement and dismissed the case.

Examination Postponed.

The preliminary examination of James H. Munach, charged with assault to commit murder, was postponed yesterday until a week from today, owing to the fact that the prosecuting witness is in the hospital recovering from his injuries. Munich is charged with shooting George W. Gwartney through the window of his office in Mercantile Place last Wednesday.

Ybarro Bound Over.

Victor Ybarro, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was held for trial in the Superior Court by Justice Rose yesterday, with bail fixed at $1500. Ybarro is charged with stabbing W. C. Ivers in the back with a pitchfork on January 10. Ivers had accused Ybarro of stealing a tin pail and the fight followed.

STRONG ONLY IN FEW SPOTS.

COUNTY EVIDENTLY "JOBBED" IN NEW JAIL BUILDING.

Plenty of Iron Bars and Some Heavy Walls, but Only Vigilance of Guards Prevents Other Jail Deliveries—Prisoners Closely Watched Now.

Since two of the youngest prisoners in the County Jail managed to escape two weeks ago yesterday, with no tools save a couple of small spoons, Sheriff White and the jailers have had to keep constant watch on the prisoners, for fear of other outbreaks.

The new County Jail was considered to be so strong that once a man was locked in it he could never break out unless the officers in charge opened the doors for him to make his exit. Since the two youths broke jail, however, the jailers have found that in places the county bastile is ridiculously weak.

In spots the jail is strong enough to cage a hundred of the wildest men who ever lived, but only in spots. The iron bars, where used, are extremely heavy, but, as in the case of a heavy chain with weak links, the weak spots in the jail cause those in charge of the prisoners no little worry.

In New Jersey they have an old law which provides that in case county prisoners escape the Sheriff of the county shall be hung. If such a law were in effect here Sheriff White would probably mount four or five Gatling guns and a squad of guards on the jail roof to sit on the lid and watch for some overanxious prisoner to climb through.

So long as the prisoners are kept locked up in their cells, which really are cages, they are pretty safe, but they cannot be so confined all the time and heretofore have been allowed the freedom of the various rooms around the sides of which the cells are located. Now, however, they can only be taken out of their cells for exercise, and during this time they are constantly watched by officers, for other weak spots have been discovered and great care has to be taken by the jailers.

Howard and Ellington, the two boys who escaped, learned that the roof of the jail was not armored, and that its chief strength consisted in the plaster on metallic lath which covered the ceiling. With a spoon they dug out the plaster, bent back the steel lath, and then easily broke through the outside sheathing.

Sheriff White is waiting on the Supervisors, whose duty it is to keep up the jail, and the hole made by the two boys has not as yet been repaired. It is probable that a thorough inspection of the county bastile will be made and extensive repairs tending to strengthen the whole and cork up the weak spots commenced in the near future.

Howard, the escape who was caught by the Sheriff at Tucson, refuses absolutely to tell the officers anything that will lead to the apprehending of Ellington, his partner. He says they separated in this city, and that he knows nothing of what became of Ellington, but the officers are inclined to think he knows much more than he is willing to tell.

Saratoga Midsummer Meeting—Football Deadlock.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to an amendment made today by Julian W. Curtiss, chairman of the Finance Committee of the American committee of the Olympic games, to be held at Athens, Greece, this spring, J. Pierpont Morgan has contributed $500 toward the fund being raised for the purpose of sending to the Olympic games a representative team of American athletes.

Among others who have subscribed to the funds are S. R. Guggenheim, $500; August Belmont, $100; Robert Garret, Baltimore, $100; Mortimer L. Schiff, $100; A. G. Mills, $25 and B. C. Williams of Winthrop, Me., $15. The Greek committee has also placed at the disposal of the American committee $1500. Representatives of the finance committee in all sections of the country are working hard to obtain the $25,000 that it will be necessary to raise to send to Athens athletes from America for all the different events.

D. Nesbit, president of the South-Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, has announced that it was the intention of the clubs of the South-Atlantic association to contribute $1000 toward defraying the expenses of the team, and it is expected that John R. Drew, ex-president, president of the New York Athletic Club, will make arrangements whereby "The Mercury Foot" will contribute to the fund.

RACES FOR BUTTE.

PROMOTER NOW HERE.

Tom Gimmell, capitalist, mining man and sporting man, of Butte, is at the Hollenbeck, and will spend several weeks in the city.

His visit to Los Angeles is for the purpose of conferring with local horsemen owners and arranging for the meeting of circuit racing in Montana.

Butte has been closed with the Marcus Daly estate at Butte for the purchase of the old race track used by him for his lifetime to develop the thoroughbreds from his famous Bitter Root farm, and it is the plan of Gimmell and others to make Butte one of the racing centers of the West.

Associated with Gimmell are such men as Dan Hennessy, the merchant prince of Butte, once western representative of the Amalgamated Copper company; Henry Mueller, former brewery and brewerymen; Hugh Williams, millionaire sportsman, W. A. Clark, Jr., and a number of others controlling almost untold millions.

The racing season at Butte will open in July and hold for several weeks, during which the horsemen will complete the circuit, which includes the fairs of Missoula, Bozeman, Livingston, finally closing at Helena in October.

An enormous amount of money is to be expended in developing the race track in Butte and it is Gimmell's mission while here to secure pledges of support from owners operating at

MIDSUMMER MEETING.

BIG STAKES IN PROSPECT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Announcement was made today that the stakes for the Saratoga midsummer meeting would be held on Monday, March 5, with the exception of the cross-country fixtures, which are to have a later closing day. The principal stake of the meeting, as usual, will be the Great Republic, for which it will have nothing like the value of last season. It is now a stake worth $5000 added money, as against a value of $3000 when Syconby galloped home first last year. The stake was named for William C. Whitney, and is designed to be the richest fixture on the American turf.

Last year its net value to James R. Keene was $41,462, which more than any two of the rich stakes won by the great son of Melton. Next in importance to the Great Republic is Sysonby's winnings was the annexation of the Metropolitan, his last race of his two-year-old career. It netted $20,500. The Century, $14,775; the Tidal, $11,375; Brighton Derby, $11,750; Commonwealth, $7750; Iroquois, $5750, and [illegible] of the Metropolitan,

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to an amendment made today by Julian W. Curtiss, secretary of the Finance Committee of the American committee of the Olympic games, to be held at Athens, Greece, next spring, J. Pierpont Morgan has contributed $500 toward the fund being raised for the purpose of sending to the Olympic games a representative team of American athletes.

Among others who have subscribed to the funds are S. R. Guggenheim, $500; August Belmont, $100; Robert Garret, $100; Mortimer L. Schiff, $100; J. G. Mills, $25 and B. C. Williams of Baltimore, Md., $15. The Greek committee has also placed at the disposal of the American committee $1500. The representatives of the finance committees of all sections of the country are working hard to obtain the $25,000 that it is necessary to raise to send to Athens athletes from America for all different events.

Gustavus Kirby, president of the Southern Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, has announced that it was the intention of the clubs of the Southern Association to contribute $1000 toward defraying the expenses of the team. It is expected that John R. Drew, president of the New York Athletic Club, will make arrangements with "The Mercury Foot" will contribute to the fund.

The Olympian Athletic Association, as well as other organizations, are likewise interesting themselves, and the trials for team selection will meet shortly soon in order to select as many athletes as possible to make the trip.

RACES FOR BUTTE.

MANAGER NOW HERE.

Thomas Gimmell, capitalist, mining man and sporting man, of Butte, is at the Hollenbeck, and will stay a few weeks in the city.

Butte to Los Angeles is for the purpose of conferring with local horsemen and arranging for the winter circuit racing in Montana.

Having been closed with the Marcus Daly estate at Butte for the purchase of the old race track used by Daly in his lifetime to develop the horses from his famous Bitter Root farm, it is the plan of Gimmell and associates to make Butte one of the racing centers of the West.

Associated with Gimmell are such men as Phil Hennessy, the merchant prince of Butte, once western representative of the Amalgamated Copper interests; Henry Mueller, fromer brewery man; Hugh Williams, sportsman, W. A. Clark, and a number of others of almost untold millions.

The racing season at Butte will open about the first of June and hold for several weeks, during which time the horsemen will compete for a purse, which includes the Montana, Bozeman, Livingston and Helena in October.

The amount of money is to be added to developing the race track at Butte, and it is Gimmell's mission here to secure pledges from horse owners operating at that point.

SUMMER MEETING.

STAKES IN PROSPECT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Announcement was made today that the stakes for the Saratoga summer meeting would close Monday, March 5, with the exception of the cross-country fixtures, which have a later closing day. The big stake of the meeting, as it will be the Great Republic, which will have nothing like the value of last season. It is now a stake of $25,000 added money, as against a purse of $15,000 when Syeonby galloped away with it last year. The stake was named for William C. Whitney, and is said to be the richest fixture on the American turf.

The Great Republic has not value to James R. Keene's account, which more than one-half of the rich stakes won by the property of Melton. Next in importance to the Great Republic of winnings was the annual renewal of the last race of his famous career. It netted $20,500. The Suburban had a net value of $17,475; the Tidal, $14,775; the Brooklyn Derby, $11,750; Commonwealth, $8750; Iroquois, $7750, and the Realization of the Metropolitan, $6500. These figures will serve to show the importance of the Great Republic, when run under the conditions originally contemplated by Mr. Whitney.

It is the intention of the Saratoga Association to increase the Great Republic to make it a $20,000 stake, in 1907, but there will be no attempt to restore it to the princely value intended by its originator. The distance remains the same, one mile and a quarter, and as formerly, weights are governed by penalties and allowances.

TALENT IS HOT AT ASCOT PARK.

CROWSHADE WINS ON LONG ODDS, JARRING WISEACRES.

Favorite Ponemah Finishes Seventh and Backers Drop Some Money. Cloudy Weather Keeps Down Attendance, and Rheumatic Running Rouses Little Enthusiasm.

In the fourth race at Ascot yesterday, Crowshade, at 10 to 1, finished first and jarred some of the wise ones up a bit, while Ponemah, a 9-to-5 favorite in the first race, finished seventh and took a wad of money out of the talent. Ponemah opened at 3 to 1, but he looked good and his odds were hammered down before the gong sounded.

The weather was cloudy and the attendance small. The horses seemed to feel the effects of the moisture and ran as though they had rheumatism, calling forth but little enthusiasm.

HORSES ATTACHED.

HAY BILLS HIT ASCOT.

Horses belonging to eight racing stables have been attached at Ascot Park on claims for hay bills due the Los Angeles Hay Company.

Some of the horses have been left in the Ascot stables under guard; others have been brought to the city and put in livery stables. None of the attached nags have especially famous track records.

As the season is drawing to a close and as there will probably never be another one at Ascot, the feed men are pressing hard on the horse owners for final settlement.

The stables attached are the Kievie, J. M. Wells, Strauss, St. Vincent, Pratt, Tryon, Holcomb, Webber.

TO BOOM LACROSSE.

Local Organization Will Consolidate to Promote Interest in the Great Canadian Sport.

Canadian lacrosse has had a boom of late, and there is a movement on foot to consolidate the four clubs now existing in Los Angeles. These clubs, the Los Angeles Lacrosse Club, the Shamrock, the Crescent Lacrosse, and the Los Angeles High School Lacrosse Club, number all told about sixty members, many of them expert lacrosse players.

A meeting will be held at No. 315 South Hill street tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss the question of consolidation. All Canadian lacrosse players, whether they belong to any of the existing clubs or not, are invited to be present, and the promoters of the affair expect to organize a club that will compare favorably with any on the Pacific Coast.

Lacrosse is a comparatively new game so far as California is concerned, having only come into popularity here during the last two years, but many good players have developed, and those interested in the game feel that the time is ripe for the organization of a club along broader lines than any existing at the present time.

As soon as the consolidation goes into effect a team will be picked from among the members which it is hoped will succeed in lowering the colors of some of the more prominent northern aggregations, notably the Santa Barbara and the San Francisco clubs.

RETIRES TODAY.

Gen. S. S. Sumner Reaches Age Limit and Will Now Rest Upon His Honors.

Gen. Samuel Storrow Sumner, commander of the Pacific Division, U.S.A., will retire from the army today, he being 64 years old. Few officers have seen longer service than Gen. Sumner. He has been one of the country's noble defenders for nearly forty-five years.

He is a valiant soldier and an officer in every sense of the word. He was "born in the army," his father being the late Maj.-Gen. Edwin Vose Sumner. His early life was passed at various stations where his father was on duty.

When the Civil War broke out, young Sumner was about to enter West Point, but instead he entered the army, and on June 11, 1861, was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Second United States Cavalry. In November, 1861, he was assigned to duty on the staff of Gen. E. V. Sumner. In the spring of 1862 he accompanied the army of the Potomac to Fortress Monroe. He was present at the battles of Williamsburg, Fair Oaks and Seven Pines and was brevetted first lieutenant for gallantry and meritorious service in the battle of Fair Oaks. He also took part in the battles of South Mountain, Antietam and Fredericksburg, and was brevetted captain for gallant conduct in the battle of Antietam. He participated in the latter part of the campaign against Vicksburg, and was present at the surrender of that place to Gen. Grant. He was brevetted major on March 13, 1865, for meritorious conduct during that campaign.

In April, 1865, the soldier who is now retiring joined his regiment at Washington as captain. He was stationed on reconstruction duty at Jackson, Miss., until the spring of 1869. In May, 1869, he participated in the campaign against the Sioux Indians in Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado, and was in the battle of Summit Spring. In the summer of 1876 he was present at the battle of Slim Buttes. In the summer of 1877 he took part in the campaign against Joseph, the Nez Perce chief. From 1879 to 1884 he was in command of the post at Fort McIntosh, Texas. In 1885 he commanded a squadron of the Eighth Cavalry during the campaign against Geronimo. In 1887 he was made inspector-general and assigned to the Department of the Columbia, where he remained until 1891.

From there he went to various posts until the breaking out of the Spanish-American War.

In April, 1898, he was appointed to the command of the First Cavalry at Chickamauga and took that troop to the Santiago campaign. During the battle of San Juan, owing to the illness of Gen. Wheeler, he commanded the cavalry division, which included the regular cavalry and the First Regiment Volunteer Cavalry, or Rough Riders. In 1899 he was detailed for duty as military attaché at the Court of St. James, where he remained until July, 1900. He was present at the autumn maneuvers of the German army, during that time being the guest of the German Emperor.

At his own request he was relieved from duty at London in order to assume command of his regiment in China. He served there until November, 1900. He was promoted to brigadier-general on February 4, 1901. He served in the Philippines until July 1, 1903. He was promoted to major-general on August 6, 1903. On May 1, 1905, he took command of the Pacific Division. He was the third officer in his family to be in command of this division.

Gen. Sumner and wife will remain on the coast until summer.

"Say it is not true," cables Count Boni from Paris. But what's the use of saying it, when it is?

The conference at Algeciras has fixed a time to adjourn. The delegates have probably heard from their wives.

It isn't worth while to try to create sensations any more. No matter what's done today something will be done tomorrow to totally eclipse it.

The physical atmosphere of Pittsburgh has always been more or less smoky, but its moral atmosphere seems now to be even worse.

The Senate is asking an interminable number of questions. The idea is doubtless to offset the number of questions that the Senate is being asked.

There is so much talk about "fighting preachers," these days, that we should not be surprised to soon hear a great deal about preaching fighters.

If those Chinamen continue to raise Cain with American missionaries in the town of Fati, the said town runs a good, strong chance of being thinned out.

The New York Sun has been taken to task for calling weekly newspapers hebdomadal. Isn't it right? Please let us know before you consult your dictionary.

In renouncing her allegiance to the British throne, Miss Cynthia Roche, by such action, need not necessarily create surprise, not to speak of a sensation. She's Irish.

Perhaps our exclusion of the Chinese from this country may yet be enlarged in scope so as to effect the extinguishment of a great many more of them from their own country.

Japan says that there are weak places in the armor of Great Britain's units. In other words, the brown man means that in a scrap he could reduce the Briton to decimals.

It is reported that a Pennsylvania woman has invented an auger that will bore a square hole. If she invented an auger at all it is certain it will not bore a round hole.

If we go to war against China we shall have to reckon principally with the fighting abilities of Gen. Ma, and he may not prove to be as much of an old woman as his name indicates.

Count Boni's best friend in this sad business appears to be his cousin, the Comte Armande de Gontaut Biron. He is probably one of those duelling French devils with a soft, sweet name.

Young John D. Rockefeller disputes the theory that the way to resist temptation is to get close to it. He evidently overlooks the fact that if a man is not close to a thing he has no chance to resist it.

The game of poker is condemned by the religious element in the United States. But if the terms used in poker were to be eliminated from the language of statesmanship, how could we conduct the government?

Mrs. James Brown Potter says she owes nothing to her husband's family. This is fortunate, for in view of the latest reports on the lady's financial condition, if she did owe the said family anything she couldn't pay it.

A New York paper reports that a grandson of James G. Blaine is engaged in the business of selling eggs. But that's nothing. There are descendants of African kings engaged as bootblacks in almost every town in America.

The commission has fixed upon July 1 as the date to begin work on the Panama Canal. The date upon which the work will end depends on so many things, including the United States Senate, that even the commission declines to do any guessing.

Keeping up her reputation as the sensation center of the Union, Pittsburgh now presents a church choir which has gone on strike. The surprise is that Pittsburgh is giving any attention to matters pertaining to or connected in any way whatever with the church.

The people of China express themselves as dissatisfied with the actions of the United States Congress. That's nothing, though, to the state of feelings we are forced to endure ourselves. From the time the blamed thing meets until it adjourns we are subjected to a protracted and incurable desire to cuss.

Yuan Shikai, who has been heralded as the main guy, the center pole and the chief squeeze of the present Chinese dynasty, is actively engaged in chasing Americans out of Chi-li and other Celestial precincts, at the hour of going to press. Is this the way for a Chinaman to repay us for chasing his countrymen out of America?

We have long waited for the real explanation of Dowie's failure in Zion, but now at last we have it. According to Elder Cossum, the failure aforesaid is explained in the following words, to wit: "The reason is that the men and women in the church did not acknowledge the vision with Dowie, and instead of giving him their money they kept it in their pockets." And how can they be blamed? Visions vanish, but dollars comforteth the heart, and buy oil and honey and good victuals for the stomachs of the faithful.

WHAT WILL THE MAYOR DO?

What will the Mayor do now? Will the Chief Executive of the city be conciliatory and wise? The Council at its session yesterday passed a resolution asking three of the local civic bodies, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and the Municipal League to name nine men out of whom the Mayor may name in groups of three nominees to serve as a Board of Public Works. The proposition at one time reported as likely to come from the Council was to ask these three bodies to name three men whom, if the Mayor would nominate, the Council would affirm at once. Let us concede that there was some propriety in the Mayor developing objection to this plan. It would really have been to take the nomination entirely out of his hands. But that is not so as the matter will probably come before him now. He will have nine men appointed by three representative organizations of business men of the city, and surely out of these nine he and the Council ought to be able to select three who would be acceptable to all interests concerned.

It is assumed here that the three civic bodies will accede to the request of the Council if it comes to them from the Mayor, and will all agree on nine names of capable, honest and successful men out of whom a Board of Public Works may be selected. These three bodies, composed as they are on the whole of men successful in managing their own business, will select better material out of which to create a Board of Public Works than any collection of mere politicians would be likely to do.

If the Mayor and Council can only get together in an amicable way, forget they are doing politics and proceed to do what they were elected to do, take care of the city's business to the best of their ability and with the best judgment they have, here is an excellent opportunity to get a fairly satisfactory Board of Public Works.

There is, to be sure, some difficulty in the way of accomplishing this. The mischievous, professional reformers who always have their fingers in every pie, have so framed the amendment to the charter creating this Board of Public Works that the men who shall compose it must give up altogether their own business and devote the whole of their time and attention to the duties of this public office. Now, that provision goes a long way toward eliminating from the possibility of being on the Board of Public Works a large number of citizens who would be most likely to render the best services. The water board is not so restricted and it affords an excellent example of what may be done in giving the city honest and efficient service. Indeed, these men attend to this particular part of the city's business without pay excepting in the case of the chairman of the board.

But we have to take things as they are. It is of the utmost importance that the city have a Board of Public Works at the earliest possible moment. The Council seems to be desirous to meet the situation fairly. They have heretofore been unable to confirm Mayor McAleer's nominations. It is not saying too much to state that the rejection of most of the men so far named by the Mayor meets with the approbation of the great mass of intelligent citizens who are not mixed up in ward politics. It is fairly to be presumed that the civic bodies will pay no attention to the politics of these whom they will suggest. They will not consult the ward politicians in making their selections, nor will Fennessy, Drake, Dr. Haynes and that type of mischief-maker be likely to be invited to add their aid.

It is to be hoped, for the city's sake, that Mr. McAleer will cordially coöperate with the Council, accept the fair suggestion put before him by the Council and ask the three bodies here named to render this service to the city. It is to be hoped that the three organizations will act with all possible dispatch and will send the names of nine reputable, capable business men to the Mayor, out of whom the Board of Public Works may be chosen and the business of the city will move forward once more smoothly and efficiently. So may it be. So it will be, if the Mayor shows the right spirit.

If the Mayor should nominate any group of three from nine men named in unison by the civic organizations and the Council should reject this bunch, the Mayor should be expected to try again. The Council could not fairly be called upon to blindly confirm the first selection made by the Mayor. The Councilmen would be acting within their rights and would be fulfilling their duty to the public, should they carefully scrutinize the whole list of nine and insist on the right combination before confirming the Mayor's nominees. It must be remembered that the Council as well as the Mayor has power and responsibility in the premises, conferred on it by the charter. As the situation stands now, a tremendous onus falls on the Mayor if he declines this offer from the Council of what is practically a form of arbitration. The people are in favor of a peace conference. The situation is critical and to prolong it will cost the city dearly. Let us have arbitration and peace.

THE "INITIATIVE," "REFERENDUM" AND "RECALL."

The "initiative" clause of the Los Angeles City Charter is on trial before the Supreme Court of the State. Not only is the "initiative" on trial, but the issues presented, broadly speaking, cover also the "referendum" and "recall" provisions of the amended charter, for they are all measures of direct legislation. The decision of the court in this case, however, will affect only the initiative.

The case before the Supreme Court was brought to test the validity of an ordinance limiting the area within which slaughter-houses may be conducted in the city. This ordinance was adopted under the "initiative" provision of the charter, hence the decision of the Supreme Court should furnish a true judicial test as to its constitutionality.

Without attempting to forecast the decision of the court, it is proper to say that many excellent authorities believe that the "initiative" ordinance will be declared unconstitutional, and they give good reasons for this belief. The Constitution of the United States makes no provision for direct legislation. The Constitution of the State of California contains no such provision, nor does it authorize the State Legislature to confer powers of direct legislation upon the people of any municipality or political subdivision. The people of Los Angeles are not the people of the entire State of California. Although the direct legislation clauses in our charter were approved by the State Legislature, there is a serious question whether the Legislature had authority to authorize so radical a departure from the methods provided by the Constitution, which was adopted by a majority of the voters of the entire State. It is extremely doubtful if any scheme of direct legislation can be valid without an amendment to the State Constitution.

There is no demand from any considerable number of the people in this city, in this State, or in the United States, for the adoption of doubtful schemes of direct legislation. The representative form of government established by the founders of our republic has served its purpose so well that under it the United States has grown from its small beginnings into the most potential nation on earth, in somewhat more than a century. If honestly administered, our present forms of government, from the great tripartite branches of the national government (legislative, administrative and judicial) down to the smallest municipality, furnish ample methods for the accomplishment of all that the visionary proponents of direct legislation propose to accomplish through their raw experimental methods. We do not need to go abroad to learn the lessons of free government. We learned these lessons years and years ago, and we have since learned to apply them successfully and practically.

Constitutions in the United States are altogether different from those which exist in the small governments of the Old World. In these small areas the entire population can assemble in "town meetings" and decide issues which affect the fate of the nation. The United States long since passed the town meeting stage of development.

Instead of borrowing governmental methods from the small experimenters of foreign lands, we should lead the world in the matter of governmental initiative. No other people in the world possess so completely what may be termed the genius of self-government as do the people of this great and free republic. There is no reason to go across the seas for our models and our ideals. We do not need new systems nor untried policies. Our greatest present need is civic honesty and courage to administer our laws with firmness and impartiality.

Of the three evils of the direct legislation code, the "recall" is perhaps the most pernicious. Of the fact that it is subject to grievous abuse we have seen a forcible illustration in our own city, where an official chosen by the people was unlawfully deprived of his office, to be succeeded by a nondescript and an incompetent. The evil result of the case in question is subject to indefinite duplication wherever and whenever the "recall" is in force. Under this un-American abomination—as The Times pointed out before it was incorporated into the City Charter—a disgruntled candidate can force a new election and secure another "try" for the office. If he can rally soreheads enough, he can reverse the deliberate verdict of the people. If the contest were close at the first election, its reversal at the second, by fair means or foul, would be comparatively easy, provided enough money and effort were put into the contest. The expenses of elections could be increased indefinitely under this vicious system, which might easily plunge a municipal government into a condition of uncertainty and chaos.

In brief, the whole scheme of direct legislation is visionary, and vicious. It confers upon the citizen no right which he does not already possess. It is opposed to the genius of American representative government. Government in the United States will surely degenerate in proportion as this alien scheme of legislation may be adopted.

The people are all-powerful under our present practice. They choose their representatives by popular vote, and instruct them as to the laws which they desire to have enacted. These representatives are directly answerable to the people, and the people have ample power to punish them if they go counter to the public will.

It is not practicable, it is not wise, that laws should be made and unmade, and officials elected or deposed, at the mere whiff of popular approval or disapproval. Time must be allowed for calm, judicial action, divested of passion and prejudice. Laws should not grow up like mushrooms over night. A law enacted through direct legislation today might be repealed through the same channel tomorrow. Legislation should have more stability than this. It should grow up as a result of mature deliberation, not as a fluff of foam upon the crest of popular anger, misapprehension or misrepresentation. We have too many foolish and impracticable laws under the present system. Under direct legislation we should have more laws and less practicable ones.

It is difficult to perceive how the Supreme Court can reconcile the Los Angeles charter "initiative," in the case now pending, with the State Constitution or with the fundamentals of organic law.

HAWAII'S GRIEVANCE.

The Territory of Hawaii has sent a large delegation to Washington for the purpose of securing from Congress, if possible, a decree that three-fourths of the customs duties and internal revenues collected in the Territory, shall be expended on public works there. It is stated that at present the entire moneys collected in the islands from these sources, amounting to $1,200,000 per year, or about $8 per capita of population, is taken out of the Territory and sent to the United States proper.

It must be confessed that there is some foundation for the complaint made by Hawaiians. In the absence of exact statements as to the amounts drawn annually from the Federal Treasury for expenditure in Hawaii, it is impossible to say how far the government may justly go in granting the demand for the expenditure of three-fourths of the Hawaiian revenues upon public works in the islands. It is evident that the islands should be "self-supporting," so far as their relations to the Federal Treasury are concerned. That is to say, there should be no attempt on the part of the government to exploit the islands for purposes of revenue. We should not take out of Hawaii any more than we put in. Any surplus revenue that we collect, from customs, taxes, or the sale of public lands, should be expended in the islands in such manner as will do the most good to the people of Hawaii.

W. O. Smith, chairman of the Hawaiian delegation now in Washington, explains the demand, or request, of his mission as follows: "We ask nothing for the exclusive benefit of Hawaii," he declares. "We are here to ask that 75 per cent. of the customs duties and internal revenue collected in the Territory for the next twenty years be expended on public works there. We do not ask a dollar for our own current expenses. The only benefit the people of the islands will reap will be that the money spent for wages on proposed public works will be kept in circulation in the islands, instead of being shipped in gold to San Francisco." This position seems to be reasonable. Unless there are some serious objections to it, which are not now apparent, the request of the Hawaiian delegation will be apt to receive favorable consideration at the hands of Congress.

Nothing could be more ridiculous, illogical, and untenable than the demand of Spook Howton that the labor unions shall have a representative on the Board of Public Works. Members of this board are not to be chosen as representatives of a class, a clique, or an organized body of any kind. Fitness should be the sole requisite—and the word covers a wide field. To select a man for the board because he belongs to a labor union would be no more logical than to take a man because he belongs to the Masonic fraternity, the Knights of Pythias, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Catholic, the Methodist or the Presbyterian church, or to that ancient and honorable society, the Knockers' Club.

PLAYHOUSES AND PLAYERS.

MASON OPERAHOUSE. Last night was a gala affair for the Mason. A grand reception by courtly knights and a grand play by an actress of international reputation, at one and the same time.

The foyer was like a veritable bower of roses, and behind the flowers were the smiling faces of young and pretty girls—a bewildering rosebud garden in themselves. All this fairy-like enchantment was before the play. Leaving it reluctantly, one found himself presently enthralled anew by the power and the pathos of a great and noble art.

The play was "Macbeth," that immortal tale of guilt, and terror, and awful remorse; and the part of Lady Macbeth was taken by Mme. Helena Modjeska, a world-renowned artist and a pearl among women, a Californian by adoption whom we have all learned to love and honor.

Helena Modjeska has grown a little older since she came to live among us, thirty years ago, but her fine spirit is as young and dauntless as ever and her art is still superbly beautiful. This was the first of her four farewell performances—yet it seemed to many last night that it ought not to be so. Following her, with bated breath and stilled pulses, through the poignant pathos of the sleep-walking scene, one felt that Helena Modjeska had not lost one iota of her pristine power to thrill the hearts and touch the souls of men and women. The scene was apparently as perfectly done, from an artistic standpoint, as it was twenty years ago, when Mme. Modjeska was in her prime. The voice had lost some of its silver cadences, perhaps—but that was all.

Directly after this wonderful bit of histrionic art, the flower girls rained roses, white as truth and red as love, upon the stage, and Mme. Modjeska was called out to gather them. Then Joseph Scott also stepped out among the gleaming flowers, and in behalf of the Knights of Columbus made a very charming and felicitous speech to the departing queen of the stage. It was a scene whose beauty was subtly touched with pathos. Mr. Scott said, among other things, that Modjeska's departure was like the sudden going down of a California sun—brilliant, beautiful, and leaving a twilight that would soon merge into an evening of moonlit splendor. Mme. Modjeska's voice trembled with emotion, as she tendered her thanks for all this honor and appreciation, which, she declared with a sweet and graceful humility, was far more than she deserved.

The other plays to be given are "Mary Stuart" and "Much Ado About Nothing," both old favorites of Modjeska's.

BELASCO. "The Girl With the Green Eyes" is the attraction this week at the Belasco, and it was received last night as a strong attraction. The play is one of Clyde Fitch's best, and contains all the good dramatic elements essential to a popular play—realistic love scenes, enlivened by much original comedy, strong situations and, more than all, a lifelike atmosphere of realism. Miss Eugenie Thais Lawton, as Jinny Austin, is, of course, the central character, and admirably indeed does she interpret her difficult and emotional role. It is not a "one star" play, for hardly a player is not given an interesting part, most of them doing creditably well. Joseph Galbraith, as John Austin, bears little criticism. Miss Virginia Brissac, as Maggie, the vicitim of Jinny's brother, plays a short but clever part, and shows much ability. As Geoffrey Tillman, the leading "black sheep," Robert Dempster did much to improve himself in several incidents, but in the heavier lines of the role he makes good. A crowded and pleased house greeted the first night's production, and both Miss Lawton and Mr. Galbraith were repeatedly applauded for their excellent work.

BURBANK. "Northern Lights" is resurrected by the Burbank management this week, and serves well to display the talents of Morosco's present company. The role of Dr. Sherwood gives Robert Homans his best opportunity, and he improves it in striking make-up, and sincere and forceful interpretation. Indeed, it may be said safely that Homans's creation is the best thing in the play—perhaps best because of the unusual opportunities the actor is given for the development of a singular character.

The whole company do well, though some of the exciting scenes fall of effect because of their laughable side. Notable among these is H. J. Ginn's theatrical exit on the back of a badly-frightened and much-held black horse, supposedly a rampant charger starting on a 2:40 gait for the battle ground. Desmond in cast as John Swiftwind, an educated Sioux, and is ideal in the representation of the part, although his make-up is much too light in the sects. In the final scene in which he appears his unusual muscular development gives him unusual advantage for statuesque heroics.

T. T. Henderson is laughable as the Indian clubman from New York, friend Indian fighters against his will in the western plains. Blanche Hall is delightfully ingenuesque as "The Litmajor," and Jane Kelton is appropriately dignified as Helen Dare.

As a melodrama, "Northern Lights" does well up with the best plays in its repertoire.

ORPHEUM. The vaudeville bill at the Orpheum is headed this week by Dight Allisons, acrobats and tumblers. In mechanical dexterity the novelty of performances they bring out of their usual class. The specialty feats which they do, such as using a small boy in a rapid foot-juggling act, have never been shown here except by Japanese acrobats. The Verga troupe, five xylophonists, give a splendid exhibition of perfectly controlled technique. Les Brunin, billiardists, are a pair of fancy-shot players—the skillful man and an exquisitely-formed woman. Estelle Wordette is opened with an atrocious sketch that only groans in its crudity. The clever troupe of Herbert's dogs, Rice and Prevost in comicalities. George Ade slang monologue, surveyed by Fred Lennox, and novel motion pictures, make up the rest of the programme.

HOTCHKISS. "The Telephone Girl" is the second offering of the Olympia Stock Company, at the Hotchkiss Theater, and play and production show a decided improvement over the original presentation. West Naples

Several new people are introduced, some of whom, however, are old friends in new guises. Among these are contralto Bernice Vivian, whose good voice and handsome face and figure are resplendant ever. Frank Blair, who has been directing the productions of the company for a short time, is to be seen in the grotesque make-up and singular humors of Hans Hoffer, the German inspector, who furnishes most of the fun of the play. Herman Wheeler, the new tenor, made his premier appearance and showed good experience and appreciation of his work in several songs. Of course there is Lottie Kendall—the rest of the favorites of the aggregation, who appeared in the first production.

The chorus shows improvement, and will in more ambitious compositions undoubtedly looked forward to by admirable ensemble.

GRAND OPERAHOUSE. Ben Henderson and his company are doing the best act in "Ole Olsen" at the Grand this week, and with music, comedy and serious plot and plotting, are en-

MASON OPERAHOUSE. Last night was a gala affair for the Mason. A grand reception by courtly knights and a grand play by an actress of international reputation, at one and the same time.

The foyer was like a veritable bower of roses, and behind the flowers were the smiling faces of young and pretty girls—a bewildering rosebud garden in themselves. All this fairy-like enchantment was before the play. Leaving it almost reluctantly, one found himself presently enthralled anew by the power and the pathos of a great and noble art.

The play was "Macbeth," that immortal tale of guilt, and terror, and awful remorse; and the part of Lady Macbeth was taken by Mme. Helena Modjeska, a world-renowned artist and a pearl among women, a Californian by adoption whom we have all learned to love and honor.

Helena Modjeska has grown a little older since she came to live among us, thirty years ago, but her fine spirit is as young and dauntless as ever and her art is still superbly beautiful. This was the first of her four farewell performances—yet it seemed to many last night that it ought not to be so. Following her, with bated breath and stilled pulses, through the poignant pathos of the sleep-walking scene, one felt that Helena Modjeska had not lost one iota of her pristine power to thrill the hearts and touch the souls of men and women. The scene was apparently as perfectly done, from an artistic standpoint, as it was twenty years ago, when Mme. Modjeska was in her prime. The voice had lost some of its silver sweetness, perhaps—but that was all. Directly after this wonderful bit of histrionic art, the flower girls rained rose, white as truth and red as love, upon the stage, and Mme. Modjeska was called out to gather them. Then Joseph Scott also stepped out among the gleaming flowers, and in behalf of the Knights of Columbus made a very charming and felicitous speech to the departing queen of the stage. It was a tribute whose beauty was subtly touched with pathos. Mr. Scott said, among other things, that Modjeska's departure was like the sudden going down of a California sun—brilliant, beautiful, and leaving a twilight that would soon merge into an evening of moonlit splendor. Mme. Modjeska's voice trembled with emotion, as she tendered her thanks for all this honor and appreciation, which, she declared with a sweet and graceful humility, was far more than she deserved.

The other plays to be given are "Mary Stuart" and "Much Ado About Nothing," both old favorites of Modjeska's.

BELASCO. "The Girl With the Green Eyes" is the attraction this week at the Belasco, and it was received last night as a strong attraction. The play is one of Clyde Fitch's best, and contains all the good dramatic elements essential to a popular success—realistic love scenes, enlivened by much original comedy, strong situations and, more than all, a lifelike atmosphere of realism. Miss Eugenie Blair Lawton, as Jinny Austin, is, of course, the central character, and admirably does she interpret her difficult and emotional role. It is not a "star" play, for hardly a player is given an interesting part, most of them being creditably well. Joseph Kilgour, as John Austin, bears little blame. Miss Virginia Brissac, as Mrs. Austin, the victim of Jinny's brother, is a pleasant but clever part, and shows it to advantage. As Geoffrey Tillman, the "wolf in sheep," Robert Dempster has a chance to show himself in several incidents in the heavier lines of the character and makes good. A crowded and fashionable house greeted the first night's performance, and both Miss Lawton and Mr. Kilgour were repeatedly applauded for their excellent work.

BURBANK. "Northern Lights" is presented by the Burbank management this week, and serves well to display the talents of Morosco's present company. The role of Dr. Sherwood Hall, as Robert Homans his best opportunity, and he improves it in striking fashion, and sincere and forceful indeed, it may be said that Homans's creation is the best thing in the play—perhaps best because of the unusual opportunities which is given for the development of a popular character.

The whole company do well, though some of the exciting scenes fall of effectiveness of their laughable side. Prominent among these is H. J. Ginn's dramatic exit on the back of a badly-frightened and much-held black horse, mounted a rampant charger starting with a 2:40 gait for the battle ground. Ginn is cast as John Swiftwind, a Dakota Sioux, and is ideal in the impersonation of the part, although the make-up is much too light in the face. In the final scene in which Ginn shows his unusual muscular development gives him unusual advantage in statuesque heroics.

Frank Henderson is laughable as the New York clubman from New York, who, as an Indian fighter against his will on the western plains. Blanche Hall is pretty and ingenuesque as "The Little Lady," and Jane Kelton is appropriately dignified as Helen Dare.

The "Northern Lights" melodrama, "Northern Lights" is well up with the best plays in the repertoire.

ORPHEUM. The vaudeville bill at the Orpheum is headed this week by Fred Allisons, acrobats and tumblers, in mechanical dexterity and variety of performances they are of their usual class. The specialties which they do, such as using the boy in a rapid foot-juggling act, are never been shown here except by Japanese acrobats. The Verona Five xylophonists, give a fine exhibition of perfectly consummate technique. Les Brunin, billiardist, and a pair of fancy-shot players—a man and an exquisitely-formed woman. Estelle Wordette is assisted with an atrocious sketch that is without grace in its crudity. The clever dogs of Herbert's dogs, Rice and Prevost's monkeys, George Ade slang sketch played by Fred Lennox, and novel moving pictures, make up the rest of the programme.

HOTCHKISS. "The Telephone Girl" is the second offering of the Olympia Stock Company, at the Hotchkiss Theater, and play and production show a decided improvement over the original production.

Several new people are introduced, some of whom, however, are old friends of the house. Among these are contralto Bernice Holmes, whose good voice and handsome face and figure are resplendant in tights.

Frank Blair, who has been directing the productions of the company for a month, is to be seen in the grotesque and singular humors of Hans Schmidt, a German inspector, who furnishes most of the fun of the play.

Harry Wheeler, the new tenor, made his premier appearance and showed experience and appreciation of his work in several songs.

Among those there is Lottie Kendall—one of the favorites of the ag-gregation, who appeared in the first act.

The company shows improvement, and is to have more ambitious compositions than it has yet looked forward to by the management.

GRAND OPERAHOUSE. Ben Hendricks and his company are doing the comedy in "Ole Olsen" at the Grand this week, and with music, comedy and dancing, plot and plotting, are entertaining the Grand's audiences in an unaccustomed manner.

One of Hendricks's assets is a good singing voice, and he uses this to good advantage.

Although several hours late on Sunday, the aggregation "got down to business" on arrival, and gave a full performance, commencing at 4 o'clock.

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

MISS JANE DORSEY, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Dorsey of East Thirty-eighth street and William Richards, who are to be married on February 15 in Christ Church, Redondo, are being cordially entertained these few days before the wedding.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Lawrence Morgan entertained at luncheon for Miss Dorsey at her home on West Thirty-fifth street. The table was decked with violets, and covers were laid for Miss Dorsey, Mrs. Charles Fox, Jr., Mrs. Murrietta, Mrs. Richard Lacey and Mrs. Grassette.

In the afternoon Mrs. Morgan gave an informal tea, violets decking the table, and about forty guests were entertained.

Thursday afternoon of this week Mrs. Harry Ainsworth of Redondo will entertain members of the bridal party with a box party at the Belasco Theater in honor of Miss Dorsey, and on Friday, Miss Edith Kirkpatrick of South Grand avenue will give a luncheon for Miss Dorsey.

J. M. Elliott and his daughter, Miss Mary Belle Elliot of W. Twenty-eighth street will entertain on Monday evening with a handsome dinner for Miss Dorsey and Mrs. Richards and members of the bridal party.

After the wedding a bridal supper and informal reception will be held at the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ainsworth on the bluff at Redondo. The supper is to be served in the picturesque Japanese court and garden. Here real Japanese cherry blossoms are blooming, and other flowers of Japan flourish, while pretty little rustic bridges lead one over streams and nooks and corners near by are most enchanting. The house itself is built in Japanese fashion and inside are a number of Japanese rooms, filled with rare art treasures. "Naminoya," or "House of the Waves," is the artistic title which adorns this quaint home. Redondo cars will leave on Tauraday evening, February 15, for Redondo from Second and Spring streets at 7 o'clock.

lace with touches of black velvet became Mrs. Willoughby Rodman. Mrs. Wills was in gray satin. Mrs. Jefferson D. Gibbs's gown of white broadcloth made in princesse style with inserts of Cluny lace and ermine set was distinguished. Miss Hamburger in white lace over pale blue silk was fetching. Mrs. J. T. Fitzgerald was becomingly frocked in white lace and blue silk. Black jet and lace over satin became Mrs. Matthew Robertson. Lowinsky's orchestra discoursed music during the afternoon and about 4 o'clock, the guests assembled in the auditorium to the number of about three hundred and here listened to a fresh and lively discourse on the "Federation" by Mrs. Decker. Mrs. O. C. Bryant made a graceful introduction and Mrs. Decker said:

"I am proud of the West. Perhaps it is because I'm from the West myself. Women of the West have a kingdom here and they have a great responsibility. Women of the West are known to those of the East now and it is through the biennial that they are known."

Mrs. Decker told many interesting anecdotes. She told of what federation means to women. "Some time ago," said she, "federation didn't mean anything. Why I even knew of a woman who resigned from a club because she didn't like the shape of the president's new winter hat, but we have risen above that [applause.] Federation teaches us to obey, to work together under a leader, to love our work, to believe and to understand. It means friendship, faith, principles, advance and liberty." Mrs. Decker went on to tell what had been done with federation and how they had succeeded through it.

"Women first dreaded to federate because of publicity," said she. "That is a small thing, however. We should not mind publicity when it is doing good. Why should we mind the world knowing of the thirty-five new libraries achieved through women, of the fifteen juvenile courts or of the many other institutions and benefits given by these same?" Finally she balanced the gains and losses, and the losses disappeared finally beneath the finality of the gains. "Women of Los Angeles, I thank you and next time we meet we will be free. Free to walk beside our husbands and brothers as equals, through our knowledge of the things we should know and have gained."

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all-important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating, or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. REAL WORK ON CAMINO REAL.

Map of Route Accepted by Highway Commission.

Association Follows in Footsteps of Friars.

Start Already Made on Santa Barbara Road.

"El Camino Real," dream of antiquarian and memory of older residents, bids fair, through the untiring efforts of several of the historically inclined, to become a verity.

This interesting path is now quite clearly defined, and a map of it has been accepted by the highway commissioners. This, the first map of the section in this county, has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. Armitage S. C. Forbes, head of the City and State Location Committee of El Camino Real Association.

The road will run through Los Angeles county from the Ventura line to San Gabriel Mission, a distance of forty-two miles, with variations of not more than a few feet in the entire distance. That is to say, the "relocated" road follows almost exactly the original royal pathway trod by the brown-robed Franciscans as they traveled from mission to mission in the early days of California.

The work of tracing this historical highway has been accomplished with great care by the Location Committee, for correct work meant the searching of old Spanish and American records, the study of government surveys and maps of old land grants, the interviewing of old residents, and also general location time and time again, to make the thing a certainty. Just one year has been occupied in this work.

TOMES AND CLERGY HELP.

From the government surveys and maps of the old Spanish grants the committee prepared an abstract and map, and from these located and selected the oldest roads. In many cases they are not quite the most direct, but all are historical.

Invaluable were the services of the Catholic clergy, noted authorities on early local history. Three valued assistants were Father Caballeria of the Plaza Church; Father Rubio, late of the Sacred Heart parish, and Father Ubach of San Diego. Father Rubio, who died three months ago, ministered for forty years at the missions San Buena Ventura, Santa Barbara and San Fernando, walking from one point to another in his work. By special dispensation of the church he wore a beard, and otherwise was honored. Two laymen who assisted were Hon. R. F. del Valle and Col. J. B. Lankershim.

Much discussion is expected as a result of the choice of the San Fernando road. The one in present use, which runs to La Cañada and on to Santa Barbara, has been traveled for many years, and it was expected by many that it would form part of the great highway. The committee, however, reported that this road was little more than a track in the wilderness when the Los Angeles road was well traveled. It was not opened at all until eleven years after the Los Angeles road and consequently will not be used.

Strong influence was exerted to get El Camino Real through Pasadena, but this was only possible through the San Fernando road. The plan of the Pasadenans was to have a road leading from San Gabriel Mission north and west, through Pasadena, down Eagle Rock Valley, to the San Fernando road, but as the committee has stuck to its resolution to follow only the ancient highway, Pasadena must be left out. It is said that was actually in use before the San Gabriel Mission and the Indian pueblo is in use today, and is that well traveled thoroughfare. Mission

Still discussion is expected as a result of the choice of the San Fernando road, the one in present use, which runs by La Cañada and on to Santa Clara, has been traveled for many years and it was expected by many that it would form part of the great highway. The committee, however, found that this road was little more than a track in the wilderness while the Los Angeles road was well known. It was not opened at all until many years after the Los Angeles road, consequently will not be used.

PASADENA LEFT OUT.

Much influence was exerted to get the Camino Real through Pasadena, but it was only possible through the San Fernando road. The plan of the Pasadenans was to have a road leading from the San Gabriel Mission north and east through Pasadena, down Eagle Canyon, to the San Fernando road. But as the committee has stuck to its decision to follow only the ancient highway, Pasadena must be left out. The road that was actually in use between the San Gabriel Mission and the Los Angeles is in use today, and is that road is a well traveled thoroughfare. Mission road, which will be renamed El Camino Real from the Alliso-street bridge to San Gabriel.

From the Plaza north, out of the city to Cahuenga Pass, El Camino Real is almost identical with Sunset boulevard. The road opened on the Plaza at a point north of the old church, following what now is Bellevue avenue to the Sisters' Hospital, there converging into Sunset boulevard.

When completed, El Camino Real will be a grand boulevard 160 feet in width along its entire length. A beginning has been made in its construction in the condemnation suit brought by the City Attorney for the purpose of widening Mission road. This single suit affects 200 property owners, and the assessment district formed to pay for the street work includes all of the frontage on Mission road inside the city limits, and all that on the side streets for a distance of 200 feet.

WORK ALREADY DONE.

Good work has been done on the Santa Barbara road to Cahuenga Pass under the supervision of the Supervisor for that district. The highway has been graded, oiled and generally put in better shape.

It is now proposed by the association to place an artistic signpost each mile along the route, each post to be surmounted by a Mission bell of cast iron, engraved "El Camino Real," and beneath, a guideboard with distances or other information. The Bancroft system of blocking probably will be used, and also the numbering, to facilitate rural mail delivery, and to enable country residents to be found as quickly as townspeople.

Northern counties, it is said, are not behind in the work. In San Luis Obispo county the road is known to a foot. In fact, it may be said that it is well located from San Diego to the north, through Kings county, Monterey county and entirely through Sonoma county.

In Kings county, thirty miles of El Camino Real already have been macadamized, and the Sonoma road is said to be in excellent condition.

The State association is now preparing to arrange for State help and assistance.

MINES AND MINING.

A NEW MINING LAW IN SONORA.

DEPARTMENT OF FOMENTO ADVISES CANANEA MEN.

Decree to be Issued Within Twenty Days, and Liberal to Foreigners. 'Tis Said Corporations May be Formed by Americans to Evade New Rule.

J. B. Tomlinson, a mining man of Cananea, has received a communication from the Department of Fomento at Mexico City in reference to the recent ruling on the acquisition of mining titles by foreigners in the State of Sonora and part of Lower California, in which it is stated that a new law is to be promulgated within the next twenty days covering the subject. It is declared that the law will be very favorable to Americans and all foreigners and that the Mexican government has in no way changed its policy of friendliness towards American capital. Coming direct from the Secretary of Fomento, the letter may presumably be accepted as authoritative and official.

In any event, there is a way open for Americans to still acquire properties by the simple expedient of organizing a Mexican corporation. This plan has long been followed in the prohibited zone of the frontier, and in the opinion of those familiar with Mexican procedure and who have made inquiries since the new ruling was announced, it is entirely permissible to evade the new decree in this way. The law provides that corporations are classed as foreign or domestic according to whether they are legally incorporated in the republic or abroad without reference to the individuals holding stock. A Mexican corporation has all the right of a citizen and they can be organized by foreigners the same as by citizens. About the only apparent difference is that the government can exercise a more unrestricted control in some respects over them and their charters. That the government desires this course to be followed may have something to do with the course.

LOCAL CAPITAL FOR GOLDFIELD.

The Ad Astra Gold Mining Company is the latest local corporation to take up work at Goldfield. H. M. Wisler is president and M. E. Moore is secretary, offices No. 233 South Hill street. The property is a lease to these gentlemen on the Lone Star claim, four miles east of Goldfield, expiring May 15, 1908. Mr. Wisler is now in Goldfield to commence operations. There is a seventy-five-foot shaft on the ground which will be sunk to 200 immediately, when crosscutting will begin. A fifteen-horsepower gasoline hoist is being installed.

The August Gold Mining Company is another just organized by Messrs. Wisler & Moore to take over and operate land on the property of the St. Francis Goldfield Company, which has been in litigation for some time. This was settled out of court at Hawthorne last week and the land is open for development, so that it is the intention to begin work as early as possible. The property adjoins the Combination.

Both the above are Los Angeles corporations and the principal stockholders and promoters are residents of this city. Both have veins reported to be showing well.

FOR MINING DEPARTMENT.

Mining men are receiving from J. F. Callbraith, secretary of the American Mining Congress at Denver, blanks which they are requested to sign and return, authorizing Mr. Callbraith to affix their signatures to a petition to be sent to Congress asking for the enactment of the bill introduced by Congressman Van Duzer of Nevada, establishing a Department of Mines and Mining with a secretary of Cabinet rank. The memorial further asks individual members to give their votes to the proposed measure.

MINES ALONG COLORADO.

According to reports from Las Vegas, a mining boom is being started on the banks of the Colorado in Nevada east of Searchlight and Las Vegas and in Arizona in the strip that lies north of the Grand Cañon. A number of persons are heading towards the river and taking up claims, chiefly on the Nevada side. The chief point of interest is in the Boulder district, forty miles east of Las Vegas and just north of what is known as the Las Vegas Wash. A blanket vein with high values in gold and copper is reported to have been found.

ANGELENO'S GOOD LUCK.

K. L. Parrott, formerly a carriage manufacturer of this city, is reported by the Tonopah Sun to have made a fortune in the new district of Baxter Springs, near Manhattan, through the location of claims by a man whom he grubstaked while working in the railroad shops at Tonopah. Mr. Parrott is said to have failed in business here eighteen months ago and left for Nevada. In company with one W. B. Perry, he outfitted a man named Raschke to prospect, they keeping up his expenses from their earnings. This was a year ago in December, and rich ledges of free gold were found, ten claims taken up and a boom started and a rush of prospectors has started from Manhattan. The town of Baxter Springs has been laid out on land on Mr. Parrott's claim, the demand for lots has become immense and the lucky Angeleño is evidently fast recuperating his fortune.

LAMBERT-GATES SMELTER.

According to a report from San Francisco, representatives of the Lambert-Gates syndicate, one of the concerns that is considering the location of a smelter in this section, have been busy around the bay recently and are considering the question whether some point in Southern California or Point Richmond will be the best location.

BANK ORGANIZATION.

The Metropolitan Bank and Trust Company has, on account of its alliance with the First National Bank, reorganized its directorate, enlarging that body to fifteen members, as follows: J. M. Elliott, Frank P. Flint, Frank M. Kelsey, W. C. Patterson, George E. Bittenger, W. E. Hampdon, William M. Garland, William M. Vandyke, Jay Spence, H. C. Witmer, M. H. Flint, Stoddard Jess, W. T. S. Hammond, C. W. Gates, John S. Cravens. The board organized by electing the old officers in each case, namely: Senator Frank P. Flint, president; Frank M. Kelsey first vice-president; W. J. Doran, second vice-president; Jay Spence, cashier; G. W. Hummiston, assistant cashier.

OAKLAWN

"The Jewel of the Pasadenas"

MAIN ENTRANCE TO OAKLAWN

Huntington car service brings beautiful Oaklawn actually nearer the business center of Los Angeles than the West Adams Heights district and many other "high priced sections," the residential conditions of which are not nearly so favorable as at Oaklawn—"Pasadena's finest."

From the standpoint of public utilities, natural scenic attractions, artistic landscape and building improvements and breadth of mountain and valley views, Oaklawn has no superior in residential California.

Oaklawn is in close proximity to several of Pasadena's most famous homes. Building improvements which will cost nearly $100,000 are now under way.

The entire subdivision overlooks the Raymond Hotel golf links, the San Gabriel Valley, and commands a panoramic view of the grand old Sierras.

The pictures in this advertisement but slightly suggest the natural and architectural features of Oaklawn.

Go out today and see this scenic spot clothed in all the verdant beauty of a California winter. All Pasadena cars. Look for the big Oaklawn sign—or ask the conductor.

INSIDE THE GATES OF OAKLAWN

Without an iota of exaggeration we can say that nowhere may property of this exclusive and unusual type be secured for $15 per front foot and upwards. As investment propositions the few remaining lots in Oaklawn present alluring opportunities.

WHITE FLAG OF TOTEMITES.

Striking Printers, Whipped, Seek "Compromise."

Coercion Failing, They Now Beg for Old Jobs.

Men They Tried to Bulldoze Offer No Hopes.

Whipped to the squealing-point, the Printers' Union sent a renegade nonunion man to the open-shop employers yesterday with an abject cry for mercy.

The ambassador, sent to plead for peace at any price, was Charles J. Kelly, a traitor printer who came down from San Francisco at the start of the printers strike in January, securing work under false colors. Soon after the strike he deserted to the union and has been acting as a sort of walking delegate for the strikers.

For a week he has been sneaking round to the open shops pitifully asking for a "compromise." He was referred in every case to Hayes Rice, the representative of the employing printers.

Yesterday, in despair, he went to see Mr. Rice; but his mood was not happy. He scuttled furtively into the office and squirmed around uneasily before he got to the point. He wanted to know if the printers and employers couldn't "get together."

Mr. Rice was politely unable to see the necessity.

"We ought to stop this trouble!" said Kelly, excitedly.

Mr. Rice (in gentle surprise) "Trouble! What trouble!"

"Aw, you know; this fight," growled Kelly.

NO FIGHT, SAY EMPLOYERS.

Rice sorrowfully shook his head. "We haven't any fights; and we haven't any trouble that I know of."

Kelly wriggled miserably in discomfort and said he didn't see why the fight couldn't be compromised. He understood that the employers didn't so much object to the eight-hour day as they did to the idea of the closed shop. He suggested that the print shops here run for only eight hours, but continue to run as open shops.

"What good would that do?" asked Rice.

"The strikers could go to work then," pleaded Kelly.

Rice was obliged to differ with him; he couldn't see it.

"You would expect us to throw out of employment those men who have gone to work in the places of the strikers?" he asked.

Kelly growled out that there is plenty of work for all: both strikers and the new men.

Rice told him that he is very badly mistaken in that regard; that nearly all the places are filled, and satisfactorily filled.

Kelly turned white and bit his lips. "Say," he said, in a scared voice. "You know many of our boys are married men and some of them are paying for their homes. They can't possibly live on the pittance allowed them by the union."

FATE OF APPRENTICES.

Rice replied that he didn't see what could be done about it now. He reproached Kelly for having enticed the little apprentice boys out with the strikers. Some of the best of the deluded printers will be able to go to other cities and possibly find jobs, but for these boys it means giving up their hope of learning a trade: for some of them it means going down into the streets.

Kelly admitted, ruefully, that it has been a "bad mistake" this fool strike.

When the walking delegate made a last appeal to Rice to let the strikers down easy, Rice told him firmly but courteously that he could not bring any proposition before the Employers' Association.

"It would simply make me ridiculous. There is nothing to settle; it's all settled; we are attending to our business, and it is going along with perfect smoothness.

"You have made your beds and you have persuaded two other unions—the press men and the press feeders, to lie in them; now you must all lie in them," said Rice.

With that, Kelly skulked out.

His visit was the white flag of surrender. The printers' strike has been one of the most ridiculous and lamentable features of any union-labor agitation in the history of the town.

Most of the good workmen have given up in disgust and are preparing to give up their homes here and leave for other cities.

SCHOOL FOR PRINTERS.

The permanent instructor of the Technical School for Printers will assume command today, the school reopening after a short vacation pending his arrival. The school offers to young men and boys an opportunity to learn a trade under a competent instructor and without expense to themselves.

In shops where unions have held sway it has been next to impossible for a boy to learn the printing trade. The apprentice under totem dictation is not allowed to learn the trade for several years, and then the number is restricted very greatly.

But the fully equipped technical school now running in the Pacific Electric building presents a rare opportunity to those who wish to become printers.

So rapid is the growth of this section that men are constantly in demand in the printing trade. More money is being spent for new machinery and type than ever before.

The technical school is not a place where boys and young men can go to be amused, but they can go there to learn.

When a boy has been broken into the business the school finds an apprentice position for him in some printing establishment, his wages being increased as he learns and becomes able to earn more.

WHITE CITY ABANDONED.

Gnostics Determine to Sell Their Holdings at Hermosa Beach and Divide the Profits.

The Mt. Carmel Association, first known to the gaping world as the "Interworld Association of Gnostics," has decided that the world is not weeping for another city by the sea, and their holdings of sand lots at Hermosa are about to be disposed of.

"The White City, the Head Center of the Empire of Peace," is not to be reared, and the poor old world will have to get along as best it may with the principles of purity and love and harmony that radiate from Boston—and heaven.

At a meeting held at Kramer's Hall a few days ago it was determined to sell the thirty acres of land the association had secured and sold out to its members on the installment plan, each and every purchaser to be reimbursed for the amount paid in, with interest. Then after paying all the debts, amounting to some $6000, the residue to be divided pro rata among the investors.

The land was purchased about eighteen months ago for $80 an acre, and is now being sold at $350 an acre, which will leave between $3000 and $4000 for division. No buildings have been erected, and the increase is simply in the value of the land. They originally had forty acres, and a few buildings of an inferior character, with one exception, had been put up, but the ten acres containing the buildings was previously disposed of.

Dr. Levi Dowling, who fathered the scheme for the White City, withdrew for some reason or other six months ago, but he said yesterday that other things required his attention, and he was compelled to give it up. He said, however, that financially it had been a success, and everything was peaceful internally.

W. P. Hyatt, who has been attorney for the company, said that the difficulty was that they had no money to properly finance the scheme. Many of the purchasers of lots, most of them, in fact, were women, and installments were not promptly paid, so that unpleasantness was likely to result from forfeitures, and it was deemed wise by the majority to dispose of the property.

Secretary Berryman expressed, in substance, the same thing, and said that a local syndicate had put up a forfeit to purchase the property for subdivision. The present officers are C. H. Luther, president; R. P. A. Berryman, secretary; W. H. Golosch, C. H. Stewart and a Mr. Buchanan.

SAN PEDRO.

SUICIDE BY CHLOROFORM.

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 5.—An unknown man, whose identity could not be established, committed suicide in the Harbor Hotel here, some time last night. He was well dressed, and was apparently a man of refinement and unused to hard labor. He was about 45 years of age, about five feet six inches in height, dark hair, light gray eyes and had a heavy sandy mustache. The chloroform route was selected by the suicide.

Everything that might lead to identification had been destroyed. No money was found on his person. In one of the pockets of the coat was found a letter signed Annie Jones, and written by a sister from Santa Barbara on January 5. In this letter the sister stated that in a few days she would leave for Portland, and begged her brother to stay by his resolution to refrain from drinking, and requesting him to meet her there as soon as possible.

An inquest was held by Coroner Trout this afternoon and a verdict of death by suicide was rendered.

JOINT DEPOT FOR FREIGHT.

Interchange Plan for Trolley and Steam Lines.

Big Station in View in Southern Part of City.

Promises Quick and Cheap Handling of Goods.

To facilitate the interchange of freight business between the local steam lines and the electric interurban lines radiating from Los Angeles, especially with regard to points reached by the electric and not touched by the steam lines, it is reported on good authority that H. E. Huntington has perfected plans for a huge joint freight depot to be erected on a portion of the property which he recently purchased from the Van Nuys interests, lying between Washington street and Pico avenue.

The plan in general, which is more or less a novel one, both in its inception and details, has won for itself a warm nook in the heart of Mr. Huntington's personal confidence, and looks to the establishment of what will be a freight clearing-house by the joint use of the steam and electric lines, and of inestimable advantage to both shipper and consignee.

The idea for the construction of spur tracks leading from the lines of the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fé and the Salt Lake, to all of which the proposed depot is easy of access, lying as it does within the scope of the new industrial district to be created by the construction of the contemplated north and south industrial tracks of the Salt Lake.

It would then be an easy matter for the Pacific Electric to construct a short line northward from the present terminus of its line at Ninth and Santa Fé avenue, to connect with the new freight depot. The continuation of this line northward and in an easterly direction would give a direct connection with the Whittier line and a short line to run from the city for Whittier cars, which is regarded as a development likely to be brought about following the completion of the plans for the joint freight depot.

SAVING OF WAGON HAULS.

The scheme for the operation of the freight depot is to secure an agreement with the local steam lines to deliver to the Pacific Electric freight depot all freight destined to points on its system or on other electric system not reached by the steam lines, rather than to have such merchandise at their freight houses for delivery by team from the freight depot of the Pacific Electric for trans-shipment.

In cases the Pacific Electric would, through its network of suburban lines, pick up freight for the steam lines which would be loaded directly into cars of the electric line into which the steam lines for shipment to any part of the United States.

Another development of this plan which is the ultimate arrangement is that while there will not be a complete exchange of cars, the steam lines will allow shipments of carload lots or less, originating on their lines to be delivered in the same cars for loading, to their final destination on the electric broad-gauge lines.

The combination of the electric lines with a connection with the Salt Lake would enable the Pacific Electric to handle freight from the freight house to any point on all of the Southern divisions without hauling freight cars through the city.

The addition of a third rail to the standard of the line from Ninth street, which runs on Santa Fé avenue, where the present line of the Los Angeles Railway terminates, would allow the Pacific Electric to gain an entry to the freight depot both for its standard and broad-gauge cars and for those of the Santa Fé Railway as well.

BENEFITS ALL AROUND.

Through the development of this new business that the Huntington people anticipate becoming even more important factors in the development and upbuilding of the suburban towns and cities about Los Angeles.

If all can unite in agreeing that the scheme set out of this idea will be entirely beneficial to the steam lines, inasmuch as it is harmful to their local freight business, and will result in increased business for the steam lines so connecting with the electrics.

Moreover, the steam roads often haul local freight at a loss, consequently the saving which might be effected through a collection of small lots by the electrics and their delivery in collective lots to the steam lines at some designated point.

Further, the steam lines are frequently compelled to haul cars out of the city to some suburban town for shipments which do not pay the mileage and cost of hauling. Moreover, the electric lines with their cars running at intervals of the day and night to these towns can pick up and deliver shipments to the steam lines in less than at a profit, and at the same time a saving to the consignor in taking the freight from his own yard and save him the cost of delivery to some distant railway station.

The depot also, would be brought fruit and garden truck, to be delivered to the consignees where they would be offered for its quick and economical handling.

WORK FOR CATALINA RUN.

The steamer and operating department of the Southern Pacific are pertaining to a new schedule especially for the summer service for which the new 1,000-horse motor car is to be used.

It is probable that this car will be placed temporarily in the Catalina Island service first, making two round trips per week, daily to connect with the Steamship Company's steamer.

Should these two trips it is proposed to have the car make two round trips to Long Beach, which will put in a daily mileage equal to the average locomotive in service.

The operation of the car and train are soon expected for similar firemen are being broken in are familiar with train orders. The pay will be slightly in advance of that paid firemen in the regular service and less than that paid engineers.

It is definitely determined, it is said, that the gasoline car will be put in regular service tomorrow or next.

WORK FOR KETCHUM.

Much is the increasing work in the Southern California territory, which has been handled exclusively by Ketchum, traveling passenger agent of the Piedmont Air Line, the traveling passenger agent, Jennings, has been assigned to Los Angeles territory, from the local office, and will hereafter have headquarters in this city.

STILL KNOCKING.

Cahuenga Valley and Vicinity Will Petition for Special Election to Decide Question of Annexation.

Representative citizens of the Cahuenga Valley met last night in the Mason building and declared for annexation to Los Angeles.

Facing the enthusiastic committee is the anxious question as to whether the fair strip of territory will be admitted. A committee on ways and means was appointed with instructions to arrange for a thorough canvass of Los Angeles in an effort to secure the necessary 7000 signatures calling a special election.

Griffith Park is included in the territory desiring admission to the city. The section has a population of 4000, and comprises about 8000 acres. A petition was read praying the Council to call a special election for the submission of the question to the people.

The meeting was enthusiastic, and those who spoke declared the valley residents are a unit in the desire to unite with Los Angeles. The following working committees were appointed:

Executive Committee: John W. Mitchell, chairman; Frank W. Hovey, secretary; Seward Cole, A. L. Stephens, R. E. Langworthy, F. P. Rhodes, J. Murphy.

Ways and Means: John W. Mitchell, chairman; Frank Hovey, secretary; J. L. Plummer, Henry S. Siemer, Richard Morton, H. D. Canne, F. L. Dodge.

General Committee: C. E. Bynkitt, H. D. Canne, Seward Cole, F. L. Dodge, C. A. Ensign, W. D. Fuller, F. W. Hovey, R. E. Langworthy, W. B. Lockwood, J. W. Mitchell, Richard Morton, J. B. Murphy, E. F. S. Paul, J. L. Plummer, S. P. Rhodes, G. H. Royce, F. W. Ryan, Henry Siemer, G. Smith, A. L. Stephens, W. P. Vosburg.

BLOW AT THE "INITIATIVE."

ATTACK ON ITS VALIDITY NOW BEFORE SUPREME COURT.

Brief is Filed by Attorney Todd at San Francisco, Herbert Goudge Representing the Municipality, While a Motley Array of Lawyers Lend Their Presence.

In the State Supreme Court at San Francisco, yesterday, Attorney R. A. Todd filed his brief attacking the legality of the "Initiative" section of the Los Angeles city charter.

Todd represented Andrew Pfahler, who was arrested here on January 8, charged with violating the slaughter-house ordinance. This ordinance is the only initiative legislation on the city's statute books.

Assistant City Attorney Herbert Goudge represented the municipality. He was assisted by nine different attorneys, some seeking for a little cheap advertising by posing as experts in municipal legislation and constitutional law, others working in the employ of certain persons and interests desirous of having the initiative remain a part of the charter.

These legal lights wished to make oral argument before the court. But the court decided in self-defense that the case shall be presented only on briefs. Time was granted to Goudge and his nondescript corps of assistants to present their replies to the brief filed by Todd.

Twenty days in the time allotted to the appellants to file briefs; twenty days for the other side to answer and ten days for reply.

City Prosecutor Beebe appeared as one of the defendants of the initiative. Wright & Wright of San Francisco represented the Merchants' Association of that city; they are defending the charter. Danford & Boeley represented the Hauser Packing Company of this city. It is the initiative ordinance that gives to the Hauser Company the right to slaughter animals in the Sixth Ward. If the initiative ordinance were wiped out the Hausers would be outside the zone.

One of the surprises was the appearance before the Supreme Court of "Corney" Pendleton. He declined to reveal whom he represented, but he was reported to be one of the legal staff of Dr. John E. Haynes.

C. A. Danforth of the Voters' League appeared as the representative of that organization. Dr. Haynes was among those also present.

In his brief, Attorney Todd attacks the constitutionality of the recall for the following reasons:

"It is violative of Article IV, Section 4, of the Constitution of the United States in that it attempts to provide for legislation by a direct vote of the people instead of by representatives of the people elected for that purpose, and is therefore inconsistent with a republican form of government, guaranteed by said Section 4, Article IV, of the Constitution of the United States.

"It is violative of Article XI, Section 2, of the Constitution of the State of California, which provides: 'Any county, city, town or township may make and enforce within its limits all such local, police, sanitary, and other regulations as are not in conflict with general laws.'

"It is violative of Article XI, Section 13, of the Constitution of the State of California, providing that the Legislature shall not delegate to any special commission any municipal functions whatever.

"Therefore the said ordinance adopted under said Section 198A is illegal and void."

In support of his contentions, Todd cites decisions by the Supreme Courts of eleven States, each of them to the effect that government by initiative legislation is contrary to the principles of a republican form of government, which is government by representation.

The consensus of these opinions is that the people have no power in their primary and individual capacity to make laws. They must do this by representatives.

Commenting on the "initiative," the Supreme Court of New York, in a recent decision, held that:

"If this mode of legislation is permitted to become general, it will soon bring to a close the whole system of representative government, which has been so justly our pride. The Legislature will become an irresponsible cabal, too timid to assume the responsibility of lawgivers, and with just wisdom enough to devise subtle schemes of imposture to mislead the people. All the checks of improvident legislation will be swept away; and the character of the Constitution will be radically changed."

To this Mr. Todd adds that:

"The unwisdom of this method of legislation is very apparent under the proceedings arranged for by the initiative in the Los Angeles charter. It is evident that any ordinance which may be proposed by even 5 per cent. of the qualified voters, whether it be unconstitutional on its face or not, must be submitted to the people at a general or special election without any predeliberation, discussion or analysis."

Strong points in Todd's brief are two decisions by the Supreme Court of California, both of which decide that the initiative as applied to county regulation of the liquor laws is unconstitutional.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

TO PIPE FUEL TO CONSUMERS.

AMALGAMATED GETTING READY TO DELIVER CHEAPLY.

Main Line Throughout the Manufacturing District is Completed and Pumping Station is Being Built. To Take Many Ill-smelling Wagons from Streets.

In the manufacturing district lying out beyond Central avenue and west of Los Angeles River, and extending south to Seventh street, the Amalgamated Oil Company is at work on an enterprise that means much for the persons concerned directly and for the city indirectly. This is the laying of a complete system of pipe lines for the delivery of fuel from the tanks and refinery at Alhambra avenue and Bloom street direct to the large consumers.

The trunk line is a 6-inch pipe, and it has been laid through the heart of the district. The laterals to connect with the consumers are three and four inches, according to the amount of business to be handled. About four miles are to be ready for operations within probably the next sixty days.

The company is building a pumping station at its tanks, and refinery site to distribute oil brought in from the Salt Lake wells by its field line. There will be two 18x7x12 pumps. Either crude direct from the wells or that which has been treated at the refinery can be delivered. So far no franchise has been asked for other districts, but if the business justifies it this may be done some day. The greater part of the fuel deliveries, however, are necessarily within the limits of the manufacturing district.

The section of the company is a distinct innovation in Los Angeles. Hitherto all deliveries have been by tank wagons, the ill-smelling conveyances that are to be seen on the streets. The removal of any of these will in itself be a distinct gain for the city. That it will greatly decrease the cost of delivery is apparent.

One effect will very likely be to give the Associated-Amalgamated a stronger hold on the trade. Its chief rival is the Union, but that corporation appears to be giving more attention to foreign and northern business than to the local market. If it desired it could, no doubt, put in a similar system and without it, it may very readily be conceived that any attempt at competition for the business of consumers who may have connections by pipe with the Amalgamated might prove very difficult. So far, however, no other company has given any intimation that it has any such intention.

The fact that Los Angeles consumers are to receive their fuel in this way illustrates another of the great advantages which oil has over coal. In itself this is certain to aid in extending its use in other cities.

KERN RIVER'S FAILING OUTPUT.

Every report that comes from Bakersfield from independent sources indicates that the shipments for some time past have undoubtedly exceeded the daily production, showing that stocks are being drawn upon some way. The Associated, while shipping practically all that is going out except what the Southern Pacific takes direct from its own properties, has not diminished its storage—although it does not appear to be increasing it as rapidly as it was at one time—but on the other hand the Standard some time since, as before noted, emptied a number of its steel tanks of an enormous quantity of storage to use them for Coalinga product, and the oil can only be accounted for by supposing that the Associated handled it. Many are convinced that the combine is getting Standard oil from time to time as its shipments are believed to be too large to be accounted for by its production or purchases from the Independent Agency.

SHOOTS NEPHEW IN GUN DUEL.

BLOODY RESULT OF TEN-CENT QUARREL IN COLTON.

Gun Play and Fight Ends in One of the Participants Receiving a Bullet in the Abdomen—His Wife Vainly Beseeches Other Man not to Slay Her Husband.

COLTON, Feb. 5.—After a quarrel following a dispute over a 10-cent piece, Antonio Belarde last night shot his nephew, Pablo Belarde, and severely wounded him in the abdomen.

Pablo Belarde, Sr., has lived south of the city for many years and owns considerable realty there. He is generally respected by the people of the city. His son, Antonio, is a storekeeper in the Mexican settlement south of Colton. It was in this store, which has been the scene of many a quarrel and bloody conflict before, it is said, that the quarrel of last night began.

The shooting took place at about 11 o'clock. Trouble had been brewing in the store all evening, when Pablo Belarde made his appearance. He and his uncle got into a dispute over 10 cents which Antonio said that Pablo owed him. It is probable that both had been drinking, for they were soon heated for a fight. Those who were in the store at the time declare that Antonio would have shot his nephew then, had he not been prevented. The uncle had with him a revolver and made repeated threats to that effect. Pablo, who is a partial cripple, was knocked down, and then both men, wild with frenzy, started for their homes, which were near by, to get their guns, each threatening, it is alleged, to kill the other.

Before Pablo had emerged from his house Antonio was outside waiting for him with a Winchester rifle. The young wife of Pablo, almost overcome with fright, hastened into the darkness beseeching of the enraged man that he should not kill her husband. She says that she got in reply a threat not only to kill the one, but all of his family.

When Pablo appeared in the door, armed, the men faced each other, and the guns were discharged. It seems that a number of shots were fired before Pablo fell crying "I am shot." One of the bullets had entered his abdomen. The woman and three men witnessed the shooting.

A doctor was summoned. In the meantime Antonio made his escape and could not be found by the officers last evening. However, he surrendered this morning, a warrant for his arrest having been sworn to by Ramon Belarde, father of the injured man, and was arraigned before Justice Hanna. His preliminary examination was set for February 14.

The defendant was allowed his freedom at $1000 bail, for which his father and brother went security.

Pablo Belarde, Sr., the father of the accused, appeared in court this morning almost overcome as a result of the affair.

It is stated that this is not the first time that the young man who so narrowly escaped death last night has been in quarrels and fights.

POINTERS OF COLTON.

The Colton High School basketball team played its first league game of this season Saturday afternoon at Riverside with the team of that school. The score was 29 to 28 in favor of Riverside. N. Sanders is manager of the Colton team. The lineup follows: Guy Fitzgerrell, center; Guy Jordan and Warren Ward, forwards; Clarence Stone and John Paul, guards.

The rain which has been threatening for several days began to fall this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Luckenbuch of Los Angeles made a trip to Colton Sunday in their touring car and remained until today at the home of A. Lantz.

ISSUE BONDS FOR BEAR VALLEY.

MUTUAL COMPANY SO DECIDES AT REDLANDS.

Securities to Aggregate Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars; Six Hundred Thousand to be Used to Pay Debts, Balance to be Expended for Reservoir and Other Improvements.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

REDLANDS, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The stockholders of the Mutual Water Company this morning met here and unanimously voted bonds for $900,000 for the purpose of acquiring all water rights of the Bear Valley and New Bear Valley water companies. Of that sum $600,000 will go toward paying off the indebtedness, and $300,000 will be used in the construction of a reservoir in Santa Ana Cañon and laying pipe lines throughout the Redlands and Highland districts. Suit will be instituted immediately at Los Angeles by the Citizens' Savings and Trust Company of Cincinnati to foreclose the mortgage on the old water companies in order to allow the sale of the property to the Mutual Water Company.

The bonds are to bear 5 per cent. interest.

SURPRISE POKER PLAYERS.

Seven young men and boys, mostly employés of the local packing-houses, were gathered in by Officers Ferguson and Swisher at 2:30 o'clock this morning while engaged in playing poker. The game was going on in a shack near the Southern Pacific depot, which has been under surveillance for several days, and when the officers walked in upon the unsuspecting players, not only the participants, but the chips, pot and other accessories were taken, too. Each contributed $10 to Justice Gifford to warrant his appearance tomorrow afternoon for trial.

DYE BOUND OVER.

Ed. Dye, charged with attempting to burglarize the Fair Store Friday night and then running from the officer, came up before the justice today. Dye made an unsuccessful attempt to prove an alibi. He then attempted to prove that he was too drunk to run at that time. In this he failed to satisfy the justice and he was bound over to the Superior Court.

PEACE DOVE AND KISSES.

The dove of peace is against fluttering over the domicile of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Wayman, who only a few days ago were talking of separation, divorce and other unromantic sounding things. Mr. and Mrs. Wayman went down to San Bernardino Friday ostensibly to secure a legal separation. They were too late to see the necessary officials and so remained in the county seat all night. In the morning they again sought the proper officials, who told them that they did not seem to have the necessary grounds for a separation, whereupon they kissed and made up and later returned to Redlands, where they announced to their friends that they had decided to try it all over again. Mr. Wayman expects to sell his cigar store here and will join his wife, who has preceded him to Los Angeles, where they will make their future home.

VANDALS AT WORK.

The bodies of thirteen fine orange trees belonging to J. M. Donnell near town were stripped of bark last night by an unknown culprit. The trees are valued at $35 each.

NO USE FOR CHAPS NOW.

Wild Would-be Cowboy Rides Horse too Promiscuously in Fullerton.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Feb. 5.—Fred Launders, who tried to "shoot up" the city of Fullerton Saturday night, was sent to jail this morning for twenty days and fined $10 in the justice court.

He rode his horse into Kellerman's saloon and his next ride was into the billiard parlor. As he started to enter the Hotel Reception across the street on horseback he ran into the hands of City Marshal Ruddock who threw the rowdy into jail, after having a long tussle with him.

But the officer landed the "boozing" would-be cowboy and put him away for safe keeping for a few days at least.

ONTARIO.

CITY'S SIZE LARGER NOW.

ONTARIO, Feb. 5.—Now that the town has finally won its suit for incorporation it henceforth will be a city of fair proportions, extending for two miles south of the Southern Pacific Railway to three-quarters of a mile north of the Santa Fé Railway, which lies two miles north of the Southern Pacific, so that all three transcontinental railroads, the Santa Fé, the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake and their depots are now in the city of Ontario.

Ever since the enlargement of the city some three or four years ago, its area has been an uncertain quantity owing to the efforts of disaffected ones, who have ever since been trying to upset the incorporation proceedings on one pretext or another. These proceedings were finally carried up to the Supreme Court, which, according to a dispatch received from San Francisco, has sustained the decision of Judge Bledsoe of the Superior Court of San Bernardino county in favor of Ontario.

This decision causes a feeling of general satisfaction in this city, for it has been the cause of dissension and quarrels between Upland and this place.

SAN BERNARDINO.

CHILLY SLEEP AFTER WINE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Benjamin Smith slept in the bed of Lytle Creek all last night, having wandered from the city while under the influence of wine. Early yesterday afternoon a friend met him west of town, to whom he declared he was on his way home. The friend told him he was going in the opposite direction, and saw him to within a few steps of his residence. Smith became confused and again wandered off, falling in stupor in the wash twelve miles from town. A ranchman brought him to town. He is under a physician's care. His condition is serious.

ANAHEIM.

PROPERTY SALES NUMEROUS.

ANAHEIM, Feb. 5.—Mrs. W. R. Lawson of Los Angeles has sold her eighty-foot business lot on Center street, west of the Youngbluth-Kroeger building, to Hugo and Gus Strodthoff for a stated price of $6500. L. A. Evans has purchased from L. Nemetz a fifty-foot lot on Center street for a price reported to be $700. A Backs has sold to A. Brower seventeen acres near the city limits for a consideration reported as $1500. Judge Pierce has sold to Dr. W. W. Adams his residence property on Philadelphia street for $2000. Frank Baum has sold a residence lot in the Sunrise tract to William Schumacher, who will build a $2000 residence. Spake & McCullom, who purchased the seventy-five-foot business lot west of McCullom's for $7000, will at once erect a one-story brick building with a frontage of forty feet and 100 feet deep. Judge Pierce has commenced the erection of a $2000 residence on his property on West Broadway. L. R. Williams has begun the erection of a $2500 residence on East Center street. Frank Baum is having plans drawn for a $2500 two-story residence at the corner of Los Angeles and Adele streets. Judge Howard has let a contract for the erection of a business building 50x80 feet on South Los Angeles street.

RIVERSIDE.

DRIVING CLUB OFFICERS.

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 5.—At the annual election of the Riverside Driving Club the following officers and directors were chosen: President, Alexander Wilson; vice-president, M. S. Sutphen; secretary-treasurer, W. L. Flagg; directors, E. F. Binder, W. L. Flagg, Alexander Wilson, H. G. Stanley, Maurice Griffin, J. T. Garner and W. A. Hayt, all of Riverside; M. S. Sutphen and Frank Ogden, of Highgrove; Peter Beatty, of Perris, and George W. Prescott, of San Bernardino.

BREVITIES OF RIVERSIDE.

James McNare was today sentenced to two years in the penetentiary for the burglary of James Claffin's barn last Saturday morning at 2 o'clock.

Ross Smith of Los Angeles was fined $10 today for driving his automobile faster than the law allows. He nearly ran down the City Marshal who arrested him.

The rain here up to tonight has amounted to .44 of an inch.

At San Francisco, Judge De Haven passed sentence yesterday upon W. J. Wood, W. J. Woodside and E. S. R. De Smidt, convicted of seal poaching in connection with the Carmencita, commanded by Alexander McLean. Each of the three poachers must pay a fine of $500 and must remain in custody until it is paid.

SAN DIEGO.

SURRENDER OF CAMPBELL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 5.—F. M. Campbell, a warrant for whose arrest for alleged assault with a deadly weapon on M. D. Goodbody, excavation contractor of the Grant Hotel, was issued several days ago, has surrendered. Campbell says that Goodbody came at him with a brick, and that he defended himself as best he could. He declares that when he used the gun in striking Goodbody on the head that the contractor was on top of him. Campbell has put up a cash bond with the sheriff for his appearance in the lower court tomorrow.

An arrangement has been made between the San Diego Electric Railway Company, San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Light Company, and the Home and Sunset Telephone companies to use the same poles wherever possible, thus eliminating a large number of unnecessary poles.

Roscoe Howard, for several months manager of the local business of the Home Telephone Company, has been elected manager of the Puget Sound Construction Company. George B. Woodbridge is in charge of the business here.

Word has been received from Boston that a $100,000 block of San Diego school bonds offered by N. W. Harris & Co., is being well picked up by small investors, trustees of estates and trust funds. A representative of the company was in the city today to confer with the City Board of Education relative to the handling of the money from the issue.

The first raft of logs from Portland, Or., for the lumber plant to be installed at the foot of Twenty-second street, will arrive in August. It is claimed that the plan of rafting the logs from the Columbia River is entirely feasible, and that lumber can be produced at a smaller expense than is now being paid for dressed lumber, brought here in steam and sailing vessels.

Miss Tanner, a member of the faculty of the State Normal School, who was injured in the railroad wreck at Glendora, has been suffering severely from her injuries, and has been unable to attend the school.

Tom E. Rowan, the insurance agent, wanted here for alleged embezzlement, has been arrested in Tucson, Ariz. Rowan says that he will fight extradition proceedings.

THINK BODY IS DUNHAM'S.

Decomposed Corpse Found Below Bisbee Tallied With the Santa Clara Murderer.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Feb. 3.—There are people in Bisbee who believe that the decomposed body found a few days ago, near Silica below Bisbee, is that of James Dunham, the Santa Clara murderer, unsuccessfully sought for the past ten years. The dimensions and general appearance of the body are said to bear out the theory. It is known that Dunham lived for a while at Hermosillo, Sonora, and it is told, as well, that about four years ago he was recognized in Bisbee by an old-time friend while he was working on the building of the Copper Queen Hotel.

William Wright was crushed to death yesterday by the falling upon him of a mass of dirt and rock from the roof of a stope in which he was working, on the 800-foot level of the Spray shaft of the Copper Queen mine.

A desperate battle occurred Wednesday night in a Bisbee saloon between a lone barkeeper, Antonio Lescher, on the one side, and fully twenty Mexicans on the other. The barkeeper won. The Mexicans had become engaged in a desperate fight, when the barkeeper was heard telephoning for the police. Upon this the score, knives in hand, tried to escape, but were held up by Lescher. There was a general melee, in which revolvers and knives were exhibited, and used, but the gang was in reasonably good condition when the officers arrived and assisted the saloon-keeper in herding his capture to the lock-up.

Thirty Mexican immigrants, in an utterly destitute condition, have been returned to Mexico at Douglas, after being held for several weeks, pending inquiry into their condition. They attempted entry at Columbus, N. M., 144 miles east of Douglas, and will have to make their way to that point, where their wagons and horses and meager household effects are being held for them. Among the unwelcome immigrants thus thrust back across the border are a number of small children and several old and decrepit women.

The imports at the port of Douglas have become so large that a movement has been started to change the headquarters of the customs district from Nogales to Douglas. The main imports are ores and cattle.

Douglas has just dedicated a building for the uses of the Young Men's Christian Association, erected and furnished at a total cost of $35,000. The cost was subscribed by the citizens of Douglas, by the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad Company, and the Copper Queen and Calumet and Arizona mining companies. The work has had the most hearty support from President James Douglas of the Phelps-Dodge interests, who came from New York especially to be present at the dedication and to deliver an address upon the opening of the institution.

Bisbee is suffering from a epidemic of pneumonia, more than twenty cases being under treatment in the hospitals. Physicians charge the disease to general unsanitary conditions, aggravated by flying dust.

At Clifton a mysterious night prowler has smashed about all the windows in the business houses and thus far has escaped detection. It is plain that theft is not the object.

INVENTORIES WITHOUT RIOTS.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—A deputation of Liberal deputies of Paris today requested Premier Rouvier to suspend taking inventories of church property until the final regulations under the bill providing for separation of church and state are published. Rouvier, in replying, said that the law would take its normal course uninterruptedly. The inventories of several Paris churches were taken this afternoon without incident.

NOTICE

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC

Owing to the favorable criticism and many inquiries received by us from the medical profession and others interested regarding our statement that the so-called weakness of man is not a weakness, but symptoms of inflammation of the prostate gland (neck of the bladder) caused by contracted disorders and early dissipation, and the loss of vitality, prematureness, etc., are invariably cured by procedures directed toward correcting this inflammation, we wish to state to these many inquiries, in the columns of the press, that it takes approximately ten weeks to cure these disorders of the male. The treatment is entirely a local one, as no drugging of the stomach is necessary, and that the patient may treat himself at home under our directions. The effect of this treatment is not only gratifying, but immediate, and the patient is not discouraged by waiting too long for tangible results. We will cheerfully explain the treatment to any interested person on request.

OUR FEE $12.50

We Wait for Our Pay Until Patient is Cured.

We cure Varicocele, Hydrocele, Specific Blood Poison, Stricture, Piles, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and all Complicated and Chronic Diseases of MEN ONLY.

Contracted Disorders

Every case of contracted disorders we treat is thoroughly cured. Our patients have no relapses. When we pronounce a case cured, there is not a particle of infection or inflammation remaining, and there is not the slightest danger that the disease will return in its original form or work its way into the general system. No contracted disease is so trivial as to warrant uncertain methods of treatment, and we specially solicit those cases that other doctors have been unable to cure.

[NEWS REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.]

CEMETERY PLAN STIRS PEOPLE.

DISTRICT IN EAST PASADENA IS UP IN ARMS.

Project to Establish City of the Dead in Beautiful Residence Section Comes Forcibly to Light and Opponents Plan to Make a Bitter Fight Against it.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 21 South Raymond Avenue, Feb. 6.—The astonishing bit of news was spread about East Pasadena yesterday that a well-defined effort is being made to establish a cemetery at the southeast corner of San Marino avenue and East California street, fairly in the heart of a beautiful district that is devoted to residence purposes.

A petition signed by fifteen names was presented to the Board of Supervisors yesterday asking permission to establish a cemetery there. Announcement was made by the Supervisors that they will consider the matter at their session this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and at that time it is planned to present a counter petition signed by at least one hundred names. The strongest kind of a fight will be made to prevent the opening of the burial ground, as many of the residents of the east district are up in arms over the matter.

Not until yesterday morning did the matter become public. It is said that J. L. Rhodes, who is owner of twenty-and a-half acres at the southeast corner of San Marino avenue and East California street, has given an option on the property for a consideration stated to be $200, with the avowed purpose in view of transforming the acreage into a cemetery. Just who the prospective purchasers are is not definitely known, though it is said that Col. Hanna is one.

Some of the other property owners who are opposing the matter said last evening that they understand there are fifteen men in the deal, each of whom is to be a director and financial factor in launching the project, and it was also said that the fifteen names on the petition presented to the Supervisors were of those who are the prospective heads of the cemetery association. One of the fifteen is Harry Geohegan, the well-known merchant and Board of Trade man.

A year ago the Board of Supervisors passed an ordinance forbidding the establishment of any burial ground in certain portions of the rapidly-developing east district, but the exact area and meaning of this ruling now seems to be a matter of dispute. Some say that the ordinance only forbade the opening of burial grounds "adjacent" to any of the Huntington tracks, as it was well known that the Pacific Electric interests were desirous of "booming" the lands along their tracks that are devoted to residence purposes.

Pasadena has but one cemetery—Mountain View. This is in Altadena. A long warfare was waged in Altadena to shut it when the owner of the Mountain View Cemetery endeavored to carry the limits of the burial ground to the eastward. With the remarkable growth of the city and its suburbs there appears to be prospect of another place for those dead to rest, but naturally there is objection to having a new cemetery established in any residence district.

The Pasadena congregation of the Methodist Church have an acre in the newest district purchased for cemetery purposes, it is understood, and an effort is now being made to have the church exchange this property for some other more suitable locality.

Meanwhile the cemetery fight in the east suburb promises to grow in intensity.

SUGGEST LAWYER LEE.

At late hour last night the directors of the Board of Trade made public the recommendation of the five Pasadena men relative to the employment of legal counsel to give an opinion on the recent proceedings. The committee recommended that Henry T. Lee of Los Angeles, senior member of the firm of Lee, Scott, Bailey & Chase, be employed. The recommendation is for Mr. Lee personally and not for the firm as a whole.

The directors heartily approved the report and adjourned until 2:30 p.m. Monday to meet the committee and to act upon the various questions which will be presented to Maj. Lee for his opinion.

FLOWER SHOW.

At a meeting of the directors of the Board of Trade last night, announcement was made by a committee from the Pasadena Gardeners' Association that it has completed plans to give a floral show here for three days, April 1-3. Messrs. Hanson, Blake and Ward formed the committee that appeared before the directors last night and they explained the wonderful possibilities of a flower exhibit. In all of the blooms are at their best in the whole city and countryside a riot of colors and sweet perfume. It is planned to have the show in the Y.M.C.A. Auditorium. The directors of the Board of Trade gave the plan their hearty endorsement.

Another matter of much importance was brought to the attention of the directors. In a written communication from Halstead stated that the two electric companies and the Wells-Fargo Express Company refuse to deliver boxes or packages outside of the city limit unless additional payment is made. It was intimated that one of these companies had no legal right to demand this extra charge, but that even if they have their action is apt to be cut again, it is said that one that conduces towards the welfare or good name of the city. A committee was appointed as chairman of a committee to investigate the matter and the managers of the respective companies will be invited to appear before the directors of the Board of Trade to discuss the charges of the mile limit. Efforts will be made to have all but regular trains avoided within the city limits.

ARRESTS ARE MADE.

Constable Welch of San Gabriel came over to Pasadena yesterday and served warrants upon the six men connected with the Oak Knoll ranch who were charged with cruelty to animals. One of the said last night that all went to the San Gabriel and appeared in court there and pleaded not guilty. The men under arrest are Macy, one of the vice-presidents of the humane society, Walter Gillette, secretary, Marcus A. Hall, of the firm of R. B. Staats Company, C. C. Hall, former Superintendent of the ranch, and two workmen employed at Oak Knoll. Their hearing will be held next week. An odd circumstance is that yesterday in the Superior court in Los Angeles, where Walter Simons, attorney for the Humane officials, and Attorney E. L. Conger and Vice-President Lloyd Macy of the Humane society had all been summoned as witnesses in civil cases.

Macy arose and told the judge that inasmuch as he was under arrest on charges of the Pasadena Humane society he did't think he ought to serve as a juror. Mr. Macy said he didn't think he ought to serve inasmuch as he is a deputy sheriff, and Dr. Conger said he believed he should not serve because he is president of the Pasadena Humane Society. Judge Wilbur saw the humor of the situation and excused all three.

HUNT CLUB THEATRICALS.

The members of the Valley Hunt Club and some of their friends will be entertained Saturday evening at the clubhouse with private theatricals which will be followed by dancing. Two plays will be given, the first entitled "Wayward," for which the cast will be Mr. Mansfield, Frank Miller; Frank Mansfield, his nephew, Mr. McDonnald; Dorothy, his ward, Miss Sinclair; Patty, the maid, Miss Bessie Reynolds. "The Economical Boomerang" will follow, in which Mr. and Mrs. Babbleton will be impersonated by Harry Mellon and Maud Dagget; Mr. and Mrs. Clover by Mr. E. J. Pyle and Miss Rowland; the doctor, by Dr. Lockwood; and the maid by Miss Carol Barber. More than one hundred invitations have been extended to other than club members, making the gathering one of the largest of the social season.

Incidental to the charity ball, there will be several dinner parties Thursday evening at Hotel Green, but the largest and most elegantly appointed will be that given by Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cravens in the colonial dining-room, to which twenty-eight of the smart set have been bidden. Flowers have been ordered from San Francisco and all the appointments will be upon a magnificent scale.

WHO CUT THE WIRE?

A short time ago the government's telephone wire that runs up the old trail on Mt. Wilson was cut and a part of it, about sixty feet long, carried away. Yesterday it was whispered about, sub rosa, that P. J. McNally, the well-known realty dealer, is suspected of having cut the wire and that Oscar Lawler, the United States District Attorney, has notified Mr. McNally that he is liable to arrest and imprisonment. Under the Federal laws the minimum penalty for cutting a government wire provides for both imprisonment and a heavy fine. But that is only one side of the story. The other is that Mr. McNally is laughing in his sleeve.

The telephone wire passing up the old trail to Mt. Wilson crosses private lands leased by Mr. McNally. He avers that he was perfectly willing to permit the United States government to maintain the 'phone service as long as it was used for Federal or forestry business alone, but it is asserted that some of the business rivals of Mr. McNally have used the wire practically exclusively and to his business detriment. Mr. McNally admitted yesterday that after formally warning the Federal representatives to take the wire from his premises, they paid no attention to his statements. Mr. McNally's lawyers have again notified Dist.-Atty. Lawler of his rights and position in the matter. Unless all signs fail, the wire is apt to be cut again, it is said.

REDONDO.

GRADER IS FOUND DEAD.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

REDONDO, Feb. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Henry James, employed at the Huntington grading camp, south of town, was found dead Sunday. He was seen in the morning apparently well. When the noon meal was announced some one went to call the man at his tent, and discovered him lifeless. The Coroner's jury in the afternoon returned a verdict of death by valvular disease of the heart.

James, who had the appearance of a Swede, came here only a few days ago. His age was about 45. A letter was found in his pocket addressed to him at Santa Monica. Beyond that little is known of him here.

BOOM DRAWS CROWD.

A crowd came down from Los Angeles Sunday to look at the lots offered in the tract recently opened north of town, over which there has been something of a boom.

BEATS CARRIE, THIS GIRL.

Temperance Missionary at San Pedro, While Drunk, Smashes Saloon Mirror.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 5.—Mrs. May Bradford, a local missionary, is in the City Jail, on a charge of disturbing the peace. Early this morning she did the Carrie Nation act in the Orient saloon, on First street, but it was done not because the Orient sold whisky, but because the man behind the bar would not sell whisky to May Bradford.

For several months May has gotten her missionary fervor for the souls of wayward sailors sadly mixed with her love of strong drink. Every evening early she would appear upon the streets and harangue the crowd upon the evils of intemperance, and, after her duty had been performed in that regard, she would proceed to consume as much of the proscribed brew as she could, before the hour of closing at midnight had arrived. She has often been treated by local physicians for her weakness.

Last night, according to the story of the local police, May was unusually thirsty, and still carrying her Bible to assist in saving some chance sailor from a drunkard's grave, wound up her chameleon career for the evening in the Orient saloon.

The proprietor took her to a room in a local lodging-house, and she was put to bed. This morning bright and early she again appeared at the Orient and demanded her morning's eye-opener, the same as any other good old toper. Being refused, she proceeded to wreck all the available glassware in sight, and even tempted the goddess of ill-luck by smashing a mirror. Her arrest followed, and she is still sleeping over it in the City Jail.

WHO WANTS THIS JOB?

HERE IS A CHANCE TO CARRY SOLDIERS' HOME MAIL.

Thirty Cents a Day for the Man Who is Willing to Give Ten Hours' Steady Service in Each Twenty-four—Bus Man Quits Conveying Pouches.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Feb. 5.—A "star route" squabble is now on at the home. C. H. Tibbitts, owner of the 'bus line that for years has carried passenger traffic between Soldiers' Home and Sawtelle, and who incidentally carried the mail pouches, under contract, between these points, leased his 'bus route to Tom Gulliver about November 1 and gave notice to the Postoffice Department of his intention to give up the mail route. Gulliver, the lessee, as nothing had been done by the postal authorities, good naturedly continued the service, but on the first of December of last year gave notice that he would cease to convey the mail after thirty days unless a bid for $30 per month, which he put in, was favorably considered. The postoffice authorities had advertised for bids, but could not see their way to giving the $30 demanded by the manager of the 'bus line.

The first of January came and Gulliver had had no word from the postoffice people, but, as other provisions had not yet been made, extended the time for his quitting until February 1.

In the meantime he learned that Chief Moore of the railway postal service here had announced that not more than $10 could be allowed for the route.

On February 1, no available bidder had appeared, and the 'bus owner promptly gave up the delivery of the mail. In consequence of this, the postmaster at the home is obliged, now, to personally convey the early (6:30 o'clock) morning mail to Sawtelle in a hand cart. Later in the day, he makes use of the Los Angeles-Pacific Railroad, which has its terminus at the rear door of the postoffice.

There are five mails sent and five mails received daily at the postoffice, the earliest going out at 6:30 a.m. The latest is due here at 6:30 p.m. The intermediate mails break into the day so as to necessitate a full day's work of twelve hours. The distance to Sawtelle is over a mile, hence, at $10 per month, this would afford the holder of the contract the munificent sum of a fraction over 3 cents per trip, or a trifle over 30 cents a day for twelve hours' time.

Some bidder may be found who will undertake this, but the commonly expressed opinion is he will not prove reliable after the novelty shall have ceased.

OCEAN PARK.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

OCEAN PARK, Feb. 5.—Burglars last night made a neat haul on the pier by entering Oscar Anderson's cigar store and appropriating about $100 worth of cigars. The store front consists of wire netting, the swinging doors being held together by a padlock. This was torn off and thrown upon the sand.

A burglary was also attempted at the Wallace Jones residence on Paloma avenue, but neighbors heard the intruder and frightened him away before he succeeded in entering the house.

SELL BONDS ANOTHER WAY.

An issue of bonds in the sum of $50,000 was voted a few weeks ago and when they were advertised for sale the bids received were not satisfactory to the City Trustees. The bidders were so parsimonious in their offers of a premium that the Trustees rejected them all and decided that it would be to the best interests of the city to sell the bonds to private individuals or corporations. The funds are needed for the extension of the sewer system, erection of public buildings, building of a garbage incinerator and for other public utilities and it is desirable that disposition be made of them without delay.

OCEAN PARK BLASTS.

VENICE.

CANAL CITY RIPPLES.

VENICE, Feb. 5.—The Los Angeles-Pacific electric line had its hands and cars full yesterday handling the crowds that were attracted to this beach to attend services on the Midway or commune with the creations of the old masters in the Venetian gardens. The throng gave the beach the appearance of a Sunday in the good old summer time. The foreign exhibits building was thrown open, and the European and oriental treasures were viewed by uncounted hundreds.

Work is progressing on the foundations for the dancing pavilion, which will add materially to the attractions already clustering about the Windward-avenue pier.

The 650-room bath-house and salt plunge are practically completed and will be dedicated with becoming honors at an early day. The date of the Southern California Editorial Association's beach picnic has been suggested as an auspicious time and would doubtless be chosen if the management had assurance that the scissors-wielders would not consider it a personal affront.

D. C. McKinnon of Brandon, Man., is spending some time on the beach with Canadian friends.

J. E. Storey is here from Chicago for a stay of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Osborne of Santa Ana are guests of the beach for a short time.

LONG BEACH.

TRAIN SMASHES BUGGY.

LONG BEACH, Feb. 5.—Capt. Schiaffino came over from Wilmington on business today, and driving along Second street, attempted to turn into Locust, when his horse became frightened and backed the buggy into an approaching Southern Pacific train. Both wheels were broken off and Schiaffino dropped into the street, escaping with minor injuries. Schiaffino returned home on horseback.

SEASHORE BREAKERS.

The gasoline motor car of the Southern Pacific began service on the Long Beach line this morning. A regular schedule of three trips a day each way will be established.

E. P. Dewey, for several years assistant City Engineer, this morning resigned to engage in mercantile business.

John Lee of Los Angeles reported to the police yesterday that a diamond was nipped from his cravat yesterday evening at the Pacific Electric station.

The third benefit concert under the Chamber of Commerce auspices was given at the Auditorium tonight and the Orpheum Club of Los Angeles and the Royal Italian Band delighted a large audience.

WHITTIER.

AGED CITIZEN HONORED.

WHITTIER, Feb. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pickett of Hotel Greenleaf entertained half a hundred friends Saturday noon in honor of the eightieth birthday of Simeon Brownell. Since coming to Whittier a little more than a year ago this venerable gentleman has become a familiar figure on the streets, and is beloved by the citizens generally for his benevolence. Mr. Brownell was remembered with many beautiful floral gifts. Mayor Trueblood and other prominent citizens gave toasts, speaking in high terms of the honored guest.

Sunday afternoon funeral services for Edgar S. Jordan were held at the Congregational Church. Rev. Edwards conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Mahlon Perry of the Friends Church.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Women's Club will be held at the college Wednesday afternoon. The subject will be "Art and Travel," under the leadership of Miss Emilie Hadley, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Tebbetts. Both ladies have recently returned from an extended European tour. The hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. G. H. Woodruff and Miss Clara Howard.

DANIELS-BORTHICK.

TROPICO, Feb. 5.—The marriage of Miss Nona Borthick and Edward K. Daniels took place at the home of the bride's father, S. L. Borthick, on Park avenue, Saturday evening, with only the immediate relatives present. Rev. John Pittenger of the Tropico Methodist Church officiated. The bride wore a tailored gown of blue broadcloth, with hat and gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, after a brief honeymoon trip, will reside in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Shaver of Bearville, Ark., who are guests of their brother, George Miller, have taken apartments at N. C. Burch's villa, "Twin Pines," for the remainder of the winter.

Miss Mildred Ayres has returned from a ten days' visit to Westminster.

In miscellaneous stocks, Los Angeles Home, 64 bid, a fractional decline, 65.75 asked; also a slight decline; Pasadena Home, 27½ bid, a slight advance, 29½ asked; Riverside Home, 50 bid, 52 asked; San Bruno, 35 bid, a fractional advance of 50c, 39 asked, an advance of 1½ points.

Local bank clearings were large, at $1,871,149.02, nearly $600,000 more than a year ago and nearly $800,000 more than two years ago.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Monday's trading at the produce market was of fair proportions and prices were uniformly firm, with the exception of local ranch eggs, which declined on account of the arrival of a carload of fresh eastern eggs. The quality of the eastern shipment surpasses any that has been sent to this market in a long time, and it is reported that a great many were sold as local ranch eggs owing to their superior quality.

Fancy butter met good demand and more movement was reported in all the upper grades; prices for the same were well sustained. The lower grades ranged about as before. Cheese was quiet and easy for the coast product and firm for the eastern.

Dullness was the general complaint in all quarters of the fruit market, trading being restricted to small routine wants of jobbers. Oranges were as previously quoted, large sizes being scarce and firm at outside prices while small fruit was in oversupply and weak at uneven values. One carload of fancy navels came in from Covina. Strawberries are scarce and now bring $2 per hundredweight.

General offerings of the miscellaneous kinds of vegetables were in moderate supply. Peas were weaker at 6½@7c. The market is burdened with the poorer grades of cabbage, which has caused a weakening of the better stocks; the price now quoted is 75@90c per sack. Supplies of fresh celery was scarce.

Large fish, lobsters and crabs were plentiful, but small fish and wild game were in light receipt.

The receipts of produce as reported at yesterday's exchange for Saturday and Sunday were as follows: Eggs, 3200 cases; butter, 1850 lbs.; potatoes, 2041 sacks; onions, none; beans, 445 sacks; sweet potatoes, none.

Prices Current.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The most striking feature of the stock market was the decrease in the rate of activity. It is many weeks since the aggregate dealings for a day have fallen much below the million shares mark. The total sales today were about one million shares. Half the day's business was done during the first hour. The reason for the falling off was clear enough—the completion of necessitous selling, so far as was immediately urgent, and a distinct inclination to renew any large buying. There was a lively selling movement during the course of the first hour, which was natural enough in view of the unsettling effect of the break in prices on Saturday. When the dullness of the market gave notice that selling pressure was subsiding, there was a slow upward swing, which became more languid the higher the level of prices reached. The outlook for a settlement of the wage dispute among the coal miners was regarded generally as discouraging, and speculative sentiment was inclined to take it for granted that a strike would occur. The anthracite coal carriers were equally weak with the bituminous group, reflecting the fears that the labor trouble, while inaugurated among the soft-coal miners, would involve also the anthracite regions. Speculation was inclined to halt or to proceed with caution. The failure of confirmation of the many rumors of important deals proves trying to the speculative temper, owing to the very large share played by such rumors in the most aggressive advances of the recent past. The prospects of the money market also are regarded as not calculated to foster an active speculation. The inauguration of an outgo of gold is generally expected to occur later, and to report considerable proportions. The small engagement today for shipment to South America is evidence of the control of a gold supply in this market by foreign bankers. Meantime the credit requirements are expanding the loan department of the banks, and the influx of cash from the interior is likely to become less as the season advances. Sub-treasury operations also continue to make large inroads on the supplies of the banks. The Wabash and the Harriman Pacific made good showings of net earnings today. Attention is called to the fact that since the first of the year the new bond issues have reached the sum of nearly $100,000,000, of which nearly $60,000,000 are railroad issues. The demands thus indicated upon capital throw light upon the course of the loan item of the banks. The Hill roads made ready headway against depression, and Harriman Pacifics were helped by their December earnings and by the report that Union Pacific had acquired control of Illinois Central. The recovery in the general list was at no time complete, and met subsequent reactions. The closing tone was rather easy, but much below the best point of the day. Bonds were heavy, total sales par value, $1,000,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

NOTE.—Japanese bonds have been listed at the Stock Exchange, and will be quoted hereafter in bond list in place of Japan 4½ certificates.

NECESSITIES ARE THE BEST

DIVIDEND-MAKERS

The greatest necessity is food; the greatest food is beef.

In order to raise beef there must be land—grazing land, to be more specific.

The land is valuable as it is in proximity to market and to a great and growing city.

Grazing land is becoming scarce in Southern California, where irrigation, the expansion of intensive farming and the increase in population are rapidly diverting it to other purposes. What remains increases in value every year. The American-Mexican Cattle Company

Owns outright 12,000 acres of grazing land, inclosed by a three-wire fence, in the Antelope Valley, Los Angeles County

On this land are grazing 1800 head of fine Hereford cattle, also owned outright by the Company, whose assets are thus based on two of the greatest necessities,

BEEF AND LAND

The Company is capitalized at $250,000, in shares of $100 each. Its property is easily worth today $175,000. or $70 A SHARE.

At the banquet given last week by California commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion at San Francisco, Maj.-Gen. S. S. Sumner, U.S.A., who first drew his sword in April, 1861, and has been in the army ever since, said in speaking to "The Army" that what is most needed at this time is an adequate force upon which the government could draw to add to the regular army in case of need. He said there is the President's power to call for volunteers, but that does not produce trained soldiers; then, he said, there is the National Guard of the States and Territories, but the aggregate force of these is not sufficient to make up such an army as might be required under present conditions.

DEAL ON TO SELL VENICE.

"Wide Open" Sporting Town Said to be in Wind.

"Doge" Kinney is Reported Anxious to Get Out.

Owner's Secretary Says Place Is up for Sale.

Negotiations are on for the purchase of Venice. W. R. Wheat, secretary of the Abbot Kinney Company, is authority for the statement that the place is on the market. The price is $2,000,000.

An eastern syndicate is said to be figuring on a bid for the town Kinney desires to sell. The Venice people will not tell who any of the men interested in the syndicate are.

It is said Kinney declares he has expended $1,500,000 on the concern by the sea, and with the value of the land the figure is raised another $500,000. The Doge of Venice wants his money back.

If the sale is closed, Kinney will withdraw entirely from the venture, which is said to have caused him severe aches and pains because of the small returns from the large sums poured into the "monument" to himself.

There is every reason to believe the place will become a "wide-open" sporting resort if the sale is consummated, as Abe Levy, chief promoter of the famous Pilgrims' Club at Santa Catalina, which always has the most guests during the Ascot racing season, has jealous eyes on the place.

Canals, ship hotel, the Midway and the sand lots will go, and friends say the Doge will be glad to part with his costly holdings.

Opposition fierce and strong has butted the Doge from pillar to post. So strong has this opposition been that Kinney desires to flee from the consiant "knocking."

Morris Levy, the San Francisco prize-fight promoter, is in Los Angeles, and it is thought that the visit of the northern pistic manager is a step toward corralling all the "sporting" interests at Venice, with a view to making a wide—very wide open—town on the ocean strand.

Those who are up to snuff on local sporting affairs are confident the deal will go through, and they expect a new sporting town will be developed.

It is an open secret that prize-fight managers of San Francisco have a burning ambition to control the whole Coast in the management of pugilistic affairs. It is also said that they are so manipulating affairs of the ring that they hope to be able to cut down the percentage of gate receipts given the men who stand up and thump each other.

In other words, it is claimed that there is an effort to bring about a powerful "trust" in the handling of prize fights, as grasping in its field as is the theatrical trust, and they do say that the present visit of Morris Levy to Los Angeles is to help along this project.

Another rumor is to the effect that Arcadia has been under consideration as the headquarters for the "trust" listic events in Southern California; but that within the past two days this plan has been definitely turned down, and that Venice is now the desired point—provided it is sold by Kinney to the "wide-open" town promoters.

There are also those who declare that new interests could control the municipality of Ocean Park, or, in case of failure to do this, that a new municipal incorporation might be effected to include the Venice section of Ocean Park.

"BUYERS" HAVE MUCH COIN.

In a statement last night, Secretary Wheat said:

"There is no need of my denying the fact that Venice is up for sale. I cannot say just who the parties are who now are figuring on a bid for the place. There are large interests involved and those who desire to buy have plenty of money.

"The place will become an amusement resort if the deal now under way is closed. Abbot Kinney, of course, will handle the details of the sale. He has spent a vast sum on Venice. The price will be not less than $2,000,000."

Venice was started with the idea that the place was to become the Chautauqua of the Pacific Coast. Lecturers from all over the country were invited to speak in the assembly. Symphony concerts, grand opera, intellectual treats of many sorts were planned for the city by the sea.

The attempt to make a Chautauqua of the place failed miserably. The pavilion was deserted on lecture days. Audiences of from five to seven persons greeted the speaker time and again.

B. Fay Mills attempted to instill new life into the project and arranged for a series of lectures. He met with little or no success and could not draw the crowds. The public was not interested in oriental mysteries.

Then it was that the Doge became fearful. The latest move is the proposed sale and consequent metamorphosis of the erstwhile Chautauqua into a prize-fighters' paradise.

RAILROAD TO SAN PEDRO?

Articles of incorporation of the Pacific and Gulf Terminal Railroad Co. were filed in San Francisco yesterday by M. E. Rives, John A. Crawford, Charles T. Crawford, D. A. Sutherland and Sylvain J. Lazarus. It was stated that it is the purpose of the company to construct a road from San Pedro to Los Angeles, a distance of twenty-five miles. The capital stock of the corporation is $1,500,000, of which $25,004 has been subscribed.

"H. M. S. PINAFORE" BY SENIOR B'S.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS TO GIVE MERRY MUSICAL PLAY.

Clever Amateur Talent Will Present the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Tomorrow at the Belasco, but 'Twill be Only Part of the Class Day Events—Some Surprises Promised.

Members of the senior B class of the Los Angeles High School will present the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," at the Belasco Theater tomorrow afternoon. Following the play, class songs will be given, and "joshes" will be sprung on the graduate members of the senior A class. Participants in the play have been rehearsing diligently, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Parsons.

The roles are to be taken by some of the best talent in the school, being chosen from among a class of 140 students.

The part of Admiral Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., will be taken by Hiram M. Sholes, a versatile amateur. Harry Welfer will appear as Capt. Corcoran. The leading character, that of Ralph Rackstraw, will be assumed by Carl Crandall, who, in this difficult part, will not have much trouble in the portrayal of a bluff sailor in love with his captain's daughter.

One of the best characters in the opera will be Dick Deadeye, by Horace Donnell. Sidney Moise, the president of the class, will be "the boatswain."

The leading lady's part, that of Josephine Corcoran, will be assumed by Miss Helen Myers, who is possessed of a beautiful voice. She is fair to look upon. Hebe, Sir Joseph's cousin, will be played by Miss Maude Howell. Miss Howell is considered one of the best elocutionists in the school and is expected to score a success in the part allotted to her.

Little Buttercup, perhaps one of the hardest parts in the cast, will be taken by Miss May Scott, a diminutive little miss with winning ways, who, besides having a sweet voice, has a most sunny disposition, which will lend quite a charm to the play in her original character of the "bum boat woman."

Senior B's of High School in Costume for Class Day Play, "Pinafore."
